

Harrison Says New Tax Law Is Necessary

Tells Roosevelt Undistributed Profits Tax Must Be Killed To Remove Harm to Business

Proposes Flat Rate of 18 Per Cent Be Imposed on Higher Bracketed Corporations

Washington, May 15 (AP)—Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the Senate Finance Committee was reported tonight to have told President Roosevelt that the undistributed profits tax must be killed at this session of Congress to remove a prime impediment to business recovery.

Adopting an aggressive attitude at a general White House conference on tax revision, Harrison proposed that a flat rate of 18 percent be imposed on higher-bracket corporation incomes, and asserted that the House did nothing about it, he would see to it that the Senate did.

The meeting, attended by Harrison, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the House Ways and Means Committee, Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn) of the latter's subcommittee on taxes, Secretary Morgenthau and Undersecretary John W. Hanes of the treasury produced, Doughton said, much difference of opinion.

No Agreement Reached
No agreement was reached Doughton told reporters, and further conferences will be held. But, he added:

"We will have some kind of a tax bill, of course. What changes will be made I am unable to say."

The meeting was the result of much clamor in and out of Congress for a revision of the revenue schedules which would remove taxes which some consider to be retarding business recovery. Another reason was that unless congressional action is taken, taxes yielding the government a large part of its revenues will expire by the end of the year.

The present law imposes an income of 12 1/2 percent on small corporations, with the rate advancing to 16 percent as the income increases to a maximum of $25,000. Corporations with an income of more than $25,000 are subjected to the undistributed profits tax. Under this they pay 16 percent if all their profits are disbursed as dividends to the stock holders, and 19 percent if all profits are retained in the corporate treasury. A partial disbursement in dividends calls for rates between 16 1/2 and 19 percent. Unless continued by Congress this tax will die on Dec. 31.

1936 Tax Modified

The tax, in a much more drastic form, was enacted in 1936. A year ago it was modified to its present form.

Congressional tax leaders, notably Harrison, have been calling for the abandonment of the tax, but at the same time have agreed with President Roosevelt that the treasury should suffer no loss of revenues at this time, and that if any taxes are repealed others must be imposed.

With this in mind, it was proposed today that the undistributed profits tax be allowed to die, and that in its place a flat rate of 18 percent be imposed on the corporation income in excess of $25,000.

Mr. Roosevelt has contended that the undistributed profits tax plugs legal loopholes by which some wealthy businessmen have managed to avoid tax payments.

Barbers Call for Boycott of All Non-Union Shops

Maryland-District of Columbia Group Addressed by Walsh

Hagerstown, Md., May 15 (AP)—A call for wider unionization of state barbers by boycotting unorganized shops was sounded today at the opening of the thirty-fourth convention of the Maryland-District of Columbia Federation of Labor.

A resolution asking members to patronize only those barber shops which display union cards was unanimously passed while a half dozen others were shelved for further consideration.

Emphasis given the barber resolution was marked because not a barber shop in Hagerstown is a member of the union.

Joseph P. McCurdy, federation president, told the 275 delegates he favored a thorough investigation into some employers of vocational school graduates because of reports the young craftsmen were being "exploited."

Some employers hiring vocational school graduates, McCurdy said, had attempted to break down the standards built up by the labor federation.

Attorney General Speaks
Attorney General William C. Walsh called upon the federation to "keep your ranks free of foreign 'isms' and carry on the labor movement in the American way."

Walsh said he had served as counsel to both sides in labor controversies and knew from experience that "differences always can be solved around the conference table."

The Rev. Father J. P. Cronin, professor of economics at St. Mary's seminary, warned delegates that "unless the problem of unemployment in America is solved, we may lead to the path of Berlin and Russia."

Chandler Scored By John L. Lewis As Foe of Labor

CIO Chief Charges Governor Is Seeking Revenge

WANTS U. S. PROBE OF SITUATION IN HARLAN

Protests Against Blocking of Roads Against Union Miners

Philadelphia, May 15 (AP)—John L. Lewis threw down the gauntlet again tonight to Kentucky soft coal operators and declared he believed "there's an obligation on the part of the federal government to ascertain" what is happening in Harlan county.

Addressing a national convention of the United Textile Workers of America, the Congress for Industrial Organization and United Mine Workers chieftain declared:

"I said in New York that soldiers and guns and troops will not mine coal in America—and that the time has gone by when men could be shot back into the mines."

Assails Chandler
"It will take more than a Chandler to stop the onward march of the mine workers or organized labor in this country."

"If this madman in Kentucky doesn't restrain his lust for vengeance, then I think there should be some authority in this country that will restrain him."

Lewis declared that Governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler, Kentucky governor who summoned the militia on Sunday to stand guard while Harlan county mines were reopened, was actuated primarily by a desire for vengeance against the CIO, which opposed him. Lewis said, as a candidate for the U. S. Senate last fall.

The Kentucky operators held out when others signed new agreements with the United Mine Workers in New York last week.

Lewis told of going to Kentucky to address a rally of miners at the opening of Chandler's campaign for governor. Chandler promised then, Lewis declared, never to forget "what the United Mine Workers did for him."

Claims Governor Two-Sided
But Chandler went directly from a conference with Lewis and other mine union officials, Lewis asserted, to a "secret rendezvous" with the Harlan county operators and made with them what the CIO leader called "a dishonorable deal."

Lewis added:

"Happy Chandler became known as a foe of labor. And when he was running for the Senate, the miners voted for Senator Barkley."

"So Happy Chandler is angry—and he has a lust for vengeance. He is using his power to appease that lust."

"He has ordered the militia to block the highways around the mines. It is impossible for us to know what is happening to the miners within that cordon of troops."

"I believe there's an obligation on the part of the federal government to ascertain what Happy Chandler is doing with those troops in Kentucky."

Bergdoll Barred From Returning

Washington, May 15 (AP)—By unanimous action, the House voted today to keep Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, convicted world war draft dodger, out of the United States.

It sent along to the Senate a bill to forbid reentry into this country, either temporarily or permanently, of any individual who was convicted of desertion from the United States' armed forces during war time, and who went to a foreign country to escape punishment.

Neither in the bill nor during its House consideration was Bergdoll mentioned. But Representative Harness (R-Ind) introduced the legislation with the idea of blocking repatriation of Bergdoll.

Bergdoll's case made headlines for years. A wealthy Philadelphiaian, he was convicted of being a slacker, but fled to Germany shortly after the war.

Members of his family announced recently that he planned to return to the United States to serve out his five-year sentence.

Carl Backman, described by U. S. Airways Observer James Dinegan as slim, blonde and "about 27 years old," had 160 gallons of gasoline, no radio, a few sandwiches and a bottle of coffee when he hoped from Bangor airport at 7:45 a. m. (E. S. T.) in a tiny "monocoupe."

Russia Said To Have Rejected Britain's Offer

Soviet Believed Against Terms for United Front

(By The Associated Press)

London, May 15.—Soviet Russia was reported reliably tonight to have refused in a note to London to join the British-French front on Britain's terms, but British officials said they were confident of winning Russia's support eventually.

Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, plans to try to iron out the differences between London and Moscow in conversations next week with French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet and Vladimir P. Potemkin, Russia's first assistant foreign commissar.

All three will be in Geneva to represent their governments at the League of Nations council meeting starting Monday, May 22.

Britain, holder of a League of Nations mandate over Palestine, also may put her new plan for the Holy Land before the council next week.

Chamberlain Plans Statement

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that a white paper, or government statement, on Palestine would be issued Wednesday at 7 p. m. (1 p. m. EST) and that there would be one day of debate.

The Soviet reply to the British proposal was received at the foreign office and was passed on to the French government.

Britain had suggested that Russia promise to fight, if asked, for Poland and Rumania should their independence be menaced and Britain and France go first to their aid. This was a counter proposal to Moscow's suggestion that Russia, Britain and France form a reciprocal military alliance and then guarantee the independence of all states in eastern Europe.

Russia May Reconsider

Officials said Russia's answer was drafted before the British-Turkish mutual assistance agreement was announced Friday and indications of support in Moscow for that accord encouraged foreign office hope that it might moderate the Russian attitude toward the British plan.

Diplomatic quarters said Russia was insisting on British-French guarantees of Estonia and Latvia as well as British-French-Russian military staff talks. The Russian view was said to be that under the British plan the Soviet union could be attacked through Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia and Britain would not be obligated to aid the defense.

Chamberlain was expected to take up British-Russian relations again in a foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons next Friday.

Roosevelt Scored for Proposal To Buy Argentine Beef for Navy

Members of Both House and Senate Protest Vigorously

Washington, May 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt's order to buy Argentine canned beef for the navy evoked fierce criticism in Congress today and brought demands for congressional investigation.

Representative Allen (R-Ill) introduced a resolution calling for an inquiry into a prospective navy department purchase of 48,000 pounds of the Argentine product, and Rep. Mundt (R-SD), demanded to know whether the "buy American" act had been violated, offered a bill to require federal agencies to "buy

Potter D. Palmer Dies after Fight With a Young Man

KENNETH NOSWORTHY ADMITS HARD BLOW

But Says He Struck Only after Potter Attacked Him

Sarasota, Fla., May 15 (AP)—Potter D. Orsay Palmer died in a hospital here today shortly after Sheriff C. J. Hutches said Kenneth Nosworthy, a young meat cutter, had acknowledged striking the off-married Chicago heir at a picnic last week.

Palmer died at 5:30 p. m. from a cerebral hemorrhage which Dr. David Kennedy said was caused by a "terrific blow" on the head. He was brought to the hospital Saturday.

The sheriff quoted Nosworthy as saying the 34-year old playboy heir to the Chicago Palmer fortune taunted him, finally attacking him. After Nosworthy hit him with his fist, Palmer fell, dragging the young meat cutter down with him. Then, said Nosworthy, Palmer attempted to wield a bottle.

Grand Jury To Act

Assistant State's Attorney W. M. Smiley said tonight the Manatee county grand jury, now in recess, would be called into session to investigate the affair.

It could not be learned tonight if Palmer made any statement before his death. The two men were attending a barbecue picnic given by the Bradenton Junior Chamber of Commerce to raise funds for the city's police radio system. It was a stag affair.

Palmer's condition was not disclosed until today when Dr. David R. Kennedy announced the young heir's condition was critical. He had been taken to a hospital here Saturday.

Nosworthy, about 28, was not detained following his statement to today and had not been arrested earlier tonight. The sheriff said Nosworthy came to his office voluntarily.

Palmer's attractive fourth wife, the former Pluma Louise Lowery Abatiello, a former waitress, was at the hospital throughout the day as were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Honore Palmer.

Recently Reconciled

The younger Palmers effected a reconciliation only two weeks ago after a separation in which she sued him for separate maintenance and his parents for $300,000 charging alienation of affections.

At his surprise fourth wedding last May Palmer gave his age as 34 and his bride's as 23. He had been divorced the same week by socially-prominent Polly Warren of New York. His first marriage in 1928, was to Eleanor Goldsmith, Bradenton High school girl, and his second in 1929, to Marie Martinez De Hoz, Argentine beauty.

Three Get Life In Murder Case

Pittsburgh, May 15 (AP)—A 21-year old youth who admitted firing a "dum dum" bullet into the heart of a confectioner, during a holdup, and two others who accompanied him, were sentenced to life today in the Western penitentiary.

The slayer, James Barnett, and his companions, Howard E. Boyle, 19, and Richard Groter, 19, pleaded guilty to murder and visiting Judge W. Walter Braham, of New Castle, fixed the penalty after hearing testimony.

Testimony showed the confectioner, Martin Fink, 44, of Turtle Creek, grabbed a pistol which Boyle had drawn on him and that Barnett then fired.

Definite Break in Ranks of Operators Predicted at Harlan

POISON RING CHIEF!

Joseph Peppe (above), small-time politician, was held in Philadelphia, Pa., as an alleged leader of the notorious murder-for-insurance ring.

E. J. Ashbury, Head of Black Mountain Coal Corporation Says He Will Open Separate Negotiations with CIO Today; Other Operators Meet with Union Leaders, but Reach No Agreement

Harlan, Ky., May 15 (AP)—A definite break in the phalanx of Harlan operators opposing a new contract with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers came tonight as more national guard troops arrived to patrol additional mines expected to open tomorrow.

E. J. Ashbury, superintendent of the Black Mountain Coal Corporation, a subsidiary of the Peabody Coal Corporation of Chicago, one of the largest mines in the county, said he would open separate negotiations with the union tomorrow. The corporation normally employs about 600 men.

He said his company did not object to a union shop—the issue that caused representatives of the Harlan Coal Operators' Association to walk out of the New York conference Saturday when 15 other districts approved.

Not Member of Association

The Black Mountain Corporation is not a member of the county association but observers said the large number of men, employed returning to work without national guard troops, now on duty, would weaken the position of the other operators.

The first indication of "peace talk" was when George S. Ward, secretary of the county operators' association, called the members to meet with William Turnblazer of Jellico, Tenn., president of the Harlan U. M. W. district.

Other union representatives met with the operators for almost two hours but when the conference broke up none would talk and no statement was issued. There were prospects, however, for resumption of the meeting tomorrow.

At Ashland operators and union men of the Big Sandy-Elkhorn district, another of the dissenting groups, conferred most of the day but announced no conclusion.

Operators Meet Today

Tomorrow at Lexington the operators of the Hazard district are to gather and decide their future plans.

In a speech at a Hazard union mass meeting held in the baseball park in the afternoon, Sam Caddy, district U. M. W. president, told his listeners:

"When the miners in the Hazard and Big Sandy fields go to work it will be under our contract. The operators make us use our only weapon—the strike—in order for us to secure a contract which does not cost them anything. We are not worried about Governor Chandler."

Chandler ordered 203 additional troops into Harlan county late today on a request for them made yesterday by Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, commanding the 557 guardsmen already on patrol duty.

Since the troops arrived one non-union miner has been killed in an argument with another non-union miner, a man was shot in the legs on a main street of the town and today a national guardsman clubbed a union miner with his pistol.

Wild Rumors Spread

As wild rumors spread throughout Harlan town today tension increased among the milling hundreds of idle men. One rumor had it that troops from the regular army were marching on the county on orders from Washington.

But actually, except for the clubbing of Claude Howard, a carpenter for the Harlan-Willins mine, only minor disturbances were reported to military headquarters.

Howard said he was stopped by a soldier and told him he was enroute home but the trooper refused to permit him to cross a guarded bridge and in an argument struck him over the head inflicting a deep gash. He was struck with a revolver.

Colonel Roy W. Easley of the guardsmen said his report on the incident was that Howard backed his automobile into a soldier and was attempting to run over another trooper when he was struck.

More Soldiers Called

Military and civilian authorities both declared the killing of a non-union miner and the shooting of a man on a downtown Harlan street last night "had no connection with labor troubles," but shortly afterward an order was signed calling 200 additional soldiers.

Ward said miners began loading coal, under the watchful eyes of guardsmen, who erected machine guns along highways, at five large mines. He said there were: Crummins Creek Coal Co., Bardo Coal Co., Green-Silvers Coal Co., R. C. Tway Coal Co., and the Clover Fork Coal Co.

He said he had not been advised how many men returned to work. Tiller said less than "two per cent" of the county's 16,000 miners went to the pits.

Loading a Lot of Coal

Governor A. B. Chandler, who ordered the troops here to permit miners to go to work if they wished, said Industrial Relations Commissioner William C. Burrow had reported to him from Harlan that there were no disorders and that "they're loading a lot of coal."

"The men are back at work," the governor added, "I sent the troops down there to let those work who wanted to and apparently a lot of them wanted to."

The soldiers were under instructions to prevent mass picketing and began the day by dispersing a gathering estimated at 3,000 miners, who then came into the city and roamed about, talking in small groups.

Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, commanding the detachment of 557 militiamen, said troops had been stationed along the Kentucky-Virginia and Kentucky-Tennessee borders to keep out union men from those states in addition to those stationed along the highways.

Tiller asked Governor Chandler to instruct General Carter to "open the public highways" and that the officer be informed "men have a right to peaceful picketing, without limitation on their numbers as long as they observe the law and remain peaceful."

Contrary to previous reports that the soldiers were being housed and fed by the operators, Adjutant General G. Lee McClain at Frankfort said all expenses of the troops are paid by the state.

Former Congressman Jesse D. Price Dies

Baltimore, May 15 (AP)—Funeral services will be held in Salisbury Wednesday for former Congressman Jesse D. Price, 75, who died today at his home here.

The body will be taken tomorrow to Salisbury, where services will be held at the home of his niece, Mrs. E. Homer White. Burial will be in Parson's cemetery.

Price was Congressman from the first district, comprising the Eastern Shore counties, from 1915 to 1919. He had lived at the home of a daughter here for two years.

Rep Dies To Hunt Radicals Through Their Federal Income Tax Returns

Washington, May 15 (AP)—Chairman Dies (D-Tex) of the House Committee on Un-American Activities said tonight that his investigators would study federal income tax returns to determine whether certain individuals were paying taxes on money derived from radical or Fascist activities.

Earlier in the day, the treasury made public an executive order signed by President Roosevelt, ordering the income tax files opened up to the committee's auditors. A few days ago, Dies demanded the right to examine the returns of a number of alleged Fascist and Communist leaders.

The committee chairman, gratified that this power had been accorded him, said tonight it would be used with care.

"It will not be used except where we already have information and leads, regarding specific individuals," he said.

In cases where the committee determined by subpoenaing bank accounts and other records that persons were profiting from subversive activities, he continued, the committee would look up the income tax returns to make sure such income had been reported.

Dies said today that when hearings were resumed, they would, among other things "show that the testimony before was absolutely genuine." He realized, he added, that the committee had made "honest mistakes," but asserted that future proceedings would be "dignified and judicial."

Hopkins Scored for WPA System Now Operating in State of Ohio

Washington, May 15 (AP)—Testimony that a system set up under authority from Harry L. Hopkins had enabled the WPA in Ohio to spend more for administrative expense than the law allows was received by a House investigating committee today.

It came from George J. Shillito, a committee investigator, who said he had been furnished some time ago from the investigative division of the WPA.

He estimated that administrative costs of the work relief organization in Ohio amounted to 8 or 9 percent of total expenditures. Representative Woodrum (D-Va) pointed out that federal law limits such outlays to 5 percent.

Shillito testified that, in addition to 1,119 persons carried on the rolls as administrative employees, there were 1,200 assigned to what was known as the "state supply fund project." The latter actually joined in administering general operations of the WPA, he said, although they did not get annual leave nor sick leave, as did those on the administrative payroll.

The investigator produced a state WPA order of last December 10, 1938, dealing with the supply fund project, which referred to authority granted by Hopkins on July 11, 1938, and by David K. Niles, another Washington official of the WPA, on July 23, 1938. Hopkins, formerly WPA administrator, is now Secretary of Commerce.

"This is a subterfuge to keep the books from showing that the administrative expense is as high as it actually is?" asked Rep. Taber (R-NY).

Shillito's reply was that the project had had the effect of splitting administrative expenses in two.

The investigating committee also received testimony from Chester L. Post, an engineer borrowed from the treasury department, that a stadium built by the WPA for the board of education at Canton, Ohio, had cost more than twice as much as it would had it been constructed by a private builder under contract.

But Says He Struck Only after Potter Attacked Him

Sarasota, Fla., May 15 (AP)—Potter D. Orsay Palmer died in a hospital here today shortly after Sheriff C. J. Hutchins said Kenneth Nosworthy, a young meat cutter, had acknowledged striking the off-married Chicago heir at a picnic last week.

Palmer died at 5:30 p. m. from a cerebral hemorrhage which Dr. David Kennedy said was caused by a "terrible blow" on the head. He was brought to the hospital Saturday.

The sheriff quoted Nosworthy as saying the 34-year old playboy heir to the Chicago Palmer fortune taunted him, finally attacking him. After Nosworthy hit him with his fist, Palmer fell, dragging the young meat cutter down with him. Then, said Nosworthy, Palmer attempted to wield a bottle.

Grand Jury To Act

Assistant State's Attorney W. M. Smiley said tonight the Manatee county grand jury, now in recess, would be called into session to investigate the affair.

It could not be learned tonight if Palmer made any statement before his death. The two men were attending a barbecue picnic given by the Bradenton Junior Chamber of Commerce to raise funds for the city's police radio system. It was a stag affair.

Palmer's condition was not disclosed until today when Dr. David R. Kennedy announced the young heir's condition was critical. He had been taken to a hospital here Saturday.

Nosworthy, about 28, was not detained following his statement today and had not been arrested early tonight. The sheriff said Nosworthy came to his office voluntarily.

Palmer's attractive fourth wife, the former Pluma Louise Lowery Abatiello, a former waitress, was at the hospital throughout the day as were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Honore Palmer.

Recently Reconciled

The younger Palmers effected a reconciliation only two weeks ago after a separation in which she sued him for separate maintenance and his parents for $300,000 charging alienation of affections.

At his surprise fourth wedding last May Palmer gave his age as 34 and his bride's as 23. He had been divorced the same week by socially-prominent Polly Warren of New York. His first marriage in 1928, was to Eleanor Goldsmith, Bradenton high school girl, and his second in 1929, to Marie Martinez De Hoz, Argentine beauty.

Three Get Life In Murder Case

Pittsburgh, May 15 (AP)—A 21-year old youth who admitted firing a "dum dum" bullet into the heart of a confectioner, during a holdup, and two others who accompanied him, were sentenced to life today in the Western penitentiary.

The slayer, James Barnett, and his companions, Howard E. Boyle, 19, and Richard Groter, 19, pleaded guilty to murder and visiting Judge W. Walter Braham, of New Castle, fixed the penalty after hearing testimony.

Testimony showed the confectioner, Martin Fink, 44, of Turtle Creek, grabbed a pistol which Boyle had drawn on him and that Barnett then fired.

Roosevelt Scored for Proposal To Buy Argentine Beef for Navy

Washington, May 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt's order to buy Argentine canned beef for the navy evoked fresh criticism in Congress today and brought demands for congressional investigation.

Representative Allen (R-Ill) introduced a resolution calling for an inquiry into a prospective navy department purchase of 48,000 pounds of the Argentine product, and Rep. Mundt (R-SD), demanded to know whether the "buy American" act had been violated, offered a bill to require federal agencies to "buy American farm products in America."

A dozen House members made one-minute speeches criticizing the president, and two senators also protested.

The president told a press conference Friday that he had been impressed both with the superiority of Argentine canned beef and with the fact that its price was 15 cents a pound, including a 6-cent tariff, compared with about 23 cents for the domestic product.

Senator Adams (D-Colo) remarked that every pound of Argentine beef sold in this country "reduces the demand for the domestic product just that much."

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), in charge of the naval supply bill for next year, said in a statement that the American navy should not be used for the purpose of "supporting Argentine jobs."

Definite Break in Ranks of Operators Predicted at Harlan

POISON RING CHIEF!

Joseph Peppe (above), small-time politician, was held in Philadelphia, Pa., as an alleged leader of the notorious murder-for-insurance ring.

E. J. Ashbury, Head of Black Mountain Coal Corporation Says He Will Open Separate Negotiations with CIO Today; Other Operators Meet With Union Leaders, but Reach No Agreement

Harlan, Ky., May 15 (AP)—A definite break in the phalanx of Harlan operators opposing a new contract with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers came tonight as more national guard troops arrived to patrol additional mines expected to open tomorrow.

E. J. Ashbury, superintendent of the Black Mountain Coal Corporation, a subsidiary of the Peabody Coal Corporation of Chicago, one of the largest mines in the county, said he would open separate negotiations with the union tomorrow. The corporation normally employs about 600 men.

He said his company did not object to a union shop—the issue that caused representatives of the Harlan Coal Operators' Association to walk out of the New York conference Saturday when 15 other districts approved.

Not Member of Association
The Black Mountain Corporation is not a member of the county association but observers said the large number of men, employed returning to work without national guard troops, now on duty, would weaken the position of the other operators.

The first indication of "peace talk" was when George S. Ward, secretary of the county operators' association, called the members to meet with William Turnbull of Jellico, Tenn., president of the Harlan U. M. W. district.

Other union representatives met with the operators for almost two hours but when the conference broke up none would talk and no statement was issued. There were prospects, however, for resumption of the meeting tomorrow.

At Ashland operators and union men of the Big Sandy-Elk Horn district, another of the dissenting groups, conferred most of the day but announced no conclusion.

Operators Meet Today
Tomorrow at Lexington the operators of the Hazard district are to gather and decide their future plans.

In a speech at a Hazard union mass meeting held in the baseball park in the afternoon, Sam Caddy, district U. M. W. president, told his listeners:

"When the miners in the Hazard and Big Sandy fields go to work it will be under our contract. The operators make us use our only weapon—the strike—in order for us to secure a contract which does not cost them anything. We are not worried about Governor Chandler."

Chandler ordered 203 additional troops into Harlan county late today on a request for them made yesterday by Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, commanding the 557 guardsmen already on patrol duty.

Since the troops arrived one non-union miner has been killed in an argument with another non-union miner, a man was shot in the legs on a main street of the town and today a national guardsman clubbed a union miner with his pistol.

Wild Rumors Spread
As wild rumors spread throughout Harlan town today tension increased among the milling hundreds of idle men. One rumor had it that troops from the regular army were marching on the county on orders from Washington.

But actually, except for the clubbing of Claude Howard, a carpenter for the Harlan-Willins mine, only minor disturbances were reported to military headquarters.

Howard said he was stopped by a soldier and told him he was enroute home but the trooper refused to permit him to cross a guarded

Former Congressman Jesse D. Price Dies

Baltimore, May 15 (AP)—Funeral services will be held in Salisbury Wednesday for Former Congressman Jesse D. Price, 75, who died today at his home here.

The body will be taken tomorrow to Salisbury, where services will be held at the home of his niece, Mrs. E. Homer White. Burial will be in Parson's cemetery.

Price was Congressman from the first district, comprising the Eastern Shore counties, from 1915 to 1919. He had lived at the home of a daughter here for two years.

Rep Dies To Hunt Radicals Through Their Federal Income Tax Returns

Washington, May 15 (AP)—Chairman Dies (D-Tex) of the House Committee on Un-American Activities said tonight that his investigators would study federal income tax returns to determine whether certain individuals were paying taxes on money derived from radical or Fascist activities.

Earlier in the day, the treasury made public an executive order signed by President Roosevelt, ordering the income tax files opened up to the committee's auditors. A few days ago, Dies demanded the right to examine the returns of a number of alleged Fascist and Communist leaders.

The committee chairman, gratified that this power had been accorded him, said tonight it would be used with care.

"It will not be used except where we already have information and leads, regarding specific individuals," he said.

In cases where the committee determined by subpoenaing bank accounts and other records that per-

Hopkins Scored for WPA System Now Operating in State of Ohio

Washington, May 15 (AP)—Testimony that a system set up under authority from Harry L. Hopkins had enabled the WPA in Ohio to spend more for administrative expense than the law allows was received by a House investigating committee today.

It came from George J. Shillito, a committee investigator, who said he had been furloughed some time ago from the investigative division of the WPA.

He estimated that administrative costs of the work relief organization in Ohio amounted to 8 or 9 percent of total expenditures. Representative Woodrum (D-Va) pointed out that federal law limits such outlays to 5 percent.

Shillito testified that, in addition to 1,119 persons carried on the rolls as administrative employees, there were 1,200 assigned to what was known as the "state supply fund project." The latter actually joined in administering general operations of the WPA, he said, although they did not get annual leave nor sick leave, as did those on the administrative payroll.

The investigator produced a state WPA order of last December 10, 1938, dealing with the supply fund project, which referred to authority granted by Hopkins on July 11, 1938, and by David K. Niles, another Washington official of the WPA, on July 23, 1938. Hopkins, formerly WPA administrator, is now Secretary of Commerce.

"This is a subterfuge to keep the books from showing that the administrative expense is as high as it actually is?" asked Rep. Taber (R-NY).

Shillito's reply was that the project had had the effect of splitting administrative expenses in two.

The investigating committee also received testimony from Chester L. Post, an engineer borrowed from the treasury department, that a stadium built by the WPA for the board of education at Canton, Ohio, had cost more than twice as much as it would had it been constructed by a private builder under contract.

Medical Ass'n May Seat a Woman on Governing Board

May Also Permit Negro Doctors To Become Members

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
St. Louis, May 15.—American Medical Association delegates today proposed to seat a woman physician in this governing council and to let down bars to AMA membership raising the nation's 5,000 negro doctors.

Both moves would break precedents. Both are in preparation for a battle over how to spend wisely the tax money for medical care of the poor which the AMA has endorsed in principle.

The doctors' ideas of alleged waste, extravagance and political dangers in present congressional plans for socialized medicine, as stated in the Wagner bill now in the Senate, were detailed in two resolutions, from Iowa and Virginia. After the resolutions had been presented, the House of Delegates, representing 112,000 American physicians, recessed to consider them. The House itself appointed a special committee to consider the Wagner Act.

Wagner Act Committee
Members of the committee are Drs. Walter F. Donaldson, Pittsburgh; Frederick E. Sondern, New York; Walter E. Vest, Huntington, W. Va.; Fred W. Rankin, Lexington, Ky.; E. H. Cary, Dallas; Henry A. Luce, Detroit, and H. H. Snyder, Winfield, Kas.

The resolutions on women and negroes were offered by the New York delegation, representing the largest state medical society in the nation.

There are 8,000 to 9,000 women doctors in the country, many of them members of the AMA, but too scattered to be able to elect delegates to the governing House of Delegates.

Rapidly changing social order was stressed by the New Yorkers in asking for more consideration for negroes.

Many Negro Doctors
Negro doctors, they said, care for 12,000,000 American citizens, "whose collective health problems form one of the most challenging areas in the entire line against sickness and disease."

Dr. Fred Moore, of Des Moines, put in a resolution that Iowa congressmen should be asked to oppose the maternal and child welfare provisions of the Wagner Act, provided they are not modified.

The Iowa proposals voice most of the objections spoken in personal conversation by medical delegates here opposing the present form of the Wagner Act.

Dr. Walter B. Martin, of Norfolk, Va., read a Virginia resolution favoring payment to hospitals, by the government, whether local, state or federal, of the full hospital costs of indigent sick.

This resolution would put administration of the funds in the hands of local hospital service organizations to be administered to allow reduced rates to low income groups of patients.

King and Queen Land Tomorrow

Their Ship Rapidly Nearing Gulf of St. Lawrence

Aboard Empress of Australia, May 15 (Canadian Press)—The Empress of Australia, approaching the Gulf of St. Lawrence tonight, steamed steadily along at 19 knots to land King George VI and Queen Elizabeth at Quebec Wednesday morning.

At her present speed, the liner was expected to pass Gaspe, near the mouth of the St. Lawrence river at 4 a. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow and drop anchor below Quebec beside the Isle of Orleans about 10 p. m. The plan was for her then to move into Wolfe's cove for welcoming ceremonies at 9:30 a. m.

Three Royal Canadian Air Force flying boats circled the ship and her conveying cruisers Southampton and Glasgow this afternoon as a preliminary to the reception.

The Canadian destroyers Skeena and Saguenay, which were on their way to join the Empress's escort, were sighted by the royal party in Cabot Strait at 3:50 p. m. E. S. T.

During the day planes from the convoy made survey flights to report whether any more of the fog and ice that made the royal couple tardy for their first American visit would be encountered ahead.

Land was sighted from the Empress of Australia at 6:30 a. m.—the southern tip of Newfoundland. A few minutes later the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon could be seen to the northwest. Snow glistened on the hills. It was the tenth day of the voyage.

The king took a brisk walk about the promenade deck this morning and both he and the queen watched with great interest as the Canadian flying boats appeared. The queen wore a fawn ensemble.

Train Kills Negro

Federalsburg, Md., May 15 (AP)—Emerson Wright, 27, negro, was killed today when struck by a north bound freight train near Desert siding about two miles north of here.

STARVED TO FEED HER BABIES

Mrs. Clara Banister starved herself so the family's meagre food supply could all be used for her four small children. She was found unconscious on the kitchen floor of her Baltimore, Md., home. Physicians said she would have died of malnutrition within ten minutes if she had not been discovered. She is pictured with baby Virginia and Gregory, two of her children.

Liquor Control Laws Pass House In Pennsylvania

Harrisburg, May 15 (AP)—The Republican party's program to revise the Pennsylvania liquor control laws, subject of stirring debate in the House for weeks, was passed tonight and sent to the Senate.

The voting was along strictly party lines, minority Democrats opposing the legislation.

The key bill establishes local boards to hear testimony and submit recommendations on licenses to the liquor control board. They would act in an advisory capacity on renewals of licenses and their word would be absolute in the granting of new permits.

Democrats called it "a job grab." Republicans asserted more "home rule" was needed in the $80,000,000 a year state monopoly on liquor.

Boards would be allotted, one to each county of 25,000 or more with four in Philadelphia and three in Allegheny. The smaller counties would be merged into districts.

The house also advanced another batch of administration appropriation bills and authorized a $100,000 fund for the attorney general and the public utility commission to fight railroad freight rate increases on coal produced in Pennsylvania. The attorney general was directed by the entire legislature also to inquire into public regulations and submit recommendations to the 1941 general assembly.

German Deities Are Impregnable, Hitler Declares land, but also from Danzig, indicated the real purpose of the tour: Every leader will return to his own region ready to assure any doubting Thomas that he has seen with his own eyes that no power on earth can invade Germany from the west.

Walter Steding, well-known German writer on military subjects, said in the current issue of Deutsche Wehr-Beträge concerning the western fortifications that "there isn't a city in Germany that isn't protected by our western wall of steel and concrete."

He wrote that "there can be no doubt today that Germany has the strongest army and the strongest air force in Europe."

The fuhrer's inspection tour, together with Premier Mussolini's unqualified praise of the Rome-Berlin axis as delivered at Turin yesterday, constituted the stock in trade for every editorial writer in Germany today.

Warning To Poland
As far as Poland and Danzig are concerned, the inspection period is regarded by German authorities as "time for Poland to think things over," it was said.

"Warsaw ought to reflect deeply during this 'thinking pause' which Hitler has conceded to Poland," the Ostdeutsche Morgenpost in Upper Silesia said.

"Germany is unyielding in realizing the demands necessary for her existence. Germany can wait."

Gontrum Appointed To Insurance Post

Annapolis, Md., May 15 (AP)—Governor Herbert R. O'Connor announced tonight the appointment of Secretary of State John B. Gontrum as Insurance Commissioner of Maryland, and selection of Francis Petrot, Frederick attorney, to succeed Gontrum.

Gontrum succeeds Wesley S. Hanna, an appointee of former Governor Harry W. Nice.

Both appointments are effective at once.

In disclosing his plans, the governor said Gontrum "capabilities and outstanding qualifications will make him an excellent insurance commissioner."

Petrot was active on O'Connor's behalf in the gubernatorial primary and pre-primary campaign. He took office a few weeks ago as a magistrate in Frederick.

Musicians Gather In Baltimore for Annual Convention

Baltimore, May 15 (AP)—The vanguard of thousands of musicians and music lovers from all over the United States arrived today for tomorrow's opening of the National Federation of Music Clubs' twenty-first biennial convention.

Among today's arrivals were Mrs. Vincent Hilles Ober, federation president, of Norfolk, Va., and groups from Colorado and Montana, headed by Mrs. Hiram Johnson, National Board Member from Great Falls, Mont.

The 47 national board members went sight-seeing today and with the Baltimore Music Club were guests at a tea in the governor's mansion at Annapolis.

Howard Barlow will conduct the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra in a concert formally opening the music festival tomorrow night. Robert Weede, baritone with the Metropolitan Opera, will be the soloist.

Hazel Hallet, pianist and winner of the federation's young artists' contest two years ago, will be the soloist in a concert tomorrow afternoon.

A feature of the convention will be a Thursday night concert by a national massed chorus of 900 mixed voices, with Erem Zimbalist, violinist, the soloist. The chorus will be directed by Dr. John Warren Erb, director of New York University and LaFayette College. Representatives of 28 states will sing on this program.

Mrs. Ober predicted today attendance might reach 10,000 persons, many of them combining their convention trip with a visit to the New York World's Fair. The convention will last eight days.

Fred B. Snite, Jr. Aboard French Liner

New York, May 15 (AP)—Smiling Fred B. Snite, Jr., hoping for the miracle that might free him from his 3-year imprisonment in an "iron lung," arrived today to sail on a pilgrimage to the Shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes in France.

It took only 16 minutes to transfer him, in his bulky respirator, from a luxurious, specially equipped trailer to his suite aboard the French Liner Normandie, and eight minutes of that was given over to posing for pictures on the pier.

To keep the life-giving lung pulsing, 100 feet of electric wire trailed out behind the pier to the ship. Snite, son of a Chicago financier, will sail tomorrow with his parents, a doctor, five nurses, orderlies and respirator experts.

Harvey-McAvoy Bout To Be for Title

London, May 14 (AP)—The British boxing board of control announced today it would recognize the Len Harvey-Jock McAvoy fight at Harringay June 16 as being for the light heavyweight championship of the world and for the British title.

The board announced the administrative decision of the emergency committee in refusing sanction for a fight between Harvey and John Henry Lewis, the generally recognized world light heavyweight champion. The stewards declared the title vacant and nominated Harvey and McAvoy as contenders for it.

Bandits Get $10,000

New York, May 15 (AP)—Five men, three of them armed with two revolvers each, held up the Consolidated Edison Company's Harlem branch office today and escaped with between $10,000 and $15,000 while 100 customers and employees looked on.

Baby Drowns in Milk

Panora, Ia., May 15 (AP)—Geraldine Lefleur, 15-months-old, drowned today when she fell into a five-gallon can of skimmed milk at the farm home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lefleur, near here.

Double Slaying Witnessed from Few Feet Away

Wingate Man Kills Woman and Quickly Commits Suicide

Wingate, Md., May 15 (AP)—While two spectators, too far away to interfere, watched in horrified helplessness a 33-year-old waterman killed Mrs. Alta Moore then pumped two shotgun blasts into himself today in what Coroner J. Richard Jones said was a murder and suicide.

The two men who witnessed the shootings rushed to the bodies sprawled in the warm May sunshine only 100 yards from Wingate's business district. They found Kenneth Robinson dead. Mrs. Moore died as they sped her to a Cambridge hospital.

Mrs. Moore, 30, separated from her husband since October, and Robinson, a resident of nearby Crocherson, had been "keeping company" since last summer when they worked together in a packing house, neighbors said.

She was the mother of a 3-year-old child, Robinson, a widower, also has one child.

Shooting in Chicken Yard

The shooting occurred in the chicken yard at the home of C. M. M. Wingate, where Mrs. Moore was employed as housekeeper last week. Wingate is postmaster of this tiny Dorchester county village.

B. O. Murphy, cashier of the South Dorchester bank, and Harvey Moore, a grocery clerk not related to Mrs. Moore, told Jones they saw the shooting.

Murphy, watching from his office window, said he saw Robinson fire a blast into Mrs. Moore's back, then step behind a hen-coop, a split second later he heard another shot.

Robinson Commits Suicide

Moore said he rounded a corner of the Wingate house as Robinson shot the woman. Without a glance at her, Moore said, Robinson shot the woman. Without a glance at her, Moore said, Robinson stepped beside the chicken house. He put the butt of the gun on the ground, leaned over the muzzle and fired.

He dropped to the ground, but arose, bent again over the gun with the muzzle pressed against his left cheek. The second shot tore away his face. He was dead when Moore reached his side.

Moore had been sent to the home by Wingate after the latter was told by Mrs. Granville Andrews, a neighbor, that Robinson was talking to Mrs. Moore and that he had a gun. Jones said an inquest would not be necessary.

Japanese Promise To Protect Civilians Arouses Skepticism

Washington, May 15 (AP)—A Japanese promise to use all possible caution to avoid injuring civilians during bombing operations in China was received with some skepticism in official circles here today. One official called it "the same old promise."

Receipt of the pledge was announced by Secretary of State Hull, who said the Japanese foreign office had told Ambassador Grew in China that Japanese aviators had been instructed to exercise all possible care.

Furthermore, Hull said, the Japanese government advised it would pass on to the military officials in China the representations made by Ambassador Grew, on humanitarian grounds, against the aerial bombings of Chungking, Poochow and other points.

Japan's reply was given orally to Ambassador Grew who had made an oral protest last Thursday against the bombings.

RE-ENACTS HIS KIDNAPING

With the aid of two policemen, George Palmer Putnam, re-enacts his kidnapping, in Bakersfield, Calif. The publisher, former husband of the late Amelia Earhart, noted aviatrix, was found bound and gagged in an uncompleted house at Bakersfield after being snatched from his North Hollywood home. Putnam said two German-speaking abductors demanded the name of the author of an anonymous book, "The Man Who Killed Hitler," published by Putnam's firm, and warned it would be "healthier" if he ordered printing of it stopped.

Insurance Murder Leaders Arrested, Detectives Claim

Search for "Master Mind" over, They Say in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, May 15 (AP)—The law's drive to smash Philadelphia's astonishing insurance - murder racket sped toward wholesale prosecutions today with announcement that all ringleaders are in custody and the search for a "master mind" over.

Assistant District Attorney Vincent P. McDevitt, seeking murder indictments against half a dozen persons, said the "crime corporation's executives" were so "double-crossing" in their deadly schemes to collect life insurance that no member of the group had absolute authority.

Authorities had indicated their investigation would be incomplete until they nabbed the "brains" of the outfit.

Bolber Called Leader

McDevitt said that if any one could be designated as the ring's boss it was Morris Bolber, 48, self-styled "faith healer" and "psychiatrist," who kept a Brooklyn delicatessen until he surrendered recently to police here.

"He's a smart one," McDevitt observed.

"If he is not the single, outstanding leader, then it appears that there was a group direction of this ring; that it acted under a sort of board of directors . . . a real business organization . . . you could almost say that they voted on business."

Reiterating estimates that the total of ring victims may reach 100 and include deaths in Brooklyn, New Jersey and Delaware, McDevitt termed the plotters "the most complex, double-dealing, double-crossing gang I've ever met."

Moves for Indictments

He moved to obtain indictments this week against one-fourth of a group of 24 men and women held in connection with at least 50 deaths by poison or other methods employed by the syndicate and its "customers" in what a trial judge called a "mad quest" for insurance money.

Only a few persons have been indicted. Arrests have come so fast and the investigation has reached out so far that the prosecuting staff has difficulty keeping pace.

In addition to Bolber, the assistant district attorney named Herman and Paul Petrillo as probable ringleaders. Herman, convicted of first degree murder for slaying a WPA worker, faces the electric chair. Paul, his cousin, is held on a murder charge.

McDevitt said trials would begin next week in Philadelphia's new murder court.

Argentina Bars Nazis and Fascists

Buenos Aires, May 15 (AP)—President Roberto M. Ortiz issued a decree today making mandatory the dissolution of the German Nazi party and all other political organizations in Argentina which are directed from abroad.

Besides the Nazi party, the most prominent organizations affected included the Fascist and Dopolavoro Workmans' group, both Italian-directed, and the Spanish Falangist (Fascist) party.

These parties, however, were given 90 days in which to subscribe to "Democratic principles" which the decree said must govern their by-laws. All foreign organizations must register with the interior ministry and the police.

The presidential decree followed an inquiry into Nazi activities in Argentina, ordered by Ortiz after the publication of an alleged Nazi plan to annex Patagonia, southern tip of Argentina.

THEY'RE MAN AND WIFE NOW

World's Largest Aircraft Engine Built for Army

Washington, May 15 (AP)—A step forward for the United States in the world race for air supremacy was disclosed today when the army announced the development of "the world's largest and most powerful air-cooled aircraft engine."

It is a 2,000 horsepower "duplex cyclone" — 500 horsepower more powerful than the "cyclone 14" which has the highest power rating ever accorded an American-built air-cooled radial engine by the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Its strength is indicated by an announcement from Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, that only two of them were required to fly the long-range consolidated flying boat which carries 52 passengers and a crew of five. It made its first flight last week.

The army already has tried out the engine with success on long-range bombers, and it may soon become standard for some categories of military planes.

Johnson said the engine had been developed by the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, Patterson, N. J., with the assistance of the army air corps. Information in army circles is that a considerable amount of work of designing was done by the experimental experts of the Army Air Corps at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Roosevelt Plans 'Frisco Fair Trip

Washington, May 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt has decided to take a trip to the San Francisco fair without waiting for Congress to adjourn.

The White House said today he would leave about June 15 provided it looked as if Congress would remain in session until late July or early August.

An earlier adjournment, which officials regarded as improbable, would delay the trip until after Congress went home.

Details of the transcontinental journey—first the president has made since his 1938 trip to the coast in the interest of pro-New Deal candidates for the Senate—will not be announced until just before the start.

It was said, however, that Mr. Roosevelt intended to start the trip with a swing down to Asheville, N. C., to participate in the dedication of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park about June 19. From there he will head west.

Stephen Early, press secretary, said that aside from a possible talk at the dedication, there had been no consideration of speaking engagements on the trip.

Alleghany Corporation May Remove Young

Cleveland, May 15 (AP)—Informed sources predicted tonight Chairman Robert R. Young of Alleghany Corporation would lose his chairmanship of the Nickel Plate Railroad tomorrow.

These sources also predicted Young would be removed from executive committees of Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette, both subsidiaries of Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, and thus would retain only his directorship in the three lines.

Mentioned as a possibility for chairman of Nickel Plate was George D. Brooke, president of the three roads. Young, New York financier, and the C. & O. management have been at odds for several months. A month ago he was removed from C. & O.'s executive and finance committees.

Woman Glider Killed

Paris, May 15 (AP)—Madame Olga Girod, 30, woman glider champion of France, was killed today at Vol-sins airport, east of here.

Her glider crashed from a height of 30 feet while taking off in tow of an airplane. Surviving are her husband and one child.

No Restrictions On Wheat, Wallace Says of '39 Crop

Washington, May 15 (AP)—Secretary Wallace ruled today that marketing quotas restricting the quantity of wheat each grower may sell were not necessary for this year's crop.

He estimated the prospective 1939 supply, as of July 1, at 974,000,000 bushels and said this was 47,000,000 short of the level which under the 1938 farm act, would require a quota election among producers.

Had quotas been proclaimed, a two-thirds majority of farmers voting in the election would have been required to put them into effect.

The secretary also announced a 62,000,000 acre wheat planting allotment for 1940 under provisions of the Soil Conservation Act. This was an increase of 7,000,000 over the 55,000,000 acres allotted this year when 65,500,000 acres actually were seeded.

He said the increased allotment was made because of a reduction in prospective wheat supplies this year.

Growers who comply with acreage allotments qualify for soil conservation payments, crop insurance and other benefits of the farm act.

Mussolini Inaugurates New Military Airport

Turin, Italy, May 15 (AP)—Premier Mussolini inaugurated a new military airport today at Caselle, with in a short striking distance of France, and returned to Turin tonight to review a parade of black-shirted Fascist militiamen.

The airport inaugural followed a speech here in which Il Duce reiterated his statement made yesterday at the beginning of a week's swing through the Piedmont region that Italy wanted peace, but that European problems "which constitute danger to all" must be solved.

The speech was made at the dedication of the new Fiat works at Turin, one of the largest automotive establishments in the world. The plant also is equipped to produce motors and war munitions.

A crowd of 50,000 uniformed workers massed before Mussolini, who told them the international situation had compelled Italy to "slow down" its civilian automotive industry. In another brief address at the Superior Institute of War Il Duce praised its works in increasing the efficiency of Italy's military training.

Barbers Call for Boycott Of All Non-Union Shops

the state health department, discussed the progress of medicine and its value to the working man. Preventive medicine has practically isolated many diseases, he said, and has kept laborers from missing work or losing jobs because of illness.

All resolutions introduced today were sponsored by the hotel and restaurant employees alliance. All but that pertaining to barbers will be considered tomorrow or Wednesday.

The resolutions: Condemned employers who defraud employees by failing to pay wages earned.

Condemned loan sharks and credit houses having workers assign their future wages.

Condemned the "shelving" of workers over 40.

Asked the federation to go on record against the sales tax.

Supported the "abolishment of discrimination against colored workers seeking to organize."

Asked suffrage for persons living in the District of Columbia.

Supported President Roosevelt's request for an additional appropriation for WPA.

Officers for the next year will be nominated tomorrow and elected Wednesday. Committee reports also will be heard tomorrow, and the convention banquet will be held tomorrow night. The convention will adjourn Wednesday afternoon.

Skinning Human Beings Now Done With Machines

Invention Said To Have Wide Possibilities for Grafting

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH

St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—A new machine for skinning human beings to make skin grafting more certain and safe and thus save lives demonstrated here today.

A Kansas city surgeon, Dr. E. C. Padgett, showed with a patch of rubber cement, a curved piece of sheet metal and a vibrating knife how he could, if necessary, whisk all the skin off a person who had recently died and transfer it to save the life of another facing death from a severe burn or injury.

In principle his machine is an electric razor which can cut an area of the skin to any desired depth accurately and quickly.

Heretofore skin grafting required that the surgeon have a flat surface of the body to work on when he removed a piece of skin with the ordinary surgical knife, Dr. Padgett said.

With the mechanical skinning patches six inches long and four inches wide can be taken off in a few minutes and applied immediately over burned or otherwise damaged areas.

"The method is 'foolproof' even for surgeons untrained in skin grafting and has proven useful in a few cases of skin cancer in which the spreading growth was removed and new skin substituted, Dr. Padgett said.

Discussion developed among physicians over the possibilities of the machine's use in building up "skin bank," or reserve of skin tissue kept alive in hospitals for emergency use in severe injuries.

Already "blood banks" in which human blood, classified according to the four major types, is preserved for emergency blood transfusions.

Other tissues of the body have been kept alive for varying periods in the efforts of medical science to have readily available "spare" which can be used to keep persons alive when one part is destroyed or wears out. But it is unlikely a person will ever be able to buy a new heart.

Harrington Scores Critics of W.P.A.

New York, May 15 (AP)—Col. F. C. Harrington, Works Progress Administration, said tonight the investigators of the Congressional committee checking on the WPA were "entirely absorbed in hunting things to criticize."

"So far as I can learn, not one of them has yet told the committee anything about the accomplishments of this program or the good it has done the unemployed," he told the ninth annual conference of U. S. Mayors. "Small faults have been magnified and great virtues entirely omitted."

Medical Ass'n May Seat a Woman on Governing Board

May Also Permit Negro Doctors To Become Members

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
St. Louis, May 15.—American Medical Association delegates today proposed to seat a woman physician in this governing council and to let down bars to AMA membership among the nation's 5,000 negro doctors.

Both moves would break precedents. Both are in preparation for a battle over how to spend wisely the tax money for medical care of the poor which the AMA has endorsed in principle.

The doctors' ideas of alleged waste, extravagance and political dangers in present congressional plans for socialized medicine, as stated in the Wagner bill now in the Senate, were detailed in two resolutions from Iowa and Virginia.

After the resolutions had been presented, the House of Delegates, representing 112,000 American physicians, recessed to consider them. The House itself appointed a special committee to consider the Wagner Act.

Wagner Act Committee
Members of the committee are Drs. Walter F. Donaldson, Pittsburgh; Frederick E. Sondern, New York; Walter E. Vest, Huntington, W. Va.; Fred W. Rankin, Lexington, Ky.; E. H. Cary, Dallas; Henry A. Luce, Detroit; and H. H. Snyder, Winfield, Kas.

The resolutions on women and negroes were offered by the New York delegation, representing the largest state medical society in the nation.

There are 8,000 to 9,000 women doctors in the country, many of them members of the AMA, but too scattered to be able to elect delegates to the governing House of Delegates.

Rapidly changing social order was stressed by the New Yorkers in asking for more consideration for negroes.

Many Negro Doctors
Negro doctors, they said, care for 13,000,000 American citizens, "whose collective health problems form one of the most challenging areas in the entire line against sickness and disease."

Dr. Fred Moore, of Des Moines, put in a resolution that Iowa congressmen should be asked to oppose the maternal and child welfare provisions of the Wagner Act, provided they are not modified.

The Iowa proposals voice most of the objections spoken in personal conversation by medical delegates here opposing the present form of the Wagner Act.

Dr. Walter B. Martin, of Norfolk, Va., read a Virginia resolution favoring payment to hospitals, by the government, whether local, state or federal, of the full hospital costs of indigent sick.

This resolution would put administration of the funds in the hands of local hospital service organizations to be administered to allow reduced rates to low income groups of patients.

King and Queen Land Tomorrow

Their Ship Rapidly Near- ing Gulf of St. Lawrence

Aboard Empress of Australia, May 15 (Canadian Press)—The Empress of Australia, approaching the Gulf of St. Lawrence tonight, steamed steadily along at 19 knots to land King George VI and Queen Elizabeth at Quebec Wednesday morning.

At her present speed, the liner was expected to pass Gaspe, near the mouth of the St. Lawrence river, at 4 a. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow and drop anchor below Quebec beside the Isle of Orleans about 10 p. m. The plan was for her then to move into Wolfe Cove for welcoming ceremonies at 9:30 a. m.

Three Royal Canadian Air Force flying boats circled the ship and her conveying cruisers Southampton and Glasgow this afternoon as a preliminary to the reception.

The Canadian destroyers Skeena and Saguenay, which were on their way to join the Empress's escort, were sighted by the royal party in Cabot Strait at 3:50 p. m. E. S. T. During the day planes from the convoy made survey flights to report whether any more of the fog and ice that made the royal couple tardy for their first American visit would be encountered ahead.

Land was sighted from the Empress of Australia at 6:30 a. m.—the southern tip of Newfoundland. A few minutes later the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon could be seen to the northwest. Snow glistened on the hills. It was the tenth day of the voyage.

The king took a brisk walk about the promenade deck this morning and both he and the queen watched with great interest as the Canadian flying boats appeared. The queen wore a fawn ensemble.

STARVED TO FEED HER BABIES

Mrs. Clara Banister starved herself so the family's meagre food supply could be used for her four small children. She was found unconscious on the kitchen floor of her Baltimore, Md., home. Physicians said she would have died of malnutrition within ten minutes if she had not been discovered. She is pictured with baby Virginia and Gregory, two of her children.

Liquor Control Laws Pass House In Pennsylvania

Harrisburg, May 15 (AP)—The Republican party's program to revise the Pennsylvania liquor control laws, subject of stirring debate in the House for weeks, was passed tonight and sent to the Senate.

The voting was along strictly party lines, minority Democrats opposing the legislation.

The key bill establishes local boards to hear testimony and submit recommendations on licenses to the liquor control board. They would act in an advisory capacity on renewals of licenses and their word would be absolute in the granting of new permits.

Democrats called it "a job grab." Republicans asserted more "home rule" was needed in the $80,000,000 a year state monopoly on liquor.

Boards would be allotted, one to each county of 25,000 or more with four in Philadelphia and three in Allegheny. The smaller counties would be merged into districts.

The house also advanced another batch of administration appropriation bills and authorized a $100,000 fund for the attorney general and the public utility commission to fight railroad freight rate increases on coal produced in Pennsylvania.

The attorney general was directed by the entire legislature also to inquire into public regulations and submit recommendations to the 1941 general assembly.

German Defenses Are Impregnable, Hitler Declares

land, but also from Danzig, indicated the real purpose of the tour:

Every leader will return to his own region ready to assure any doubting Thomases that he has seen with his own eyes that no power on earth can invade Germany from the west.

Walter Steding, well-known German writer on military subjects, said in the current issue of Deutsche Wehr-Betrachtung concerning the western fortifications that "there isn't a city in Germany that isn't protected by our western wall of steel and concrete."

He wrote that "there can be no doubt today but that Germany has the strongest army and the strongest air force in Europe."

The fuhrer's inspection tour, together with Premier Mussolini's unqualified praise of the Rome-Berlin axis as delivered at Turin yesterday, constituted the stock in trade for every editorial writer in Germany today.

Warning To Poland
As far as Poland and Danzig are concerned, the inspection period is regarded by German authorities as "time for Poland to think things over," it was said.

"Warsaw ought to reflect deeply during this 'thinking pause' which Hitler has conceded to Poland," the Ostdeutsche Morgenpost in Upper Silesia said.

"Germany is unyielding in realizing the demands necessary for her existence. Germany can wait."

Gontrum Appointed To Insurance Post
Annapolis, Md., May 15 (AP)—Governor Herbert R. O'Connor announced tonight the appointment of Secretary of State John B. Gontrum as Insurance Commissioner of Maryland, and selection of Francis Petrott, Frederick attorney, to succeed Gontrum.

Gontrum succeeds Wesley S. Hanna, an appointee of former Governor Harry W. Nice.

Both appointments are effective at once.

In disclosing his plans, the governor said Gontrum "capabilities and outstanding qualifications will make him an excellent insurance commissioner."

Petrott was active on O'Connor's behalf in the gubernatorial primary and pre-primary campaign. He took office a few weeks ago as a magistrate in Frederick.

Musicians Gather In Baltimore for Annual Convention

Baltimore, May 15 (AP)—The vanguard of thousands of musicians and music lovers from all over the United States arrived today for tomorrow's opening of the National Federation of Music Clubs' twenty-first biennial convention.

Among today's arrivals were Mrs. Vincent Hilles Ober, federation president, of Norfolk, Va., and groups from Colorado and Montana, headed by Mrs. Hiram Johnson, National Board Member from Great Falls, Mont.

The 47 national board members went sight-seeing today and with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra in a concert formally opening the music festival tomorrow night. Robert Weede, baritone with the Metropolitan Opera, will be the soloist.

Hazel Hallet, pianist and winner of the federation's young artists' contest two years ago, will be the soloist in a concert tomorrow afternoon.

A feature of the convention will be a Thursday night concert by a national massed chorus of 900 mixed voices, with Efrim Zimbalist, violinist, the soloist. The chorus will be directed by Dr. John Warren Erb, director of New York University and LaFayette College. Representatives of 28 states will sing on this program.

Mrs. Ober predicted today attendance might reach 10,000 persons, many of them combining their convention trip with a visit to the New York World's Fair. The convention will last eight days.

Fred B. Snite, Jr. Aboard French Liner

New York, May 15 (AP)—Smiling Fred B. Snite, Jr., hoping for the miracle that might free him from his 3-year imprisonment in an "iron lung," arrived today to sail on a pilgrimage to the Shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes in France.

It took only 16 minutes to transfer him, in his bulky respirator, from a luxurious, specially equipped trailer to his suite aboard the French Liner Normandie, and eight minutes of that was given over to posing for pictures on the pier.

To keep the life-giving lung pulsing, 100 feet of electric wire trailing out behind the pier to the ship, Snite, son of a Chicago financier, will sail tomorrow with his parents, a doctor, five nurses, orderlies and respirator experts.

Harvey-McAvoy Bout To Be for Title

London, May 14 (AP)—The British boxing board of control announced today it would recognize the Len Harvey-Jock McAvoy fight at Harringay June 16 as being for the light heavyweight championship of the world and for the British title.

The board announced the administrative decision of the emergency committee in refusing sanction for a fight between Harvey and John Henry Lewis, the generally recognized world light heavyweight champion. The stewards declared the title vacant and nominated Harvey and McAvoy as contenders for it.

Bandits Get $10,000

New York, May 15 (AP)—Five men, three of them armed with two revolvers each, held up the Consolidated Edison Company's Harlem branch office today and escaped with between $10,000 and $15,000 while 100 customers and employees looked on.

Baby Drowns in Milk

Panora, Ia., May 15 (AP)—Ceraldine Lefleur, 15-months-old, drowned today when she fell into a five-gallon can of skimmed milk at the farm home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lefleur, near here.

Double Slaying Witnessed from Few Feet Away

Wingate Man Kills Woman and Quickly Commits Suicide

Wingate, Md., May 15 (AP)—While two spectators, too far away to interfere, watched in horrified helplessness a 33-year-old waterman killed Mrs. Alta Moore then pumped two shotgun blasts into himself today in what Coroner J. Richard Jones said was a murder and suicide.

The two men who witnessed the shootings rushed to the bodies sprawled in the warm May sunshine only 100 yards from Wingate's business district. They found Kenneth Robinson dead. Mrs. Moore died as they sped her to a Cambridge hospital.

Mrs. Moore, 30, separated from her husband since October, and Robinson, a resident of nearby Crochero, had been "keeping company" since last summer when they worked together in a packing house, neighbors said.

She was the mother of a 3-year-old child. Robinson, a widower, also has one child.

Shooting in Chicken Yard

The shooting occurred in the chicken yard at the home of C. M. M. Wingate, where Mrs. Moore was employed as housekeeper last week. Wingate is postmaster of this tiny Dorchester county village.

B. O. Murphy, cashier of the South Dorchester bank, and Harvey Moore, a grocery clerk not related to Mrs. Moore, told Jones they saw the shooting.

Murphy, watching from his office window, said he saw Robinson fire a blast into Mrs. Moore's back, then step behind a hen-coop, a split second later he heard another shot.

Moore said he rounded a corner of the Wingate house as Robinson shot the woman. Without a glance at her, Moore said, Robinson shot the woman. Without a glance at her, Moore said, Robinson stepped beside the chicken house. He put the butt of the gun on the ground, leaned over the muzzle and fired.

He dropped to the ground, but arose, bent again over the gun with the muzzle pressed against his left cheek. The second shot tore away his face. He was dead when Moore reached his side.

Moore had been sent to the home by Wingate after the latter was told by Mrs. Granville Andrews, a neighbor, that Robinson was talking to Mrs. Moore and that he had a gun. Jones said an inquest would not be necessary.

Japanese Promise To Protect Civilians Arouses Skepticism

Washington, May 15 (AP)—A Japanese promise to use all possible caution to avoid injuring civilians during bombing operations in China was received with some skepticism in official circles here today. One official called it "the same old promise."

Receipt of the pledge was announced by Secretary of State Hull, who said the Japanese foreign office had told Ambassador Grew in China that Japanese aviators had been instructed to exercise all possible care.

Furthermore, Hull said, the Japanese government advised it would pass on to the military officials in China the representations made by Ambassador Grew, on humanitarian grounds, against the aerial bombings of Chungking, Poochow and other points.

Japan's reply was given orally to Ambassador Grew who had made an oral protest last Thursday against the bombings.

RE-ENACTS HIS KIDNAPING

With the aid of two policemen, George Palmer Putnam, re-enacts his kidnapping in Bakersfield, Calif. The publisher, former husband of the late Amelia Earhart, noted aviatrix, was found bound and gagged in an uncompleted house at Bakersfield after being snatched from his North Hollywood home. Putnam said two German-speaking abductors demanded the name of the author of an anonymous book, "The Man Who Killed Hitler," published by Putnam's firm, and warned it would be "healthier" if he ordered printing of it stopped.

Insurance Murder Leaders Arrested, Detectives Claim

Search for "Master Mind" over, They Say in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, May 15 (AP)—The law's drive to smash Philadelphia's astonishing insurance - murder racket sped toward wholesale prosecutions today with announcement that all ringleaders are in custody and the search for a "master mind" over.

Assistant District Attorney Vincent P. McDevitt, seeking murder indictments against half a dozen persons, said the "crime corporation's executives" were so "double-crossing" in their deadly schemes to collect life insurance that no member of the group had absolute authority.

Authorities had indicated their investigation would be incomplete until they nabbed the "brains" of the outfit.

Bolber Called Leader

McDevitt said that if any one could be designated as the ring's boss it was Morris Bolber, 48, self-styled "faith healer" and "psychiatrist," who kept a Brooklyn delicatessen until he surrendered recently to police here.

"He's a smart one," McDevitt observed.

"If he is not the single, outstanding leader, then it appears that there was a group direction of this ring; that it acted under a sort of board of directors... a real business organization... you could almost say that they voted on business."

Reiterating estimates that the total of ring victims may reach 100 and include deaths in Brooklyn, New Jersey and Delaware, McDevitt termed the plotters "the most complex, double-dealing, double-crossing gang I've ever met."

Moves for Indictments
He moved to obtain indictments this week against one-fourth of a group of 24 men and women held in connection with at least 50 deaths by poison or other methods employed by the syndicate and its "customers" in what a trial judge called a "mad quest" for insurance money.

Only a few persons have been indicted. Arrests have come so fast and the investigation has reached out so far that the prosecuting staff has difficulty keeping pace.

In addition to Bolber, the assistant district attorney named Herman and Paul Petrillo as probable ringleaders. Herman, convicted of first degree murder for slaying a WPA worker, faces the electric chair. Paul, his cousin, is held on a murder charge.

McDevitt said trials would begin next week in Philadelphia's new murder court.

Argentina Bars Nazis and Fascists

Buenos Aires, May 15 (AP)—President Roberto M. Ortiz issued a decree today making mandatory the dissolution of the German Nazi party and all other political organizations in Argentina which are directed from abroad.

Besides the Nazi party, the most prominent organizations affected included the Fascist and Dopolavoro Workmen's group, both Italian-directed, and the Spanish Falangist (Fascist) party.

These parties, however, were given 90 days in which to subscribe to "Democratic principles" which the decree said must govern their by-laws. All foreign organizations must register with the interior ministry and the police.

The presidential decree followed an inquiry into Nazi activities in Argentina, ordered by Ortiz after the publication of an alleged Nazi plan to annex Patagonia, southern tip of Argentina.

THEY'RE MAN AND WIFE NOW

World's Largest Aircraft Engine Built for Army

Washington, May 15 (AP)—A step forward for the United States in the world race for air supremacy was disclosed today when the army announced the development of "the world's largest and most powerful air-cooled aircraft engine."

It is a 2,000 horsepower "duplex cyclone" — 500 horsepower more powerful than the "cyclone 14" which has the highest power rating ever accorded an American-built air-cooled radial engine by the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Its strength is indicated by an announcement from Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, that only two of them were required to fly the long-range consolidated flying boat which carries 52 passengers and a crew of five. It made its first flight last week.

The army already has tried out the engine with success on long-range bombers, and it may soon become standard for some categories of military planes.

Johnson said the engine had been developed by the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, Patterson, N. J., with the assistance of the army air corps. Information in army circles is that a considerable amount of work of designing was done by the experimental experts of the Army Air Corps at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Roosevelt Plans 'Frisco Fair Trip

Washington, May 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt has decided to take a trip to the San Francisco fair without waiting for Congress to adjourn.

The White House said today he would leave about June 15 provided it looked as if Congress would remain in session until late July or early August.

An earlier adjournment, which officials regarded as improbable, would delay the trip until after Congress went home.

Details of the transcontinental journey—first the president has made since his 1938 trip to the coast in the interest of pro-New Deal candidates for the Senate—will not be announced until just before the start.

It was said, however, that Mr. Roosevelt intended to start the trip with a swing down to Asheville, N. C., to participate in the dedication of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park about June 19. From there he will head west.

Stephen Early, press secretary, said that aside from a possible talk at the dedication, there had been no consideration of speaking engagements on the trip.

Alleghany Corporation May Remove Young

Cleveland, May 15 (AP)—Informed sources predicted tonight Chairman Robert R. Young of Alleghany Corporation would lose his chairmanship of the Nickel Plate Railroad tomorrow.

These sources also predicted Young would be removed from executive committees of Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette, both subsidiaries of Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, and thus would retain only his directorship in the three lines.

Mentioned as a possibility for chairman of Nickel Plate was George D. Brooke, president of the three roads. Young, New York financier, and the C. & O. management have been at odds for several months. A month ago he was removed from C. & O.'s executive and finance committees.

Woman Glider Killed

Paris, May 15 (AP)—Madame Olga Girod, 30, woman glider champion of France, was killed today at Vol-sins airport, east of here.

Her glider crashed from a height of 30 feet while taking off in tow of an airplane. Surviving are her husband and one child.

SKINNING HUMAN Beings Now Done With Machinery

Invention Said To Have Wide Possibilities for Grafting

St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—"A new machine for skinning human beings to make skin grafting more certain and safe and thus save lives was demonstrated here today."

Harrington Scores Critics of W.P.A.

New York, May 15 (AP)—Col. F. C. Harrington, Works Progress Administration, said tonight the investigators of the Congressional committee checking on the WPA were "entirely absorbed in hunting things to criticize."

"So far as I can learn, not one of them has yet told the committee anything about the accomplishments of this program or the good it has done the unemployed," he told the ninth annual conference of U. S. Mayors. "Small faults have been magnified and great virtues entirely omitted."

Colonel Harrington said that of all senators who had opposed the WPA, he could not think of one who had notified him he did not want any work relief in his state.

"Fundamentally we had to choose between continuing our work program along its present line and abandoning it in favor of the dole," he added. "The latter would be a mistake of the most unfortunate kind."

He said there were 2,600,000 WPA employees as of May 8 and there was no intention of leveling off immediately to 2,000,000 — the 12-month average to be applied after July.

Mayors Edward J. Kelly of Chicago and Harold H. Burton of Cleveland joined in calling for continuance of WPA.

Southern Operators Reach No Agreement

Knoxville, Tenn., May 15 (AP)—Southern Appalachian coal operators failed to take any action today toward re-opening their mine-closed since expiration of a United Mine Workers' contract March 31.

The group decided to meet again Wednesday, but President L. C. Gunter said there were no indications a course of action might be reached at that time.

The southern group, employing approximately 7,000 miners in Kentucky and Tennessee, was one of six operator districts which withdrew from negotiations in New York before a union shop contract was signed with the UMWA.

An Obvious Veto

GOVERNOR O'CONOR has done the obvious thing in bowing to public opinion respecting the Jones "ripper" bill and deciding to veto the measure, which would have ousted Harry C. Jones, Republican state employment commissioner, from office.

The measure was generally regarded as a partisan expedient to get rid of a Nice appointee both for the purpose of getting his scalp and providing a place for another Democratic appointee.

Jones has proved himself a square shooter all the way around and as such has commanded the respect of all who have had business to transact with his department. The only criticism heard about him was that at times he was a bit brusque and tactless. That, however, is a feeling often entertained by those who are disappointed in efforts to obtain compliance with their requests.

Whether a three-man supervisory board with a paid director would be more helpful to the merit system may still be a matter of controversy, but the success Jones has had in the forthright administration of his office would seem to be an argument in favor of the single commissioner plan.

Whatever merits the bill contained with respect to improving the merit system if any were wholly overshadowed by the ripper provision. That such was the main purpose of the measure is a matter of record and general understanding, as Delegate White, who introduced it and lobbied actively to get it through the legislature, flatly admitted on the floor several times that his purpose was to get rid of Jones.

The War Vote Proposal

A SENATE JUDICIARY SUB-COMMITTEE in Washington has been hearing witnesses urge strongly that Congress submit to the states a constitutional amendment requiring a popular vote before this country could enter any war on foreign soil.

Three Democratic House members joined Representative Knutson, Republican, of Minnesota, in advocating the proposal, which was also supported by Mrs. Dorothy Dunbar Bromley, New York newspaper woman.

The latter, recalling that President Roosevelt opposed a similar war referendum proposal which was narrowly defeated in the House last year, asserted that his opposition was inspired by fear that the administration's foreign policies were not supported by a majority of the public.

"I should like to hear the president, in a fireside chat, explain to the American people," she said, "why he thinks they have not the right to vote on a war which would be of our own seeking or making in Europe or Asia."

Knutson, who voted against the entry of the United States in the World War, expressed the opinion that this country would not have entered it if there had been a vote of the people.

Representative Fulmer, Democrat, of South Carolina, said there was widespread fear that the United States would become involved in war. Other Democrats supporting the proposal included Representative Hill, of Washington, and O'Connor, of Montana.

Mrs. Bromley's opinion that the president's opposition was inspired by fear that his foreign policies are not supported by the people may or may not be correct. But there is one sure thing about the proposal and it is that it is prompted by a fear on the part of the people that a reckless, impulsive and heedless executive might unnecessarily lead us into a war. If we had a president on whom more reliance could be placed the voting proposal probably would not now be bobbing up again.

Returning

THE NEWS is glad to note evidences of renewed activity and increased interest in their party organizations by the Republicans of West Virginia. That they are thus early in preparing for a militant offensive is significant of the widespread change of political sentiment that has been growing for some time in the Little Mountain State.

The selection of Robert H. C. Kay, Charleston attorney, as state chairman, is heralded as a happy move. The Morgantown Post characterizes him as a fighting leader, and that is the kind the times now require. He comes by his fighting spirit naturally, according to the Post, who says he has always had it and had it when he played football at the state university, where he captained the varsity eleven in his senior year. He had it also afterward in his professional life as a lawyer and as an active worker in the ranks.

"As assistant state chairman for the past two years," the Post says, "Bob has gained additional experience in political leadership and widened knowledge of the state. His promotion to the chairmanship is well deserved and gives the party a virile leader who will instill new fighting spirit into the ranks of the party all over West Virginia."

The Post is also glad to note that at the Republican rally held the other day in Charleston emphasis was placed on the financial policies of the state rather than on the deficit financing of the New Deal. According to what several speakers there declared, the New Deal extravagance has been more than patterned by the state Democratic administration.

"Under the pressure principally of the tax limitation amendment," it says, "our local units of government in West Virginia have been compelled to practice economy to such an extent that the comparative prodigality of the State government at Charleston has been largely overlooked.

"We think a careful analysis of State expenditures will show that economy has been practiced almost everywhere else in West Virginia except in the Statehouse itself, and that in the Statehouse money is being spent at a rate without parallel in our history—and furthermore that the Statehouse has succeeded in building up one of the most powerful political machines West Virginia has ever seen.

"Chairman Kay as a resident of Charleston is in a favored position to observe the policies of the state government at first hand, and we believe that under his leadership the Republicans of West Virginia in the next year will be given a clearer understanding of those policies than they now have."

Republicans of Western Maryland, who also are girding themselves for the forthcoming political fray, congratulate their neighboring party workers and wish the party organization success under the Kay leadership. From all present indications West Virginia is going back into the Republican column at the next election.

Repeating

DISTRICT ATTORNEY THOMAS E. DEWEY, of New York, declares that the state workmen's compensation insurance fund of that state has been defrauded of $30,000,000 in the last five years through a conspiracy of employers and fund auditors.

The disclosure followed the confession of an auditor that he had taken bribes from employers to falsify the number of their employees, thereby reducing their insurance premiums. The accused auditor pleaded guilty and was released under bond on the understanding that he would help the investigators.

Quite likely more of this sort of thing has been going on throughout the country and it is not unexpected. It has been prompted by growing onerous taxation. It is the same old story of the flouting of law in the prohibition era. History seems to be repeating.

Confirms Suspicion

DR. EDUARD BENES, former president of Czechoslovakia, declares that the dictatorship countries no longer are speaking of their internal achievements but of their armaments because internally they are approaching collapse.

"My prediction is," Dr. Benes says, "that all totalitarian regimes will fall and that, I firmly believe, will bring a new period of liberty for my country, Czechoslovakia."

The assertions conform to suspicions that have been entertained for some time. We can all hope his prediction is correct. If there is anything to what he says, it is not necessary for the United States to jump into the European situation, as it will in time take care of itself.

Olympics for Women

WE have been in the habit of thinking that the women of America are the freest on earth, farthest in the front in their battle for equal rights with men. The notion goes by the board as we read a dispatch from Geneva, Switzerland, which reports that Scandinavian women have achieved the greatest advancement in the right for equal rights with men in industry.

The survey, which shows that the status of working women in various parts of the world ranges all the way from complete subservience to full equality, shows that in certain parts of the Orient woman is a slave, while in the Scandinavian countries women in industry are on a par with men and in advance of their sisters elsewhere, and that includes even the United States.

The keeping of fruits for extended periods by anesthesia is a long step forward, as a breakfast grapefruit still under the ether will show little fight.

History tells of many a stout fellow who single-handed held a bridge or mountain pass against the enemy host. We don't know much about corridors.

The man at the next desk says that no matter how autos are improved mechanically some still will be driven by cranks.

Things To Argue About

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Does the "sensitive individual" get a better break from life than the more phlegmatic fellow? Does the greater intensity of his pleasure make amends for the greater intensity of his pain?

Does spanking a child do any good?

How much does a doctor actually help a sick person? What percentage would get well anyway?

Does medical care cost too much? Whose fault is that?

What's the use of dieting? If a person's going to be fat, will he be fat regardless of how much he eats?

Can a man, by taking good care of himself, increase the span of his life? Or is the length of his years, barring accidents, fixed by heredity factors?

How about the "younger generation"? Is it serious or frivolous? Has it a right to feel aggrieved? Will it do better than its fathers and grandfathers have?

If you didn't have to work, what WOULD you do? And would you be happy?

Is joy higher or lower in the scale of human emotions than grief?

People are always talking about the "terrific speed of modern life"—but it is actually any faster for the average man than it was for his ancestors?

What's the argument, if any, for vegetarianism?

How would you like to live in Russia? In Germany? In England? In the South Seas?

Can you catch a cold by sitting in a draft?

What's the best automobile for the money?

Has the human race improved in 2,000 years? Have we stopped torturing people because we have grown kinder—or more squeamish?

How does your garden grow?

The Human Side Of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

A famous New York couturier instructs us that madame and mademoiselle should wear when she airplanes to a beach resort this summer, and that list supplies an almost incredible contrast to the wardrobe of the ladies thirty-five years or so ago. The modern outfit for airplaning weighs forty pounds, with every accessory, from hat to beach-bag, as the fair viewer wings away to the seashore.

I submit a listing as prepared by a leading New York couturier, including everything from hat to beach-bag, as she wings away to a shore resort:

"Three-piece covert cloth suit with topcoat; a linen crash dress; a silk polka dot dress; a rayon striped jersey; a printed satin afternoon suit; a black crepe dinner gown; a white sculptured evening gown; two bathing suits pajamas and playsuit, and a silver fox bolero jacket for both daytime and evening events."

The contrast appears in a cut-back to the days when women perhaps floated diaphanously in crinoline but didn't fly through the air. But even in those days when we moved on the earth, and not in the heavens above or the waters beneath, space and weight of garments were important considerations.

A book called "Decorum," published anonymously in the seventies, and recently come to hand, bridged this half-century stretch more effectively than even Hollywood could do—against the background of feminine levitation today.

In Former Days

Here's how madame was rigged for a trip to Europe, when the Wright Brothers were toddlers, when Thomas Alva Edison was a telegraph operator, when Adolph Zukor was sweeping out a fur shop:

"An elastic valise and a hand-satchel," says the book, "at the side of which is strapped a waterproof, are enough baggage to start with. In the valise, changes of linen, consisting of two garments, nightgowns and 'angel' drawers. These latter are made of cotton or linen, and consist of a waist cut like a plain corset-cover, but extending all in one piece in front with the drawers, which button on the side. Usually the waists of these drawers are made without sleeves, or with only a short cap at the top of the arm, but for a European trip it is advisable to add sleeves to the waist so that cuffs—paper cuffs if preferred—can be buttoned to them."

"Thus, in one garment easily made, easily removed, and as easily washed as a chemise, is comprised drawers, chemise, corset-cover and undersleeves, the whole occupying no more room than any single article of underwear and saving the trouble attending the care and putting of many pieces.

"A gauze flannel undershirt underneath is perhaps a necessary precaution, and ladies who wear corsets can place them next to this. Over these, the single garment mentioned adds all that is required in the way of underwear except two skirts and small light hair-cloth tournure."

Plenty and Then Some

Try reading that aloud to a flock of youngsters back from college. And then continue:

"Of dresses, three are required—one a traveling dress of brown de beige, a double calico wrapper of black or hairstriped silk. The latter is best, because it is light, because it does not take dust, because it does not crush easily and because by judicious making and management it can be arranged into several costumes which will serve for city sight-seeing throughout the journey and be good afterward to bring home."

"Then, if there is room, an old black silk or black alpaca skirt may be found useful, and an embroidered linen or batiste

Lowell Mellett Is Slated To Become One of Six New Aides to President

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

That Lowell Mellett will be one of the six "assistant presidents" whom the White House tenant is authorized to appoint, under the provisions of the government reorganization program recently approved by Congress and now in process of being made effective, is accepted in Washington as a foregone conclusion.

Lowell Mellett. In fact, he may already have been appointed by the time these lines can be printed. If not, he will be shortly.

In suggesting the desirability of the creation of this half dozen of new jobs, President Roosevelt mentioned that an outstanding qualification for possible eligibles must be "a passion for anonymity."

Lowell has it all right. I don't know of another individual as intrinsically prominent as he is who camouflages his prominence quite successfully. True, he breaks into "Who's Who" involuntarily. All newspapermen and higher-ups in the federal administration are acquainted with him and with his merits. Nevertheless, he's a wonder for his cleverness at avoiding capitalization of himself.

He can't be anonymous to me, though. I was a fellow reporter with him twenty-five or thirty years ago. We've sat, side by side at the same boarding house table. We've worked together on a succession of newspapers.

Started as a Hoosier

Lowell began life as a little Hoosier around fifty-five years ago. I first met him as a humble legman for the Indianapolis News. Being slightly his senior and occupying the relatively important job of telegraph editor, I patronized him somewhat, despite my appreciation of his underlying abilities. Little did I realize that he was destined to become an "assistant president."

Later we were associated on the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. That's when we were co-boarders in the maternal home of the since celebrated Roy W. Howard, now head of the far-flung Scripps-Howard journalistic set-up. Would anybody believe it?—Ray was a copy-reader on my Post-Dispatch telegraph desk.

From then I've worked, off and on, with Lowell until quite lately, on one newspaper or another. Boy!—is he anonymous, so far as I'm concerned?

Lowell always was a corking good politico-economic liberal. For quite a spell the newspapers he was working for were as liberal as he was. But with the incoming of the New Deal his newspaper connection turned a trifle more anti-New Dealish than he could countenance. Most editors can readjust their views to suit their bosses' policies. He couldn't, so he quit. Whether you call it good judgment or not, it was conscientious.

It must have been a strain, too, giving up a life connection upon a point of principle!

The Great Game Of the "Fixer"

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C., May 15.—The S. E. C. asked in a hearing why Mr. Ben Grey is, what he does and why Associated Gas paid him $55,000 for eleven months' work. A vice president of the company replied that the company's bankers thought that "one of the obstacles to large financing or re-financing by the Associated System was the poor state of relations of the system with the public and especially with public regulatory and other agencies."

Mr. Grey was hired "to study public relations with particular reference to the financial, tax and allied problems of the system." That press dispatch is all I know about this incident or Mr. Grey.

But the news item calls to mind the great name of the Washington fixer. It is a profession that has ballooned in growth with the vast government in intensified bureaucratic power. Some of it is perfectly legitimate. The average business man, suddenly needed from any of the infinite angles of growing government control, is usually both bewildered and frightened. He doesn't know what it is all about. He doesn't know the mystic maze of Washington. He needs help.

Plenty of Help

The help is here as busy and as numerous as a hole full of ants. Some of it professes to do no more than guide and advise. But a lot of it claims to control inside paths to sure and certain results—for a consideration. Most of this latter is simply sucker-lye. This administration may be dizzy but it is not dishonest. Washington never saw a cleaner crew.

This doesn't faze the fixer. Once in N. R. A., before going to the office, I took my dogs through the hotel lobby for their morning airing. A natty gent whom I couldn't remember ever having seen before, broke away from a conversation with a worried looking man. He loudly hailed me by my first name and asked whether he could walk around the block with me—which he did—and talked about dogs, dogs, nothing but dogs.

Profitable Jaunt

I heard later that he collected $5000 for that saunter. The worried one had a modification of an N. R. A. agreement pending before an N. R. A. board which was acting on them as fast as they came. The fixer knew this and that his harassed client would get run-of-mill action that day. So he "guaranteed" to get it through favor. The first name and dog-exercise stunt left the victim know how intimate he was and how easy the fix was.

A girl secretary in my outer office found that a friend had cooled his heels in Washington for a week. He was in the clutches of a fixer who promised to "arrange" an official date with an assistant secretary of the treasury. He had already coughed up several hundred dollars in retainer and expenses. The young woman, who didn't even know the treasury official, simply reached for the telephone and made that date in ten minutes. Nearly all the New Dealers are approachable by anybody.

Should Try Themselves

There is a story of a fixer who left his prey in the ante-room of the office of a crusty official into which he brazenly horned. He was offensive enough to get literally kicked out—slightly mused but not at all flustered. He said: "The old boy was so glad to see me that he almost hugged me to death. Con on and I'll tell you about it."

Before hooking up with a fixer it would be well for people having business in Washington first to try transacting it themselves just as they would in Kalamazoo, Michigan. None of this is intended to suggest that Mr. Grey is in the fixer business. If his "study" of public relations with the S. E. C. "regulatory" agency didn't get him close enough for the commission to know who he is, he isn't a fixer or he wasn't worth $55,000.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. Distributors.

An Obvious Veto

GOVERNOR O'CONNOR has done the obvious thing in bowing to public opinion respecting the Jones "ripper" bill and deciding to veto the measure, which would have ousted Harry C. Jones, Republican state employment commissioner, from office.
The measure was generally regarded as a partisan expedient to get rid of a Nice appointee both for the purpose of getting his scalp and providing a place for another Democratic appointee.
Jones has proved himself a square shooter all the way around and as such has commanded the respect of all who have had business to transact with his department. The only criticism heard about him was that at times he was a bit brusque and tactless. That, however, is a feeling often entertained by those who are disappointed in efforts to obtain compliance with their requests.
Whether a three-man supervisory board with a paid director would be more helpful to the merit system may still be a matter of controversy, but the success Jones has had in the forthright administration of his office would seem to be an argument in favor of the single commissioner plan.
Whatever merits the bill contained with respect to improving the merit system if any were wholly overshadowed by the ripper provision. That such was the main purpose of the measure is a matter of record and general understanding, as Delegate White, who introduced it and lobbied actively to get it through the legislature, flatly admitted on the floor several times that his purpose was to get rid of Jones.

The War Vote Proposal

A SENATE JUDICIARY SUB-COMMITTEE in Washington has been hearing witnesses urge strongly that Congress submit to the states a constitutional amendment requiring a popular vote before this country could enter any war on foreign soil.
Three Democratic House members joined Representative Knutson, Republican, of Minnesota, in advocating the proposal, which was also supported by Mrs. Dorothy Dunbar Bromley, New York newspaper woman.
The latter, recalling that President Roosevelt opposed a similar war referendum proposal which was narrowly defeated in the House last year, asserted that his opposition was inspired by fear that the administration's foreign policies were not supported by a majority of the public.
"I should like to hear the president, in a fireside chat, explain to the American people," she said, "why he thinks they have not the right to vote on a war which would be of our own seeking or making in Europe or Asia."
Knutson, who voted against the entry of the United States in the World War, expressed the opinion that this country would not have entered it if there had been a vote of the people.
Representative Fulmer, Democrat, of South Carolina, said there was widespread fear that the United States would become involved in war. Other Democrats supporting the proposal included Representative Hill, of Washington, and O'Connor, of Montana.
Mrs. Bromley's opinion that the president's opposition was inspired by fear that his foreign policies are not supported by the people may or may not be correct. But there is one sure thing about the proposal and it is that it is prompted by a fear on the part of the people that a reckless, impulsive and heedless executive might unnecessarily lead us into a war. If we had a president on whom more reliance could be placed the voting proposal probably would not now be bobbing up again.

Returning

THE NEWS is glad to note evidences of renewed activity and increased interest in their party organizations by the Republicans of West Virginia. That they are thus early in preparing for a militant offensive is significant of the widespread change of political sentiment that has been growing for some time in the Little Mountain State.
The selection of Robert H. C. Kay, Charleston attorney, as state chairman, is heralded as a happy move. The Morgantown Post characterizes him as a fighting leader, and that is the kind the times now require. He comes by his fighting spirit naturally, according to the Post, who says he has always had it and had it when he played football at the state university, where he captained the 'varsity eleven in his senior year. He had it also afterward in his professional life as a lawyer and as an active worker in the ranks.
"As assistant state chairman for the past two years," the Post says, "Bob has gained additional experience in political leadership and widened knowledge of the state. His promotion to the chairmanship is well deserved and gives the party a virile leader who will instill new fighting spirit into the ranks of the party all over West Virginia."
The Post is also glad to note that at the Republican rally held the other day in Charleston emphasis was placed on the financial policies of the state rather than on the deficit financing of the New Deal. According to what several speakers there declared, the New Deal extravagance has been more than patterned by the state Democratic administration.
"Under the pressure principally of the tax limitation amendment," it says, "our local units of government in West Virginia have been comelled to practice economy to such an extent that the comparative prodigality of the State government at Charleston has been largely overlooked.

"We think a careful analysis of State expenditures will show that economy has been practiced almost everywhere else in West Virginia except in the Statehouse itself, and that in the Statehouse money is being spent at a rate without parallel in our history—and furthermore that the Statehouse has succeeded in building up one of the most powerful political machines West Virginia has ever seen."
Chairman Kay as a resident of Charleston is in a favored position to observe the policies of the state government at first hand, and we believe that under his leadership the Republicans of West Virginia in the next year will be given a clearer understanding of those policies than they now have.
Republicans of Western Maryland, who also are girding themselves for the forthcoming political fray, congratulate their neighboring party workers and wish the party organization success under the Kay leadership. From all present indications West Virginia is going back into the Republican column at the next election.

Repeating

DISTRICT ATTORNEY THOMAS E. DEWEY, of New York, declares that the state workmen's compensation insurance fund of that state has been defrauded of $30,000,000 in the last five years through a conspiracy of employers and fund auditors.
The disclosure followed the confession of an auditor that he had taken bribes from employers to falsify the number of their employees, thereby reducing their insurance premiums. The accused auditor pleaded guilty and was released under bond on the understanding that he would help the investigators.
Quite likely more of this sort of thing has been going on throughout the country and it is not unexpected. It has been prompted by growing onerous taxation. It is the same old story of the flouting of law in the prohibition era. History seems to be repeating.

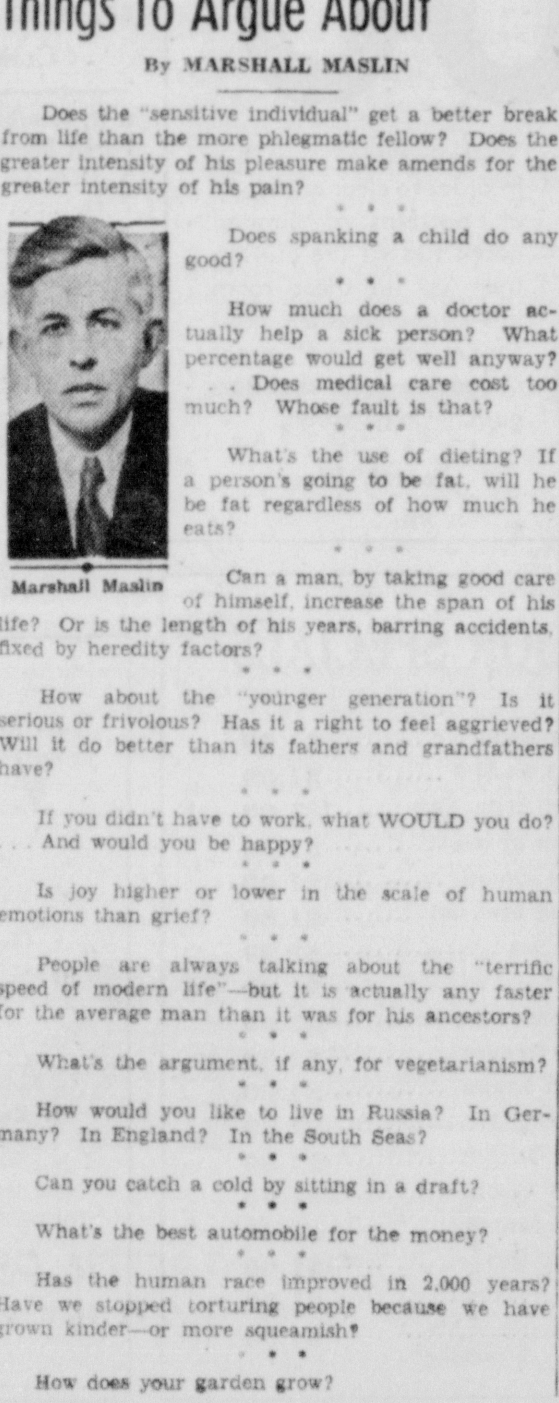

Confirms Suspicion

DR. EDUARD BENES, former president of Czechoslovakia, declares that the dictatorship countries no longer are speaking of their internal achievements but of their armaments because internally they are approaching collapse.
"My prediction is," Dr. Benes says, "that all totalitarian regimes will fall and that, I firmly believe, will bring a new period of liberty for my country, Czechoslovakia."
The assertions conform to suspicions that have been entertained for some time. We can all hope his prediction is correct. If there is anything to what he says, it is not necessary for the United States to jump into the European situation, as it will in time take care of itself.

Olympics for Women

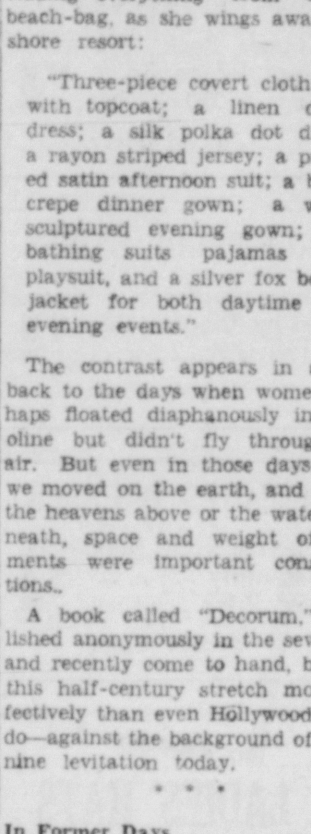

WE have been in the habit of thinking that the women of America are the freest on earth, farthest in the front in their battle for equal rights with men. The notion goes by the board as we read a dispatch from Geneva, Switzerland, which reports that Scandinavian women have achieved the greatest advancement in the right for equal rights with men in industry.
The survey, which shows that the status of working women in various parts of the world ranges all the way from complete subservience to full equality, shows that in certain parts of the Orient woman is a slave, while in the Scandinavian countries women in industry are on a par with men and in advance of their sisters elsewhere, and that includes even the United States.

The Human Side Of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL
A famous New York couturier instructs us that madame and mademoiselle should wear when she airplanes to a beach resort this summer, and that list supplies an almost incredible contrast to the wardrobe of the ladies thirty-five years or so ago. The modern outfit for airplaning weighs forty pounds, with every accessory, from hat to beach-bag, as the fair viewer wings away to the seashore.
I submit a listing as prepared by a leading New York couturier, including everything from hat to beach-bag, as she wings away to a shore resort:
"Three-piece covert cloth suit with topcoat; a linen crash dress; a silk polka dot dress; a rayon striped jersey; a printed satin afternoon suit; a black crepe dinner gown; a white sculptured evening gown; two bathing suits pajamas and playsuit, and a silver fox bolero jacket for both daytime and evening events."
The contrast appears in a cut-back to the days when women perhaps floated diaphanously in crinoline but didn't fly through the air. But even in those days when we moved on the earth, and not in the heavens above or the waters beneath, space and weight of garments were important considerations.

Well, he was out in the cold. However, the New Deal has a reputation for taking care of the faithful. It made him director of the National Emergency Council. This council's task has been to keep its ears to the ground, to feel the popular pulse, to keep an accurate check upon public reactions, to reckon with the results of New Deal policies, and the doings of New Deal office holders.
Briefly, it's been the administration's contact nerve with the country.
Lowell has been about the most sensitive nerve that anybody could imagine.
But when, as a nerve, he's felt a jolt, he hasn't let out a loud squawk about it! He's just passed it along quietly to the White House, permitting modifications with no hullabaloo. That was due to his passion for anonymity.
Now, reorganization's effects have been to group bureaus together, to switch 'em from department to department, and, in some cases, to abolish.
The National Emergency Council, however, is to be scooped in entirely by the White House.
The White House proposes to make that bunch its very own.
Its director is abolished, but he can be made an "assistant president."

Guardians Not Spenders

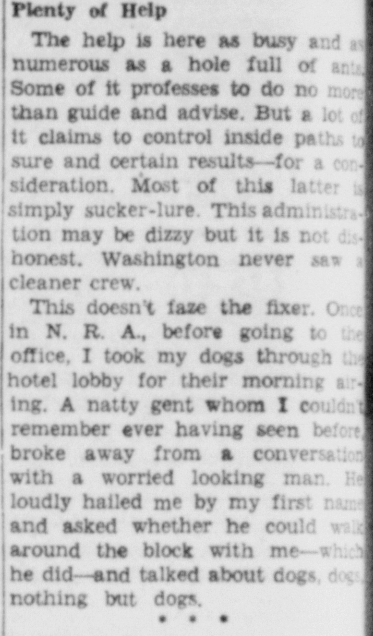

From the Johnstown, Pa., Tribune
New Deal assertions that the people generally approve the profligate spending of the present administration in its efforts to pull the country out of the depression by its own boot-straps are disproved by the growing volume of protest against the spenders. The following from the editorial columns of the Enid (Okla.) News, a Democratic newspaper, may be taken to reflect the opinion of that section of the country:
"Under the policies of twenty-six Presidents from George Washington on, policies of debt payment, balanced budgets, economic administration and reasonable improvements, the country weathered its temporary depressions and the people prospered as no other people in the world! During such temporary periods of depression, there was no attempt to manufacture prosperity out of blue sky or pull rabbits out of the hat by any one of the twenty-six Presidents. They all believed in the common virtues, used common sense policies and, like the governor of Kansas (Payne H. Ratner), had regard for their obligations to the taxpayers and refused approval of appropriations when unnecessary for the public interest.
"They were guardians, and not spenders!"
Newspapers throughout the South have expressed similar sentiments. The Solid South may be Democratic, but it is far from united in support of willingness to swap the present so-called Democratic administration for one by another name in the hope of getting the country out of the fix it's in.

Two Boys Killed In Chemical Blast

Chicago, May 15 (AP)—Two boys were killed and a third was injured in a chemical explosion at the Evanston plant of the Northwestern University Chemical Laboratory.

The dead were Mrs. Ellingwood's son, Donald, 14, and Jack Person, son of Ralph Person, an executive of the American Radiator Company.

The injured boy, Hubert Heffner, son of a professor of speech at Northwestern, suffered burns on the head and knees.

Poser for State Law Department

Salisbury, Md., May 15 (AP)—The expiration of Eastern Shore county election supervisors' terms June 4, and the special congressional election which will follow two days later combined today to give the attorney general's office a legal problem.

The supervisors want to know who shall do the work of preparing for the election of a first district congressman to succeed Rep. T. Alan Goldsborough, named to a federal judgeship. Furthermore, they want to know who shall get paid for conducting the election.

The attorney general's office has ruled that the present boards should set up the machinery for the special June 6 election, and that their names should appear on the ballot as the election officials.

But, the opinion held, if the new boards qualify, organize and get ready to "take over" by June 6, it will be their duty to direct the election and canvass of the ballots.

If the new boards supervise the election, the present officials, asked, will they receive any of the special election compensation for making the preliminary arrangements?

The attorney general's office hasn't answered that one yet.

Ask Compensation Checks for Miners

Columbus, O., May 15 (AP)—While Ohio's coal miners go back to work today, their union will continue here a battle to obtain reversal of a bureau of unemployment compensation ruling that the miners were on strike during the shutdown in the Appalachian bituminous fields a spokesman said today.

Ohio law provides that workers affected by a strike shall not receive jobless benefits. Administrator H. C. Atkinson of the compensation board held last week that a strike existed in Ohio and forbade benefits to approximately 15,000 miners.

"Signing of the contract in New York won't stop us," said Tom Price, vice president of district 6, United Mine Workers of America. "We intend to win a reversal and see that miners get their checks."

Appeals are being made to the compensation Bureau's Board of Review and the Federal Social Security Board.

African elephants are being killed off at a rate of 36,000 annually.

Roosevelt Plans New Peace Appeal

New York, May 15 (AP)—The New York Times says in a dispatch from Washington that it has been informed President Roosevelt is prepared to issue another appeal for peace at an opportune moment or if a new critical situation develops in Europe.

According to a state department official who had a part in the president's last appeal, says the Times, the president would suggest a conference to settle economic problems without territorial aggrandizement.

Frank L. Kluckhohn, who wrote the article, says his informant declared that the time and circumstances of the contemplated appeal would depend upon developments. Secretary of State Hull recently took care not to deny the possibility of such a move, the Times says.

In Washington, the article adds, it is considered unlikely Premier Mussolini's Turin speech today would alone provide the best opportunity for another presidential proposal.

Montana Men Like Smiling, Sincere Girls

Missoula, Mont. (AP)—Here are the qualities Montana State college men like to find in women:

Sincerity, friendliness and, above all, smiles.

They dislike:

Affectation, artificiality and "gushiness."

The likes and dislikes were disclosed in a poll conducted by Kaimin, the university publication.

SEEING IS BELIEVING!

Now... circus folks, too,
are comparing cigarettes
this strikingly convincing way...

"JUST watch 'em burn," is the advice smart smokers are giving on cigarettes these days. At the right, aerial ace Everett White of the Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey circus proves that one leading cigarette burns slower than other brands. The famous star of the high trapeze, Ed Rooney, observes that the winning brand is C-A-M-E-L! Camel's big advantage is in its costlier tobaccos, expertly blended in a cigarette made to burn slowly, completely!

Recently, a group of scientists made this interesting laboratory test on a bigger scale. 16 of the largest-selling cigarette brands were tested impartially. CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR THE OTHER BRANDS. (Camels were remarkably consistent. Cigarettes of some brands smoked twice as fast as others right from the same pack.) IN THE SAME TEST, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR ALL THE OTHER BRANDS.

Camel is the cigarette of costlier tobaccos... always slow-burning, cool, mild, with a delightful taste!

SMOKING IS BELIEVING!

If you feel that life owes you a little more fun, try a cigarette made with costlier tobaccos... a Camel! See how Camel's delightful fragrance and taste can brighten you up. Camels are amazingly mild. Cool... easy on your throat... really a matchless blend.

Camels have more tobacco by weight than the average of the 15 other brands tested. Besides, Camels burn slower than any of those other brands. And by burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands, Camels give you the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack!

Camels give you even more for your money when you count in Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos. Buy shrewdly! Buy Camels... America's first choice for a luxury smoke every smoker can afford!

Camel's slower burning (compared to the average time of the 15 other brands tested) gives you the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack! You economize while enjoying smoking pleasure at its best!

The famous star of the high trapeze, Ed Rooney, observes that the winning brand is C-A-M-E-L! Camel's big advantage is in its costlier tobaccos, expertly blended in a cigarette made to burn slowly, completely!

Recently, a group of scientists made this interesting laboratory test on a bigger scale. 16 of the largest-selling cigarette brands were tested impartially. CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR THE OTHER BRANDS. (Camels were remarkably consistent. Cigarettes of some brands smoked twice as fast as others right from the same pack.) IN THE SAME TEST, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR ALL THE OTHER BRANDS.

Camel is the cigarette of costlier tobaccos...always slow-burning, cool, mild, with a delightful taste!

SMOKING IS BELIEVING!

If you feel that life owes you a little more fun, try a cigarette made with costlier tobaccos...a Camel! See how Camel's delightful fragrance and taste can brighten you up. Camels are amazingly mild. Cool...easy on your throat...really a matchless blend.

Camels have more tobacco by weight than the average of the 15 other brands tested. Besides, Camels burn slower than any of those other brands. And by burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands, Camels give you the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack!

Camels give you even more for your money when you count in Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos. Buy shrewdly! Buy Camels...America's first choice for a luxury smoke every smoker can afford!

Everyone watches Everett White, the daring aerialist (center), intently, as Camels win in his cigarette test. He remarks: "Camel smokers know Camels smoke COOLER and Milder. And any smoker can see one reason why! Look how much slower that Camel burns! And, say, notice how the Camel ash stays on!"

Writing to People You Don't Know
Dear Miss Fairfax:
I've never seen him or met him. He lives in another city, but we've been corresponding for some time, and now I want to stop writing and don't know how to drop him gracefully. You see I don't want to tell any fibs or hurt his feelings, but for reasons of my own I want to stop.

DAY skirts are 17 inches from the floor. Quaint styles call for the slender silhouette. A dismal outlook for the lady who has permitted the calves of her legs to fatten. Life is a tough proposition for the plumpies, poor dears.

They've got to get to work, trim down the limbs, refashion their figures. The swimming season approaches and who wants to hide in the sand? The first thing to do is to buy a child's skipping rope. Bouncing into the air is a good way to shake off fat cells; five minutes night and morning. First with one foot, then with the other, then with both, leaping as high as one can. Casual movements accomplish no good.

I want to prevent that. We started writing last summer through my cousin's friend. R. H.

With a picked-up correspondence such as you describe, no heavy barrage of etiquette is necessary. Just write a polite note and say it's not convenient for you to have him visit you at the present time, asking for your photograph at the same time. You don't tell me why you want to drop him, but I suppose your reason may be identical with that of other girls who write me along the same lines.

You've met a boy you're taking seriously, and you don't want him to know you've been indulging in a haphazard correspondence and exchanging photographs with a boy you don't know.

Single Man a Free Lance

Dear Miss Fairfax:
Before I tell you my story, please let me say that I'm not engaged to anyone. However, I did have a certain lady in mind. She's the right age, about 40, knows how to keep house, and my kids like her. But we had no understanding, though I often took her to the movies and drove her out in my car.

The other night I came down in the elevator of the office building where I work, with one of the telephone operators. I have just a business acquaintance with this girl. I invited her into the drug store to have a glass of soda. The older lady saw us, and if I'd been married to her, she couldn't have raised more dust. She wrote me a scorching letter, and told me she had no use for skirt-chasers. Do you see any reason for her getting so mad over this?

To my way of thinking you're very fortunate to have experienced one of the lady's tantrums before your friendship with her went any farther. Think of the war dances you'd have to witness if you married anyone as jealous as that. And please let me say here and now, that any widower, bachelor or other unattached male is at liberty to drink soda water with anyone he pleases. If he's married, it's up to his wife.

Beware of Jealousy!

Dear Miss Fairfax:
My fiancée told me he was very tired and thought he'd go home and go to bed early. I discovered, however, that he went to a game with one of his men friends, so I discussed this with a third party and doubted his fidelity. He heard about it and naturally was angry. There were no girls at the game, and really nothing to be jealous about.

Some months before this we had a row and broke up through jealousy on my part, but we came together again and have been very happy until I have one of my jealous fits. I want to overcome this fault, drive out the green-eyed monster, but it's

REVERSING THE PROVERB

"SUFFICIENT UNTO the day is the evil thereof" may be a good proverb, but it would be a very bad guide in bridge. If a player considers each trick as a thing of itself without looking forward to its effect upon other tricks, he can never become a real cardsman. The latter part of many a contract depends upon what is done on the very first trick.

His failure to switch to a heart when he got the discouraging signal of the 6 and 7 from East, gave South a chance for his contract, but he fumbled it. He trumped the third Club with the 8 and then was utterly unable to avoid the loss of two heart tricks.

Had South ruffed the third club with the spade 10, and hoped for a drop of the Q on two top spades, he then could have cashed his two high diamonds and used the spade-8 to the spade-9 as an entry to dummy to run three more diamonds and thus make his contract.

New Graduation Dresses Lean to Simplicity

A yoke of sheer embroidered organdy with a crisp little Peter Pan collar marks this grammar school graduation frock of white rayon marquisette. It is finished with a sash girdle which ties in the back and is ready to dance at summer parties.

BY ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

There's a frothy look to many of this year's graduation frocks. Accent on femininity in spring fashions has produced a whole school of commencement dresses which are "sheer and sweet."

They are made of organdies, mousseline de sole, dotted swiss, marquisette and sheer embroidered cottons, sometimes trimmed with ruching or lace. Their descriptions sound like the dresses worn by the sweet girl graduate of twenty years ago, but their designs are generally quite simple, in keeping with the mode of today. There are also a number of pique frocks that have a crisp tailored look.

To keep pace with youth's demand for practicality in clothes, more than half of them are so designed that they may be worn later as dance frocks for summer parties. The favorites are cut like evening frocks, with full sweeping skirts and are topped by boleros of the same material. Others have puffed sleeved bodices. Something new in a short-waist frock of white mousseline de sole which can be worn later as a casual summer dinner dress.

White, of course, is the leader, but there are a number of pale blue, pink, green and yellow frocks for commencement exercises in schools which permit pastel dresses.

Besides the frothy floor-length graduation frocks, designers have made some street-length dresses of tailored pique and rayon alpaca for high school girls, who want to wear the same frock for both Class Day and Commencement Day. The use of caps and gowns for high school commencement exercises is on the increase, they say, and a number of dresses are designed simply with that in mind.

Most eighth-grade graduation frocks are fashioned with street-length dresses, which are finding more favor with the grammar school graduates this year than last. Among the most frothy frocks for younger girls are marquisettes and organdies designed with Peter Pan collars and puffed sleeves, and crepe dresses whose bodices are banded with rows of Valenciennes lace. Both may serve later at summer parties. There are also pique and rayon alpaca dresses, simply tailored as a spectator sports frock, for summer wear.

For the girl graduate of '39 an American designer fashioned this frock of sheer white marquisette whose deep neckline and puffed sleeves are trimmed with narrow lace edging. A cluster of lilies of the valley holds a narrow ribbon girdle.

PUZZLED

To my way of thinking you're very fortunate to have experienced one of the lady's tantrums before your friendship with her went any farther. Think of the war dances you'd have to witness if you married anyone as jealous as that. And please let me say here and now, that any widower, bachelor or other unattached male is at liberty to drink soda water with anyone he pleases. If he's married, it's up to his wife.

Beware of Jealousy!

My fiancée told me he was very tired and thought he'd go home and go to bed early. I discovered, however, that he went to a game with one of his men friends, so I discussed this with a third party and doubted his fidelity. He heard about it and naturally was angry. There were no girls at the game, and really nothing to be jealous about.

Some months before this we had a row and broke up through jealousy on my part, but we came together again and have been very happy until I have one of my jealous fits. I want to overcome this fault, drive out the green-eyed monster, but it's

"The Authority on Authorities"

REVERSING THE PROVERB

"SUFFICIENT UNTO THE day is the evil thereof" may be a good proverb, but it would be a very bad guide in bridge. If a player considers each trick as a thing of itself without looking forward to its effect upon other tricks, he can never become a real cardsman. The latter part of many a contract depends upon what is done on the very first trick.

South opened this deal with 1-Spade, East doubled, South redoubled, West bid 2-Clubs, East 2-Hearts, South 2-Spades, East 3-Clubs, South 3-Spades, West 4-Clubs and North 4-Spades, which West doubled.

From East's failure to double, West deduced that he did not desire the lead of the heart suit which he had bid. West therefore led the club K and continued with the Q and A—very bad bridge. His failure to switch to a heart when he got the discouraging signal of the 6 and 7 from East, gave South a chance for his contract, but he fumbled it. He trumped the third Club with the 8 and then was utterly unable to avoid the loss of two heart tricks.

Had South ruffed the third club with the spade 10, and hoped for a drop of the Q on two top spades, he then could have cashed his two high diamonds and used the spade-8 to the spade-9 as an entry to dummy to run three more diamonds and thus make his contract.

GREEN EYES.

Several letters along the same line have come in this morning's mail. And each girl, a victim of the green-eyed monster, knows how wrong and silly she is to entertain doubts which are likely to wreck her happiness. Still they persist in scenes, accusations, and general trouble-making.

There's an old copybook maxim to the effect that the knowledge of a fault is the first step toward curing it. Lots of wisdom in that old saw, girls.

In the twelfth century the points of shoes were so long that the wearers were unable to kneel in prayer.

New Graduation Dresses Lean to Simplicity

BY ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

There's a frothy look to many of this year's graduation frocks. Accent on femininity in spring fashions has produced a whole school of commencement dresses which are "sheer and sweet."

They are made of organdies, mousseline de soie, dotted swiss, marquisette and sheer embroidered cottons, sometimes trimmed with ruching or lace. Their descriptions sound like the dresses worn by the sweet girl graduate of twenty years ago, but their designs are generally quite simple, in keeping with the mode of today. There are also a number of pique frocks that have a crisp tailored look.

To keep pace with youth's demand for practicality in clothes, more than half of them are so designed that they may be worn later as dance frocks for summer parties. The favorites are cut like evening frocks, with full sweeping skirts and are topped by boleros of the same material. Others have puffed sleeved bodices. Something new in a short-waist frock of white mousseline de soie which can be worn later as a casual summer dinner dress.

White, of course, is the leader, but there are a number of pale blue, pink, green and yellow frocks for commencement exercises in schools which permit pastel dresses.

Besides the frothy floor-length graduation frocks, designers have made some street-length dresses of tailored pique and rayon alpaca for high school girls, who want to wear the same frock for both Class Day and Commencement Day. The use of caps and gowns for high school commencement exercises is on the increase, they say, and a number of dresses are designed simply with that in mind.

Most eighth-grade graduation frocks are fashioned with street-length dresses, which are finding more favor with the grammar school graduates this year than last. Among the most frothy frocks for younger girls are marquisettes and organdies designed with Peter Pan collars and puffed sleeves, and crepe dresses whose bodices are banded with rows of Valenciennes lace. Both may serve later at summer parties. There are also pique and rayon alpaca dresses, simply tailored as a spectator sports frock, for summer wear.

Francos Wars on Food Profiteers

Madrid, May 15 (AP)—Generalissimo Franco has launched a drive against profiteers responsible for skyrocketing prices 300 per cent above pre-war level.

Through Civil Governor Luis Alcala, the Generalissimo deputized every Spanish citizen as a public defender in the new war against profiteers, urging them to report all those boosting prices.

Alcala then ordered every restaurant, cafe and tavern to cut prices to the levels prevailing July 18, 1936, at the start of the civil war.

but the average meal still costs the equivalent of $2.

Restauranters were directed to post conspicuously their price lists and heavy fines have been imposed on those caught profiteering. A few individuals drew fines as high as $20,000.

The upward revision of prices has continued generally, however, making Madrid one of Europe's most expensive cities in which to live.

The influx of thousands of visitors for Franco's victory parade next Friday has jammed every hotel and restaurant, providing a fresh incentive for business operators to hike prices.

A group of 360 Georgia 4-H club members participating in a 1939 egg marketing-leadership sold more than 6,000 dozen eggs weekly.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR
THE TELEGRAM had been read and re-read by the two of them.

Eleanor said: "I can't believe it, Phil. It was incredible that I should have won a prize of ten thousand dollars with that book. And yet it wasn't—not really. I think the publishers have got that much publicity out of it. But this is even more incredible."

"This" was the telegram from Mammoth Pictures offering her five thousand dollars for picture rights.

Phil was thoughtful, silent.

"Hadden't we better telephone a telegram straight back, Phil, saying we'll take it? Perhaps, even by now, they've changed their minds."

He shook his head.

"But, Phil," she sat up very straight and ran her hands through her hair. "Suppose they do change their mind and we lose it?"

"You won't," he said shortly. "Nor will you—" he would never say "we"—"accept that paltry sum."

"Phil!"

"I know how you feel, Nell, when you hear me call it a paltry sum. You're thinking that I've never made much more in a year, but—"

There was an expression of horror on her face, and her eyes filled slowly with tears.

He gathered her into his arms. "I'm sorry," he muttered against her breast. "You never deserved that, Nell. But I guess it takes a fellow a long time to get over the idea that his wife is more successful than he is."

"Rot!" she said. "A fine success I'd be without you! I was merely thinking that five thousand dollars was a dreadfully large sum of money to refuse."

He poured himself a long drink and swallowed half of it rapidly. "Okay, then; we'll start over. If one picture company will bid that much, we'll have to start some competition and see what other bids you can get."

"How can we?"

"I'll take care of it. An item in the right column. A word dropped to the right person..."

She regarded him with an appreciative glance. "Phil, you're wonderful."

"Writing is a game of big business these days. I'll see what we can do about second serial rights and all that."

"You'll really be sort of an agent, won't you?"

"Until you get one. That's the next step."

Her mouth was set in a firm line that he knew too well.

"You'll have to have one," he told her.

"No, I don't want one. I want you to handle my business, Phil. You understand me better than anyone else ever will. I can do things you tell me to. I couldn't do what other people tell me to. That's all I ask of you."

"You're in a big business, Nell. You stand to make a fortune and I wouldn't want to bail anything up for you."

"Whatever you do is right for me—and with me," she said firmly.

"If that's the way you want it... okay... I wonder if its too late to make a reservation on the plane tomorrow."

"Reservation for where?"

"New York, Nell. I'll run up and look things over. You think you could pack up alone and come back in a couple of weeks?"

"But you'll come back!"

"I don't think I can, Nell. We've been here nearly three weeks now."

"Do you know what it means, Phillip Parish, Junior?"

I have a job, you know."

Eleanor picked at the tweed in her skirt. She was thinking of what she had meant to tell him before the telegram came. Now, more than ever, she was sure that what she had been going to say was right, but this was not the time to say it.

She said: "Phil, fly up tomorrow and get the business over. It won't take more than a week. Then come back for just one week. Don't let's end our holiday on a business note. Let's go back as we came, in a holiday mood. Remember all the fun we had on the boat? Let's give ourselves another chance to play games together and dance and sit on deck. Please?"

He said: "You win. I might have known you'd outsmart me."

Phil was gone ten days. During those ten days Eleanor forgot that she had been annoyed at his use of the expression "outsmart me".

She didn't want to be the kind of a woman who would outsmart her husband. She was always thinking of his good, of their good, of the thing that was best for them as a family. Hadn't she often, in the past, had to proceed with Phil as she did with the children—presenting an idea to him, then putting it in effect over protests? And hadn't it always worked for their mutual good? Wouldn't they be living in one of a row of shabby little brick cottages on Long Island if she had not taken the initiative and insisted on the move to the house in Great Neck?

Buttering thin bread for their English tea—an innovation that pleased her spirit—she thought of the house in Great Neck. Why ever had she thought it attractive? The proportions of the rooms, the cheap imitations in its structure irked her. She had no feeling for going back to it. And having none, she decided to do something about it.

If she could persuade Phil...

He came back to her in Bermuda with a sheepish grin, saying: "I missed my meter. I should have been a salesman."

"What happened, darling?"

"Nothing much, only Dave Fine-

berg—in person, my love—paid twelve thousand, five hundred for the movie rights of "Kings."

Eleanor caught a firmer grip on her son, who wriggled on her knees. She gaped at her husband.

"It's true," he said.

She looked into the chubby face of her son. "Did you hear that?" she demanded.

He nodded because, obviously, it was expected of him.

"Do you know what it means, Phillip Parish, Junior?" she further demanded.

He put a rubber cow in his mouth.

"It means that we're going to live in this heavenly place for the rest of our lives."

Phil threw away a match without lighting a cigarette, as he had intended to.

"What are you talking about, Nell?"

"Don't you see, Phil? We're not going back to the sham business of living in New York. We're going to stay here. We'll put the children in good schools here. I'll write and write and write."

"You... seem... to... forget that I have a job."

"Of course you have, darling. You have a job for the rest of your life. You are going to be my manager. You said yourself that you missed your meter. Well, now you've found it. I would have taken five thousand. You got me seven thousand five hundred more. You've earned, in one stroke, as much as you make a year. Can't you see?"

His face was grayish and his voice was sick. "I see something, Nell, but what I see sickens me. If you want to stay here, you can do so. I'm going back to New York to my job. You'd better think it over right now and decide whether you want to come with me or not."

Eleanor went directly to her room and closed the door, too angry with his stupidity to speak.

He slept in Sonny's room.

Eleanor gave herself a day before she made up her mind.

County School Students Push Finger Printing

Breckley, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—Raleigh county's 24,000 school students have been enlisted in a campaign to get fingerprints of all civilians in the district.

The campaign, said Prosecutor W. A. Thornhill, is a part of a nationwide drive to print civilians for identification purposes.

"We can't force anyone to have his fingerprints made," said the prosecutor, "but I believe the students will think it is fun."

One copy will be kept in an identification file in the prosecutor's office. Other copies will be sent to the state police criminal identification bureau and to the federal bureau of investigation.

"Nothing much, only Dave Fin-

berg—in person, my love—paid twelve thousand, five hundred for the movie rights of "Kings."

Eleanor caught a firmer grip on her son, who wriggled on her knees. She gaped at her husband.

"It's true," he said.

She looked into the chubby face of her son. "Did you hear that?" she demanded.

He nodded because, obviously, it was expected of him.

"Do you know what it means, Phillip Parish, Junior?" she further demanded.

He put a rubber cow in his mouth.

"It means that we're going to live in this heavenly place for the rest of our lives."

Phil threw away a match without lighting a cigaret, as he had intended to.

"What are you talking about, Nell?"

"Don't you see, Phil? We're not going back to the sham business of living in New York. We're going to stay here. We'll put the children in good schools here. I'll write and write and write."

"You... seem... to... forget that I have a job."

"Of course you have, darling. You have a job for the rest of your life. You are going to be my manager. You said yourself that you missed your meter. Well, now you've found it. I would have taken five thousand. You got me seven thousand five hundred more. You've earned, in one stroke, as much as you make a year. Can't you see?"

His face was grayish and his voice was sick. "I see something, Nell, but what I see sickens me. If you want to stay here, you can do so. I'm going back to New York to my job. You'd better think it over right now and decide whether you want to come with me or not."

Eleanor went directly to her room and closed the door, too angry with his stupidity to speak.

He slept in Sonny's room.

Campus Event To Have A Male "Suds" Dancer

Morgantown, W. Va., May 15—(AP)—When "May Madness" hits the West Virginia University campus, a male "suds" dancer will just be part of the show.

That was the glee club's idea in an attempt to get away from the "bubbles" angle in the highly publicized balloon dance.

So when the club puts on its all-male show, Lewis Baker will come out in a short pink and blue net with pink bodice to match.

A grass skirt affair will be left to Dan Carr.

One teaspoon of swordfish liver oil contains as much vitamin A as eighty pounds of butter or 169 dozen eggs, say United States bureau of fisheries experts.

RUPTURE

SHIELD EXPERT HERE

H. M. SHEVNAN, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Cumberland, Wednesday, only, May 17, from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Mr. Shevnan says: The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly but increase the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closes the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume no matter the size or location. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate Mr. Shevnan without charge. Add. 644 N. RICHMOND ST., Chicago. Large Incisional Hernia or Rupture following surgical operation especially solicited.

DARK LINES SHOW WHERE TO PRUNE ROOT

Root pruning for better roses

Proper pruning of rose roots at planting time means bigger, better blooms later on in the season. One of the objects of root pruning of roses is to stimulate rapid growth of a feeding root system. Where each root is cut a callous will form and from this spot new, fibrous roots will grow. These roots, in turn, help to supply the rose with food and thus stimulate strong, vigorous growth and good health.

The dark lines on the accompanying illustration show where to trim the roots of a rose bush at planting time. Use a sharp knife to make the cuts. I shears are used the roots are apt to be bruised and crushed in the cutting.

If the roots of a rose bush are trimmed back in this way the growth of many feeder roots will be stimulated. If the long roots are left on a rose when it is planted only a few new feeding rootlets will be produced and the rose is apt to develop into a sickly plant. County School Students Push Finger Printing

Bekley, W. Va., May 15—(AP)—Raleigh county's 24,000 school students have been enlisted in a campaign to get fingerprints of all civilians in the district.

The campaign, said Prosecutor W. A. Thornhill, is a part of a nationwide drive to print civilians for identification purposes.

"We can't force anyone to have his fingerprints made," said the prosecutor, "but I believe the students will think it is fun."

One copy will be kept in an identification file in the prosecutor's office. Other copies will be sent to the state police criminal identification bureau and to the federal bureau of investigation.

State police and deputy sheriffs are cooperating in taking the fingerprints.

Clarksburg Student Gets Trophy for Best Latin Scholar

Huntington, W. Va., May 15.—(P)—A grade of ninety-nine and one half of a possible 100 per cent won for John Romine, a student at the Washington Irving high school, Clarksburg, the senior cup offered by the West Virginia education association for the state's best Latin scholar.

Twenty-six high schools were represented in the contest. The tests were given in March. "The questions were answered for the most part so accurately and so fully that it is very evident that the teaching of the classics is in good hands," said Mrs. Elsie Bolin of Charleston, chairman of the committee.

Eva Yon, of Bramwell, and Gladys Ruth Stafford, of Bluefield, were tied for possession of the junior cup, offered to the student making the high marks in first year Latin. Both made 100 per cent on the tests.

Other winners: Rosemary Shingleton, Clarksburg, for highest grade on fourth year Latin; Glenna Powell, Bramwell, for second year students; students from Belington, Ceredo-Kenova, Chapmanville, Charleston, East Bank, Grafton, Huntington, Hurricane, Kermil, Middlebourne, Parsons, Princeton, Ravenswood, Ripley, Sharples, Wellsburg, Weston, Delbarton and Wheeling.

Why Do Girls Consider Marriage a Cure-all?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Copyright, 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It's amazing, when so many roads lead to Reno and one marriage in every six goes on the rocks, that lovely girls marry n'er-do-wells—drunkards, skirt-chasers and men who never earned an honest dollar—and imagine they're going to reform them and live happily ever after.

Why this incurable optimism on the part of countless young women? They will marry a man who has been dragged through the divorce court on the ugliest of charges, two and even three times, and imagine they're going to turn the matrimonial derelict into a model husband.

As far as one can dope out the situation, it's a case of atavism or, as the dictionary defines this word, "The recurrence, in a descendant, of characteristics of a remote ancestor."

For countless eons of time, women have been the homemakers, and they have had their greatest happiness—normal women at least—in rearing and loving their children. And in spite of their protests, over drudgery and monotony, they're had an agreeable kick out of keeping house, feeding their families, and doing all those things that are essentially feminine.

So, in one or two, or several generations, it's impossible for femmes to go into reverse.

Remain Incurably Feminine

Women have sat in Parliament, in cabinets, in the United States Senate and House of Representatives. They have been judges, they have run big business, and according to statistics, they pay more taxes than men in this country. Still they remain incurably feminine. And what a blessing that is for what we have left of our so-called civilization. For, no matter how busily and brutally men may be engaged in the process of exterminating each other by war, women can be depended upon to pick up the pieces and carry on.

At times we're absolutely staggered to see the poor specimens of manhood that brilliant women marry. Those who have won distinction in the professions, in politics, in business, will appear with something that looks and acts as if it came out of the funnies, and yet, with pride, some super-woman will introduce it as "My husband."

Is this because women, with sufficient brains to enter the professions and business successfully, are too often poor pickers, when it comes to men?

The ultra-feminine woman who doesn't take life too seriously and knows more about permanents than she does about politics seems to be as successful in grabbing off a good provider in the way of a husband, as she is in picking up something at half its value on the bargain counter. You've seen it not once but a hundred times, the silly-little-hen woman gets the matrimonial prize all over her better endowed sister.

Answer Is Seen

Perhaps the answer is that women who have surmounted all the odds in the way of legal discriminations, prejudices, and have come out unusually successful may feel that they can work the same sort of miracle with a Grade C man as they have with their own careers. Starting out from scratch and achieving success in their own careers, they may feel they can do as much for an unpromising male, with the odds against him, as they've done in their own line.

And gifted women are notoriously maternal. The sorry little man who has never amounted to much may appeal to the successful woman who has more maternal instinct than the average. Whatever

The Marks of a Gold-Digger

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For three years I went with her, during which time I gave her everything she asked for. In fact, I spent a small fortune on her. About six months ago, while we were out together, she left me flat and went home with a strange man. I haven't seen her since. Now she tells my friends that she loves me, and wants to come back with me.

Would you advise me to take her back, and if I do, would she be faithful? I really think a great deal of her, and would like to have her for my wife. I am 32, and she is 24. TONY

If you're a glutton for trouble, Tony, you will probably become reconciled to this girl, and you may actually marry her. But I think you'll regret it. To leave a man for an absolute stranger and go away with him is a sufficient warning to watch your step.

"Oh, Dear, What Can the Matter Be?"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What ails some bachelors? They'd sooner string along a dozen girls, than go "steady" with one, settle down and be taken care of properly. Here's my story:

I've known a certain young man for a number of years, and we've grown very fond of each other. I am 22, and he's thirteen years older. I suppose when you're as much in love as I am, it's hard not to show your feelings, and I'm afraid I showed him how much I cared.

Since our last date he hasn't showed up, or explained why he doesn't want to see me any more. All he says is that he's too old for me, but I said that didn't make any difference at all. We are very congenial. MARGE

This young man of yours probably doesn't want to marry, or else he doesn't want to commit himself until he has considered the subject thoroughly. Don't be too impatient, and scare him away. It is seldom that a girl's youth is an insurmountable objection.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What ails some bachelors? They'd sooner string along a dozen girls, than go "steady" with one, settle down and be taken care of properly. Here's my story:

I've known a certain young man for a number of years, and we've grown very fond of each other. I am 22, and he's thirteen years older. I suppose when you're as much in love as I am, it's hard not to show your feelings, and I'm afraid I showed him how much I cared.

Since our last date he hasn't showed up, or explained why he doesn't want to see me any more. All he says is that he's too old for me, but I said that didn't make any difference at all. We are very congenial. MARGE

This young man of yours probably doesn't want to marry, or else he doesn't want to commit himself until he has considered the subject thoroughly. Don't be too impatient, and scare him away. It is seldom that a girl's youth is an insurmountable objection.

Conn Happy Over Operation 'To Aid Weight'

To Have Tonsils Out In Order To Gain Poundage

Weighing 173 Now He Expects To Gain 15 To 20 Pounds

Means To Step into Lightweight Class in Next Ring Bout

Pittsburgh, May 15 (AP)—Battling Conn's goal is the heavyweight championship, and he's leading his campaign in that general direction starting right away with the removal of his tonsils.

Only 21 and averaging about 173 pounds, the gangling pride of East Liberty said today "the doctors tell me I may put on 15 or 20 pounds after the tonsils are out."

"If things turn out that way, he seemed, "then I'll have a try at the Louis."

Conn, because he is still growing and is reputed to have the best left-hand in the boxing business, has been regarded as something of a "white hope" and as the fighter who eventually may beat Louis for the heavyweight crown.

For a time he was a middleweight, but he is more of a light-heavyweight. Last Friday he engaged in his last fight against a middleweight, beating Solly Kreiger of Brooklyn, in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Some of Conn's backers in his hometown doubt he will put on enough weight to become a good heavyweight, but Billy is actually adamant about the tonsilectomy. The operation will be on Wednesday, and in the meantime the fighter keeps his manager, Johnny Ray, arranged a fight with Mello Betina, recognized in New York as the heavyweight champion.

Grantsville Nine Wins Over Flintstone 12 to 4

Grantsville, May 15.—The Grantsville Baseball Club won its second game of the season, which was played Sunday with the Flintstone team on the opponent's field by a score of 12 to 4. Joe Diehl, who usually plays in the catcher's position, did all the hurling for the team and pitched a splendid game. Grimm occupied the catcher's job. In all, Grantsville got 11 hits, 10 of them through the hands of three singles and a double; Miller two singles and Orndorf a three bagger and a single. Midspaw was on base when Orndorf drove out a triple, which brought him in. The score was tied 1-1 until fifth inning when Grantsville scored 6.

Flintstone used four pitchers, Zimmerman, Moore, C. Mauzy and Eckhardt. Dolly was their pitcher. Mauzy got three singles and George two doubles and a single. Although Flintstone got 14 hits they were unable to make them count.

The home team made a striking appearance in their new uniforms, white and red. Their mascot, a Blocher and Tommy Bender, are similar uniforms. Allen Rodger and Logan Wangert, team managers, and Clayton Edwards, business manager, are making every effort to put the Grantsville Club on top this season and to insure financial success. So far it appears they are succeeding admirably. The game next Sunday will be played on the home grounds with the Barreillesville Club.

Entry Takes Pigeon Race

An entry from the loft of Charles Ryler won Saturday's Allegany Club's event, third in the third series being staged by the club, by flying the 309 miles from Cincinnati, Ohio, at a speed of 19 yards per minute.

Birds owned by Ralph Cramer, second and third with speeds of 184.53 and 784.27, while pigeons bred by John Brennan finished fourth and fifth with records of 177 and 783.12.

The rain and heavy weather entered by the birds accounts for the slow time of Saturday's race. A number of birds released at Cincinnati shortly after daybreak Saturday had not yet returned to loft Sunday.

Next week's race will be from the starting point for yearlings.

Participant In "Longest Love Fight" Is Dead

At Carmel, Pa., May 15 (AP)—Burke, credited with having participated in the longest "love" fight in history—a seven-hour, 19-minute 110-round draw in 1893—died yesterday at the age of 79.

The welterweight, Burke came to United States from England when he was 20 years old and settled at Monongahela City, near Pittsburgh.

"There's a cry from out the loneliness—oh, listen, honey, listen—Do you hear it? Do you hear it? You're a-holding of me so: You're a-sobbing in your sleep, dear, and your lashes how they glisten—Do you hear the Little Voices all a-begging me to go?"

ROBERT W. SERVICE.

Yes, they're whispering and pleading all across the April heather—The brassie and the niblick and each highly-bunkered spot; And though we've spent the winter very pleasantly together, What is a wife, O Dearie, to a well-played mashie shot?

There's a cry from out the fairway and my bally soul is lurching To the white pill flying swiftly on a dead line to the green; And my heart is all a-flutter and my April dreams are perching On the neck of Colonel Bogie, where I play like a machine.

"Do you hear it? Do you hear it?"—Where the iron blades are flashing In the yellow sun of springtime as I lean against the pill? As I wrap the shaft around me and I send the missile crashing And I amle on behind it over valleyland and hill?

"You're a-sobbing in your sleep, dear"—but remember, please remember, That though I've got to leave you now to seek a "string of fours," I'll try to make a point of it to drop in by November, Regaling you, O Dearie, with my alibis and scores.

Wanted—More Challengers

New York—What we need in this wide-spreading nation known as the United States are more challengers. We don't have to worry about our champions. We need more entries who can supply the competition needed for a contest.

Take the case of Joe Louis. His next two rivals are Tony Galento, the Human Barrel, and the winner of the Nova-Baer party on June 1.

You can figure from this why Joe can't sleep at night and why he spurns his victuals day by day. Galento and either Nova or Baer against one of the great heavyweights of all time, with three one-round blasts to his credit in his last three starts.

Then there is a horse named Johnstown, headed from a Kentucky Derby romp to the Preakness and other big stakes.

As Mr. Tennyson once said, "Then I looked into the future, far as human eye can see."

Looking into the future, with limited human vision, there is no horse within four lengths of Johnstown—not the Johnstown we have seen so far this spring. The only horse we have seen this season who might and can give Johnstown a race is Kayak II. These are the two standouts. But in his own league Johnstown is all alone. As much alone as Joe Louis.

There is only one Don Budge in tennis. There is no one now even close with the shadows closing in above Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry. There are no outstanding amateurs.

Ralph Guldhall has won two Opens in a row, for the first time since Bobby Jones repeated in 1929 and 1930.

In Baseball

The New York Yankees have now won three pennants and three world series in a row. They have a baseball colossus, bestriding a narrow world.

With Babe Ruth a memory—with Lou Gehrig on the rim of Memory Land, unable to help—with Joe DiMaggio in the hospital—they still opened the week by moving into first place.

It may be the Red Sox can prove to be a real challenger. No one else can. It would be a big event for baseball if this could happen—variety being the so-called spice of life.

In Polo

The same thing goes for polo. The invading British team will undoubtedly put up a brave battle and give their all. But you can't convince many up-to-date polo people that the British side can match Hitchcock, Iglehart, Phipps and Smith, if they happen to be named. Plus Eric Pedley. The U. S. side has too much of an edge.

No nation in sport has ever made a more determined effort as challenger than Great Britain has made for the international matches this June. Her committee has scoured India, Australia and almost every square mile of the tremendous British Empire for players and ponies and has come along with the best it has.

It will be a spirited engagement—but again the challenger seems to be well on the losing side, although not by any such margin as the opponents of Joe Louis and Johnstown are.

You can also add this U. S. polo team to sport's Golden Age for 1939. It belongs in full panoply.

Double Workmen

Two interesting experiments will take place shortly.

Ellsworth Vines, once tennis champion, will try his hand as an amateur golfer in the British amateur ten days hence. At the same time Charley Yates will be offering a stout defense of his title.

Vines is now a first-class golfer. I have seen him shoot a 69 over a hard course. He is usually in the low 70's.

A little later on, in the U. S. Open to be held at Philadelphia in June, Sammy Byrd, the ex-ball player, once Babe Ruth's substitute, hopes to be one of the leading contenders. Sammy has been extremely busy the last year ironing out the kinks in his swing and feels now he will be somewhere along the front line.

Byrd is among the long hitters, only a short pace back of Jimmy Thomson and Sammy Sneed of the

Eckhart Baseball City League Will Start Tomorrow

"Red Socks", "Giants", "Yanks" and "Tigers" Make Up Circuit

The city baseball league of Eckhart, in course of organization for several weeks, will get under way here today, May 16, when the first game of the schedule will be played at the Eckhart baseball park. The league consists of the following four teams: the "Red Socks", sponsored by residents of upper Eckhart; the "Giants", sponsored by lower Eckhart; the "Yanks", sponsored by Frog Hollow, Washington Hollow and Kelly's Pump; and the "Tigers", sponsored by the Parkersburg Road district.

The league officials, consisting of Walter Connor, president; Thomas Eckhart, secretary-treasurer, and Frank Delaney, official coach, together with representatives of each team, met last week and selected the following umpires to serve at all league games throughout the season: Enoch Logsdon, Jacob Seibert, Elmer Hansel and Roy Lynch.

All teams of the league will be made up of players from the sponsoring districts of the town, the idea being to confine the players to residents of Eckhart. The official coach will be assisted in training the players by the Eckhart team of the Bi-State league and the players in the city league showing the most talent and skill will be allowed to play at various times with the Eckhart first team.

Grounds in Tip-Top Shape

The opening game this afternoon will be played by the "Red Socks" and the "Giants," the match to be started at 5:30 p. m., at the Eckhart ball grounds which have been placed in fine condition for the opening game. The first game between the "Yanks" and "Tigers" will be played Thursday evening, May 19, at 5:30 o'clock.

The Eckhart Athletic Association, under whose auspices the league was formed, has equipped each team with high class baseball supplies and an effort will later be made to furnish uniforms. Residents of Eckhart, including the churches and others interested in promoting wholesome sport for the young people, are planning to make the two opening games next Tuesday the occasion for a general turnout of the entire town.

Invitations are being extended to former residents of Eckhart living in other sections of the county to visit the town next Tuesday and Thursday and help by their presence in giving the first city league ever organized in Eckhart an encouraging start.

The Philadelphia C. C. is also his home course where he plays as Ed Dudley's assistant.

The Vines-Byrd entry list will be well worth watching.

Yankees Prolong Winning Streak To Five On Shutout

Wes Ferrell and Johnny Murphy Limit Mackmen To Five Hits

Philadelphia, May 15 (AP)—The New York Yankees blanked the Athletics for the second straight day today winning 3 to 0 behind the combined five-hit pitching of Wes Ferrell and Johnny Murphy to run their victory streak to five straight.

Ferrell, making his second start of the year, was credited with the win, although he had to leave after the seventh inning because of a pain in the elbow. He allowed all five hits made by the A's.

Buck Ross pitched the first five frames for the A's, let in two of the Yankee runs and was charged with his third setback of the year, as the Yankees maintained their game-and-a-half lead in the American League race.

Dahlgren, with a triple and single, and Selkirk, with two singles, paced the Yanks' nine hit attack.

Paw Paw Defeats Great Capon 5-1

Paw Paw, May 15 — Rockwell pitched two hit ball today and the local high school nine defeated Great Capon 5 to 1 in a hard fought and well played game. Rockwell struck out 11 batters while Roby, pitching for Great Capon struck out 12 of the Paw Paw boys.

Each team scored a run in the first inning and then in the third Paw Paw won the game when Sherwood hit a home run, two singles followed and a two bagger by Borror scored two more runs. The final tally came in the fourth.

Sherwood was the offensive star for the locals, getting three hits out of four trips to the plate. Great Capon could have won the high school championship of Morgan county today by defeating the locals but now the race is still undecided.

The Lowdown on Polo
Confided by Expert

BY JOHN LARDNER
(Released by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

New York, May 14—A man or woman is practically "hors de combat," meaning no good socially, if he, she or it does not follow the grand old game of polo.

A prominent vegetarian once approached me in a Turkish bath and said: "Lardner, would it be correct to state that a person who does not understand polo would be better dead?"

Scratching my chest, I replied in the affirmative. "Yes, Trevelyan," I said thoughtfully, "on the whole, that's true. Ignorance of polo is what you might call 'faute de mieux,' or a living death."

"Then why don't you cut your throat?" said Trevelyan, quick as a flash. "You can't even keep a box score."

To The Jodhpurs Born

We both laughed heartily at this, for it is common knowledge around Duffy's clam bar that few men in the world possess a deeper and sounder knowledge of polo—known to the early Persians as "African dominoes"—than my correspondent. You might say that I was brought up with a polo mallet in my mouth. This led to a tooth disorder which was later corrected by bridgework.

Polo will reach its "Waterloo"—its social climax, in other words—next month, when the English and American international teams come together with a crash at Meadowbrook, Long Island, which is the mecca for the sport in this country, though a resolution to change the name of the town to Mecca, L. I., and install Arabian street-cleaners, was recently defeated by the board of selection.

The person who lurches out to Meadowbrook to watch these matches might just as well have stayed home if he does not understand the rules and something of the background, of polo. Polo's background is magnificent—bright pink, with liver-colored polka dots. The rules are similar to those of fly-casting.

Here are the points to keep in mind:
1. Horses can be changed only between chukkers, or in the middle of a stream, which amounts to the same thing.

2. The "chucker" is not to be confused with the "bowler" in cricket or the "pitcher" in baseball. The bowler is a type of hat, and the pitcher is something you can take to the well one (1) time too often, whereas the chucker is the equivalent of the styne in golf.

3. When a player drives the ball, or "pigskin," between the uprights with his mallet, he is credited with a "wicket," and the referee shouts, "oh boy, that was a wicket shot!" Hell, the game is simple.

Intercities Of The Game

4. The players are numbered—No. 1, No. 2, etc., etc., all the way up to No. 3. The fourth player is called the "back" by his friends, and "Mr. Back" by strangers. The official polo guide estimates that there are 870,000,000 strangers to every back.

5. The polo field is longer than a football field, and a polo game seems longer than anything you ever sat through.

6. The guy on the end is Tommy Hitchcock.

Once you have mastered these fundamentals, you are a thirty-third degree polo fan, and can ride any subway in the world for a nickel.

British officers in India invented polo one afternoon in 1862, when they were tired of stealing money from the natives. I remember my own introduction to the game, when I was drafted for the No. 3 position of the Nawab of Bhopal's team in '04. The Nawab—"Skipper," as we called him—played No. 1, but that was because of his money, of which there was $560,302.000.20, not counting rupees and annas. He was a rotten No. 1.

In a game against 16th Dragons, featuring the Mahajaha of Poopal (8 goals, 205 million dollars) at back, I scored forty-eight goals and was asked to leave the country. It took polo twelve years to recover from this blow, and the Nawab is still trying to cash my checks.

A proposal to change the name of "polo" to "faro" in 1918 was defeated, 6 to 3.

The Maharaja of Poopal died in 1921. Ten-goal players are admitted free of charge. Play ball!

Huttons Win in 10 Innings

Hutton's Hustlers maintained their winning pace by defeating Martin's "Dents" in 10 innings by the score of 14-13. Logsdon, Helmick, Foley and Kincaid each secured two bingles for the winners while Spangler, Browning and Ryan got a like amount for the losers. Detrick and Helmick got triples and Helmick a home run.

The same teams will meet again Thursday in what promises to be a red hot battle.

Score by innings:
Huttons.....432 103 000 0-13 12 6
Martin's.....000 000 000 0-13 10 0

Cubs Trim Bucs Behind Six Hit Hurling Of French

Chicago Pitcher In Rare Form Fans Retiring 14 Batters In Order

Pittsburgh, May 15 (AP)—The Cubs resumed their winning ways by thrashing the Pittsburgh Pirates today, trimming the Bucs 6-2 behind the six-hit pitching of the veteran Larry French. The victory was the tenth for the Cubs in the last 11 meetings of the clubs.

French was in rare form, retiring 14 of his former teammates in succession from the fourth inning to the ninth. The game gave the national league champions six victories against seven defeats for their first long road trip.

Rip Sewell, who blanked the Giants on the Polo grounds a few days ago, was hit hard by the Cubs and stepped aside for a pinch-hitter in the sixth. Mace Brown and Russell Bauers finished.

Augie Galan, moved to cleanup position in the batting order, reached first base for the eighth successive time in two games, getting a walk and three singles today.

The home team made a striking appearance in their new uniforms, white and red. Their mascot, a white and red dog, Tommy Bender, is similar uniforms. Allen Rodger and Logan Wangert, team managers, and Clayton Edwards, business manager, are making every effort to put the Grantsville Club on top this season and to insure financial success. So far it appears they are succeeding admirably. The game next Sunday will be played on the home grounds with the Barrellville Club.

Entry Takes Local Pigeon Race

An entry from the loft of Charles Eyer won Saturday's Allegany County Club's event, third in the third series being staged by the club, by flying the 309 miles from Cincinnati, Ohio, at a speed of 29 yards per minute.

Birds owned by Ralph Cramer, second and third with speeds of 24.53 and 24.27, while pigeons owned by John Brennenman finished fifth and fourth with records of 27.1 and 28.12.

The rain and heavy weather entered by the birds accounts for a slow time of Saturday's race. A number of birds released at Cincinnati shortly after daybreak Saturday had not yet returned to loft Sunday.

Next week's race will be for the starting point for yearlings.

Participant In "Longest Love Fight" Is Dead

Carmel, Pa., May 15 (AP)—Burke, credited with having participated in the longest "love" fight in history—a seven-hour, 19-minute 110-round draw in 1893—yesterday at the age of 79.

The lightweight, Burke came to the United States from England where he was 20 years old and settled at Monongahela City, near Pittsburgh.

The 110-round fight was held at Orleans April 6, 1893. Burke's opponent was A. Bowden, a negro.

STILL YANKEES' BEST

"There's a cry from out the loneliness—oh, listen, honey, listen—Do you hear it? Do you hear it? You're a-holding of me so; You're a-sobbing in your sleep, dear, and your lashes how they glisten—Do you hear the Little Voices all a-begging me to go?"

ROBERT W. SERVICE

Yes, they're whispering and pleading all across the April heather—The brassie and the niblick and each highly-bunkered spot; And though we've spent the winter very pleasantly together, What is a wife, O Dearie, to a well-played maschie shot?

There's a cry from out the fairway and my belly soul is lurching To the white pill flying swiftly on a dead line to the green; And my heart is all a-flutter and my April dreams are perching On the neck of Colonel Bogie, where I play like a machine.

"Do you hear it? Do you hear it?"—Where the iron blades are flashing

In the yellow sun of springtime as I lean against the pill?

As I wrap the shaft around me and I send the missile crashing And I amle on behind it over valleyland and hill?

"You're a-sobbing in your sleep, dear"—but remember, please remember,

That though I've got to leave you now to seek a "string of fours," I'll try to make a point of it to drop in by November, Regaling you, O Dearie, with my alibis and scores.

Wanted—More Challengers
New York.—What we need in this wide-spreading nation known as the United States are more challengers. We don't have to worry about our champions. We need more entries who can supply the competition needed for a contest.

Take the case of Joe Louis. His next two rivals are Tony Galento, the Human Barrel, and the winner of the Nova-Baer party on June 1. You can figure from this why Joe can't sleep at night and why he spurns his victuals day by day. Galento and either Nova or Baer against one of the great heavyweights of all time, with three one-round blasts to his credit in his last three starts.

Then there is a horse named Johnstown, headed from a Kentucky Derby romp to the Preakness and other big stakes.

As Mr. Tennyson once said, "Then I looked into the future, far as human eye can see."

Looking into the future, with limited human vision, there is no horse within four lengths of Johnstown—not the Johnstown we have seen so far this spring. The only horse we have seen this season who might and can give Johnstown a race is Kayak II. These are two standouts. But in his own league Johnstown is all alone. As much alone as Joe Louis.

There is only one Don Budge in tennis. There is no one now even close, with the shadows closing in above Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry. There are no outstanding amateurs.

Ralph Guldahl has won two Opens in a row, for the first time since Bobby Jones repeated in 1929 and 1930.

In Baseball
The New York Yankees have won three pennants and three world series in a row. They have a baseball colossus, bestriding a narrow world.

With Babe Ruth a memory—with Lou Gehrig on the rim of Memory Land, unable to help—with Joe DiMaggio in the hospital—they still opened the week by moving into first place.

It may be the Red Sox can prove to be a real challenger. No one else can. It would be a big event for baseball if this could happen—variety being the so-called spice of life.

In Polo
The same thing goes for polo. The invading British team will undoubtedly put up a brave battle and give their all. But you can't convince many up-to-date polo people that the British side can match Hitchcock, Igglehart, Phipps and Smith, if they happen to be named. Plus Eric Pedley. The U. S. side has too much of an edge.

No nation in sport has ever made a more determined effort as challenger than Great Britain has made for the international matches this June. Her committee has scoured India, Australia and almost every square mile of the tremendous British Empire for players and has come along with the best it has.

Eckhart Baseball City League Will Start Tomorrow

"Red Socks", "Giants", "Yanks" and "Tigers" Make Up Circuit

The city baseball league of Eckhart, in course of organization for several weeks, will get under way here today, May 16, when the first game of the schedule will be played at the Eckhart baseball park. The league consists of the following four teams: the "Red Socks", sponsored by residents of upper Eckhart; the "Giants", sponsored by lower Eckhart; the "Yanks", sponsored by Frog Hollow, Washington Hollow and Kelly's Pump; and the "Tigers", sponsored by the Parkersburg Road district.

The league officials, consisting of Walter Connor, president; Thomas Eckhart, secretary-treasurer; and Frank Delaney, official coach, together with representatives of each team, met last week and selected the following umpires to serve at all league games throughout the season: Enoch Logsdon, Jacob Seibert, Elmer Hunsel and Roy Lynch.

All teams of the league will be made up of players from the sponsoring districts of the town, the idea being to confine the players to residents of Eckhart. The official coach will be assisted in training the players by the Eckhart team of the Bi-State league and the players in the city league showing the most talent and skill will be allowed to play at various times with the Eckhart first team.

Grounds in Tip-Top Shape
The opening game this afternoon will be played by the "Red Socks" and the "Giants," the match to be started at 5:30 p. m., at the Eckhart ball grounds which have been placed in fine condition for the opening game. The first game between the "Yanks" and "Tigers" will be played Thursday evening, May 19, at 5:30 o'clock.

The Eckhart Athletic Association, under whose auspices the league was formed, has equipped each team with high class baseball supplies and an effort will later be made to furnish uniforms. Residents of Eckhart, including the churches and others interested in promoting wholesome sport for the young people, are planning to make the two opening games next Tuesday the occasion for a general turnout of the entire town.

Invitations are being extended to former residents of Eckhart living in other sections of the county to visit the town next Tuesday and Thursday and help by their presence in giving the first city league ever organized in Eckhart an encouraging start.

The Philadelphia C. C. is also his home course where he plays as Ed Dudley's assistant.

The Vines-Byrd entry list will be well worth watching.

Wes Ferrell and Johnny Murphy Limit Mackmen To Five Hits

Philadelphia, May 15 (AP)—The New York Yankees blanked the Athletics for the second straight day today winning 3 to 0 behind the combined five-hit pitching of Wes Ferrell and Johnny Murphy to run their victory streak to five straight.

Ferrell, making his second start of the year, was credited with the win, although he had to leave after the seventh inning because of a pain in the elbow. He allowed all five hits made by the A's.

Buck Ross pitched the first five frames for the A's, let in two of the Yankee runs and was charged with his third setback of the year, as the Yankees maintained their game-and-a-half lead in the American League race.

Dahlgren, with a triple and single, and Selkirk, with two singles, paced the Yanks' nine hit attack.

Paw Paw Defeats Great Capon 5-1

Paw Paw, May 15.—Rockwell pitched two hit ball today and the local high school nine defeated Great Capon 5 to 1 in a hard fought and well played game. Rockwell struck out 11 batters while Roby, pitching for Great Capon struck out 12 of the Paw Paw boys.

Each team scored a run in the first inning and then in the third Paw Paw won the game when Sherwood hit a home run, two singles followed and a two bagger by Borner scored two more runs. The final tally came in the fourth.

Sherwood was the offensive star for the locals, getting three hits out of four trips to the plate.

Great Capon could have won the high school championship of Morgan county today by defeating the locals but now the race is still undecided.

The Lowdown on Polo

Confided by Expert

(Released by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

New York, May 14.—A man or woman is practically "hors de combat," meaning no good socially, if he, she or it does not follow the grand old game of polo.

A prominent veterinarian once approached me in a Turkish bath and said:

"Lardner, would it be correct to state that a person who does not understand polo would be better dead?"

Scratching my chest, I replied in the affirmative.

"Yes, Trevelyan," I said thoughtfully, "on the whole, that's true. Ignorance of polo is what you might call 'faute de mieux,' or a living death."

"Then why don't you cut your throat?" said Trevelyan, quick as a flash. "You can't even keep a box score."

To The Jodhpurs Born
We both laughed heartily at this, for it is common knowledge around Duffy's clam bar that few men in the world possess a deeper and sounder knowledge of polo—known to the early Persians as "African dominoes"—than your correspondent. You might say that I was brought up with a polo mallet in my mouth. This led to a tooth disorder which was later corrected by bridgework.

Polo will reach its "Waterloo"—its social climax, in other words—next month, when the English and American international teams come together with a crash at Meadowbrook, Long Island, which is the mecca for the sport in this country, though a resolution to change the name of the town to Mecca, L. I., and install Arabian street-cleaners, was recently defeated by the board of selectmen.

The person who lurches out to Meadowbrook to watch these matches might just as well have stayed home if he does not understand the rules, and something of the background, of polo. Polo's background is magnificent—bright pink with liver-colored polka dots. The rules are similar to those of fly-casting.

Here are the points to keep in mind:

1. Horses can be changed only between chukkers, or in the middle of a stream, which amounts to the same thing.

2. The "chucker" is not to be confused with the "bowler" in cricket or the "pitcher" in baseball. The bowler is a type of hat, and the pitcher is something you can take to the well one (1) time too often, whereas the chucker is the equivalent of the styptic in golf.

3. When a player drives the ball, or "picks," between the uprights with his mallet, he is credited with a "wicket," and the referee shouts, "Oh, boy, that was a wicket shot!"

Hell, the game is simple.

Intricacies Of The Game
4. The players are numbered—No. 1, No. 2, etc., all the way up to No. 3. The fourth player is called the "back" by his friends, and "Mr. Back" by strangers. The official guide estimates that there are 870,000,000 strangers to every back.

5. The polo field is longer than a football field, and a polo game seems longer than anything you ever sat through.

6. The guy on the end is Tommy Hitchcock.

Once you have mastered these fundamentals, you are a thirty-third degree polo fan, and can ride any subway in the world for a nickel.

British officers in India invented polo one afternoon in 1862, when they were tired of stealing money from the natives. I remember my own introduction to the game, when I was drafted for the No. 3 position of the Nawab of Bhopal's team in '04. The Nawab—"Skipper" as we called him—played No. 1, but that was because of his money, of which there was $360,302,000.20, not counting rupees and annas. He was a rotten No. 1.

In a game against 16th Dragoons, featuring the Maharaja of Poopal (8 goals, 205 million dollars) at back, I scored forty-eight goals and was asked to leave the country. It took polo twelve years to recover from this blow, and the Nawab is still trying to cash my checks.

A proposal to change the name of "polo" to "faro" in 1918 was defeated, 6 to 3.

The Maharaja of Poopal died in 1921.

Ten-goal players are admitted free of charge.

Play ball!

Huttons Win in 10 Innings

Hutton's Hustlers maintained their winning pace by defeating Martin's "Dents" in 10 innings by the score of 14-13. Logsdon, Helmeck, Foley and Kincaid each reared two bingles for the winners while Spangler, Browning and Ryan got a like amount for the losers. Detrick and Helmeck got triples and Helmeck a home run.

The same teams will meet again Thursday in what promises to be a red hot battle.

Cubs Trim Bucs Behind Six Hit Hurling Of French

Chicago Pitcher In Rare Form Fans Retiring 14 Batters In Order

Pittsburgh, May 15 (AP)—The Cubs resumed their winning ways over the Pittsburgh Pirates today, trimming the Bucs 6-2 behind the six-hit pitching of the veteran Larry French. The victory was the tenth for the Cubs in the last 11 meetings of the clubs.

French was in rare form, retiring 14 of his former teammates in succession from the fourth inning to the ninth. The game gave the national league champions six victories against seven defeats for their first long road trip.

Rip Sewell, who blanked the Giants on the Polo grounds a few days ago, was hit hard by the Cubs and stepped aside for a pinch-hitter in the sixth. Mace Brown and Russell Bauers finished.

Augie Galan, moved to cleanup position in the batting order, reached first base for the eighth successive time in two games, getting a walk and three singles today.

Majority of Coal Mines in West Virginia Resume Operations

Kanawha Group Is Last To Agree To Sign New Contract

Action Came after Four Hour Meeting at Charleston

Charleston, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—The Kanawha coal operators association voted today to sign a "union shop" contract with the United Mine Workers of America.

The action came after a four-hour meeting in which several operators expressed their distaste of the new Appalachian wage agreement, which was signed by all but six of the coal associations in New York Saturday.

The Kanawha and five other Southern Associations withdrew from the wage conference at that time.

Today's action means that every coal field in West Virginia, the largest bituminous state, now is under the wage contract.

D. C. Kennedy, Association Secretary, said all member-companies present were bound by the majority vote.

Dry Branch Not Included
One major operation in the Kanawha field was not included in that action. The Dry Branch Coal Company, operated by C. C. Dickinson, withdrew from the Association last March. Dickinson was present at the meeting, and said informally that he did not know what his future course would be.

Kennedy and other association representatives were instructed in a resolution to meet with United Mine Worker officials tonight to draw up a formal agreement.

Prior to the meeting, eight Kanawha companies signed individual contracts with the mine union, and the general tenure of the long closed session was "what else can we do but sign," members said.

Most Mines Are Running
While Kanawha operators were studying their situation, it was estimated that three-fourths of the mines in other fields were running at least on a skeleton basis.

Some of them, particularly in the Windy Gulf field in Raleigh and Wyoming counties, were holding off at least a day to complete clean-up work.

The pickets who turned back men at the McKell operations on Loup Creek in Fayette county, said they intended to prevent operations until a contract was signed. There were some minor altercations but no disturbances reported.

Operations of the Carter Coal Company at Caretta and Coolwood in McDowell county and the U. S. Coal and Coke Company at Gary in McDowell county, remained closed.

The same was true of four operations of the Kingston-Poconahs in McDowell, Mercer and Fayette counties and the mine of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company at Dehue, Logan county.

Gary Officials Are Silent
Officials of the U. S. Coal and Coke, which operates the "captive" Gary mines as a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, made no statement but members of an independent employees association said they understood they would work tomorrow.

The United Mine Workers claimed to have organized a majority of the Gary miners during the shutdown and asserted it would not be reopened without a contract.

Reports from all sections of the state told of the recalling of railroad men by the scores to man the trains moving empties into mining areas.

It was reported at Fairmont that 26 small truck mines were among those resuming in Northern West Virginia. A majority of the big mines there also opened.

Roane County Court Is Given an Appeal

Charleston, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to look into Roane county's sheriff's county commissioners' argument over general relief.

The court granted the commissioners an appeal from a lower court dismissal of their petition for a mandamus order against the sheriff.

The petition was filed after Sheriff Phil Phillips declined to accept a $1,000 advance from the state department of public assistance to tide the county welfare department over until the beginning of the next fiscal year.

Young Man Dies On Point Pleasant Streets

Point Pleasant, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—An unidentified young man collapsed on a downtown street and died a few minutes later.

Deputy Sheriff Ernest Hesson said one identification found was a belt buckle with the monogram "E." Later officers found in the clothing a piece of paper bearing the words, "Luther McGuire, Waterloo, O., care Steve Wood."

Cut Rate Barber
Berkeley Springs, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—A barber shop hung out a "smoke sale" sign today, offering a shave and haircut for 49 cents.

The interior of the shop had been damaged by flames which started when gasoline plumbers were using ignited.

Commencement exercises for the sixth grade of the school will be held May 23 at 8 p. m.

May 28 at 8 p. m. the high school will have its nineteenth annual commencement which will feature a mock trial and will be concluded with the acceptance of the class by Kenneth Shaffer, assistant county superintendent. R. H. Pretwell, member of the board of education, will present the diplomas to the following fifteen graduates: Marie Bolyard, valedictorian; Lois Lindsey, salutatorian; Velma Bolyard, Darrell Funk, Delpha Knotts, Elma Mason, Alston Reed, Aubra Ridenour, Dale Ridenour, Freeman Ridenour, William Rutherford, Grace Schumaker, Loren Shahan, Gerald Stemple, and Harry Weaver.

Brief Mention
Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. Wilson have announced the birth of twin daughters at their home near here May 10. One weighed five and one-half pounds and the other five pounds. The mother was the former Miss Irene Pazembaker and the father is a son of the Rev. and Mrs. V. C. Wilson of this place.

A meeting of all persons interested in a local baseball team held Sunday afternoon in the Clark's hall here and the following officers were elected: Manager, W. H. Perill; assistant manager, Charles Portney; and secretary and treasurer, Harry J. Martin.

Mrs. Robert Davidson, Kingston, Mass., who spent the past week here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wiles, returned to her home Friday. She was accompanied home by Mrs. Blanche Wolfe, Kingwood, who will be her guest for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Boydland and daughter Jo of Dellsboro spent the week-end here with Mr. and Mrs. Watkins and Mr. and Mrs. Matty Bolyars of this place.

Boyd Haddox is a patient in the City hospital where he is under observation.

Parking Meters At Frostburg Ready To Use

New Ordinance Will Become Effective Tomorrow at 9 a. m.

Frostburg, May 15—Local and visiting motorists, excepting commercial trucks, loading and unloading, will have to pay for the privilege of parking on Frostburg's principal streets, commencing at 9 a. m. Wednesday, May 17, the date on which the new city ordinance with reference to traffic and parking will be enforced.

Parking meters have been erected on the principal streets of the town, and the mayor and city commissioners feel that the purpose of the meters and the provisions of the traffic ordinance are sufficiently understood that no confusion should result from the operation of meters.

The police force have been directing the painting of restricted areas during the past few days and also marking spaces in which cars are to park.

The new parking meters have all been tested and are already being used by visiting motorists who are accustomed to the meters in other localities.

Certificate of Good Will Given Glenn Beall

J. Glenn Beall, former chairman of the State Roads Commission, who recently relinquished his position as chairman, has been presented with a certificate of esteem and good will from the executive staff of the commission.

The certificate, neatly framed, was received by Mr. Beall last week, and read as follows: "We, the employees of the Maryland State Roads Commission, hereby tender to J. Glenn Beall upon the completion of his tenure in office as Chairman of the Commission our appreciation of the many courtesies and good will extended to us."

"Therefore, we desire to take this opportunity to extend our sincere thanks for his unfailing understanding and consideration of us at all times."

"Further, as evidenced by the efficient and courteous manner in which he has performed the exacting duties as Chairman of the Commission, we wish him further and continued success in the future."

The signatures attached to the certificate are Nathan L. Smith, chief engineer; L. H. Stewart, secretary; William A. Codd, Robert Reindollar, Austin T. Shore, Walter Hopkins, Leroy W. Kerns, Edward H. Nunn, P. A. Morrison, Ralph Townsend, E. G. Duncan, Douglas P. Campbell, Thomas M. Linthicum, Lawrence Thomas Downey, Joe Chaney, Lawrence A. Kahn, George H. Trice, Delancey B. Council Proceedings
The Mayor and City Commissioners at a special meeting this evening awarded the contract for operating the Community Swimming pool and playground to William Hughes, janitor of Hill street school who previously managed the property under a lease from the city.

Complying with requests of local civic organizations the council approved the action of Street Commissioner Walter Powell who appointed George Race, Washington street, to clean rubbish from the business section of the town daily and give the streets a thorough cleaning each Sunday morning.

A delegation of Centennial street property owners petitioned the council to have their street resurfaced as a WPA project. The city engineer informed the council that the street has already been listed as a WPA project.

The council will hold a special meeting Wednesday evening to receive sealed bids on the sale of $50,000 worth of street, sewer and water bonds.

Little Chicks Burn
Fire tonight burned a chicken coop of Charles Odgers which was located at the rear of his home on Center street, and destroyed twenty little chicks. The origin of the fire was not known.

The blaze could be seen for several blocks and a large crowd was attracted to the scene of the fire.

Layman Is Elected
Woodrow Layman, well known young hardware merchant of this city, was elected resident of Frostburg aerie, No. 1273, Fraternal Order of Eagles at the annual election of officers held Thursday evening. Other officers chosen for the ensuing year were: Kenneth Close, past president; Geo. Kennedy, vice-president; Arthur Norris, chaplain; George Race, inside guard; Thomas H. Morgan, secretary; Olen Gunnett, treasurer; Jack Evans, John Rank and John Dennison, trustees; Dr. W. O. McLane, aerie physician, and Joseph Eirik, George Kennedy, Russell McMurdo, George Wright and Louis Race, delegates to the State convention to be held in Baltimore in June.

The membership committee reported that the membership drive being held for a class initiation in honor of Thomas H. Morgan, secretary of the aerie for twenty-four years, would close May 30, after (Continued on Page 13)

Alumni of Bedford High Plan Program

Fiftieth Anniversary of First Graduating Class Will Be Observed

Bedford, Pa., May 15—Elaborate plans are being completed by the Bedford high school Alumni Association for the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the first graduating class of the local schools and the week end of May 28 will find many members returning for this unusual home-coming. Invitations have been sent to more than 950 of the 1100 living graduates of this school, addresses of a number not being on the records of the association. Four of the five members of the first class, graduated in 1889 are living and several will take part in the program, together with later graduates who have become prominent in public life.

Friday evening, May 26, at 7 o'clock the banquet will be held at Bedford Springs Hotel and a large crowd is expected. Brief addresses will follow the dinner and dancing to music of the hotel orchestra. Tickets are $1.25.

Saturday afternoon a tea will be given at the high school building, when old friendships will again be renewed. A sports program has been arranged for the younger set under the direction of Coach Koonitz. That evening a pageant, "Tower of Memories," will be held in the auditorium, to which the public is invited. The director is Mrs. J. Colvin Wright and most of the script was written by Miss Winona Garbrick. It will be an illustrated (living models) of the first general, or Dame school, the little red school house, then to 1821 when the first high school was formed; 1848, when girls were first admitted to higher learning, each stage of advancement represented by a character who relates his or her memories of those days. Then comes 1869 and the first class to graduate at Bedford, the first commencement program being reproduced in part, sufficient to give an idea of the entertainment of that day. The graduates were Misses Margaret and Elizabeth Metzger and Stella Grace Penrose of Philadelphia, and Dr. B. Frank Shires, now deceased.

A number of old photos have been secured, groups and individuals, have been made into slides and will be shown. The Keeper of the Clock has the power to recall the scenes of fifty years ago and as the characters pass across the stage many alumni will live again their happy school days here.

There are a number of graduates in Cumberland and the Bedford committee, which is arranging this homecoming event, urges that they plan to attend the banquet, as well as the pageant, as they will meet again many former school mates. The baccalaureate will be Sunday, May 28, when the Rev. Ellis Bell Davidson of Lock Haven, Class of 1904, B.H.S., will deliver the sermon. A large class will be graduated Monday evening, May 29, closing a historic week.

Final PTA Meeting Is Held at Kempton

Kempton, May 15—The final Parent-Teacher meeting of the year was held Thursday night. Following the business meeting a program pre-taining to Mother's Day was presented by grades one, three, six, seven and members of the association.

Personal Items
Mr. and Mrs. George Sowers Jr., and son visited the latter's parents at Bayard, W. Va.

Miss Mary Havran, employed as secretary of the People's Life Insurance company, Tazewell, Va., is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Havran.

Charles Reed, CCC, Boonsboro, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reed.

Hearings for Miners Are Posponed

Charleston, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—Scheduled hearings at Logan on appeals of miners for unemployment compensation were postponed today until Saturday.

Ralph M. Hiner, Chairman of the Department's Board of Review, said both operators and United Mine Workers' counsel had asked the continuance in order to avoid inconvenience to the men who have returned to work.

The department during the mine shutdown ruled that miners were ineligible for jobless pay because they were involved in a wage dispute. Between 16,000 and 18,000 appealed the rulings to the board of review.

Hearings have been held so far in Montgomery and Beckley. Hiner said the board would accept any reasonable suggestion by opposing counsel with respect to hearings on all pending cases.

Nathan Browning Dies in Garrett

Prominent Farmer Succumbs at His Home at Sang Run

Oakland, May 15 — Nathan C. Browning, 83, died yesterday morning at his home at Sang Run, this county, twenty miles north of here. He had been in failing health for a number of months.

Mr. Browning was born May 4, 1856, at Sang Run, a son of the late William and Ann DeWitt Browning, and spent his entire life in this county as a farmer. He was a grandson of Meshach Browning, one of the pioneer settlers of Garrett county who wrote the book "Forty-four Years of the Life of a Hunter."

He married Annie E. Fazenbaker in 1880, who preceded him in death thirty years ago. To this union eleven children were born, seven of whom survive, G. W. Browning and Edward M. Browning, West Leisenring, Pa.; Mrs. J. H. Hoffman and Mrs. S. B. Litman, Uniontown, Pa.; Mrs. A. C. Englehart, Meyersdale, Pa.; Mrs. M. L. Savage, Sang Run; and J. Frank Browning, Oakland. Also surviving are thirty-two grandchildren and eighteen great grandchildren.

Mr. Browning was a member of the Catholic church. Politically he was a staunch Democrat and served as justice of the peace for many years. He was a member of the famous "Haymaker Rifle Team," of forty and fifty years ago.

Funeral services will be conducted from St. Peter's Catholic church, Oakland, Wednesday morning, at 9 o'clock, with the Rev. Fr. W. F. Sauer officiating. Interment will be in the Methodist cemetery at Hoyes.

Transplanting of Seedlings Finished

Approximately Three Million Trees Set out at Parsons

Parsons, W. Va., May 15—The transplanting program at the United States forest nursery here has been completed, it was announced today by Donald A. Oliver, ranger in charge. He said that approximately three million two-year-old seedlings, red spruce and red pine, had been set out. A few Norway spruce and pitch pine also were included in the transplanting program.

Mr. Oliver also stated that four million seedlings are in the seed beds being germinated for next spring. The main work now at the nursery is shading, weeding, cultivating transplants, installing and operating the automatic sprinkling lines.

A crew of men today started ground preparations such as plowing and discing for cover crops used in rotation with seed beds and transplants for maintenance of soil fertilizers. Two new buildings are also being erected at the nursery grounds. Twenty-five regular nursery employees are employed there and some CCC boys are engaged in construction of the new buildings.

Everett Lewis Fined

State police yesterday arrested Everett Lewis, 24, Horseshoe Run, charged with driving a car while intoxicated on the highway near Thomas. Troopers C. G. Hamrick and R. G. Coen made the arrest. He was arraigned before Magistrate C. B. Collins who fined him $25 and costs, revoked his license and impounded his car for six months.

Brief Items
The annual sermon to the Parsons high school graduates was delivered yesterday by the Rev. K. M. Scott, of the Southern Methodist church. There are sixty-nine in the graduating class.

Commencement at Grantsville on June Seventh

Annual Events Will Begin May 25 With County Athletic Meet

Grantsville, May 15 —With a little more than three weeks before the closing of school for the summer vacation, the local high school is busily preparing for the graduation of its seniors. Commencement exercises will be held June 7, and for the second time the services will be in the school auditorium.

A number of activities are being planned. The County Athletics meet will be held at Accident Thursday, May 25. The Junior-Senior Prom is scheduled to take place Friday evening, May 26.

Enjoyable Concert
The concert presented Friday night by students of the Rev. A. M. Wright, Salisbury, Pa., proved to be a most enjoyable one. In addition to group numbers which were in almost perfect harmony and rhythm, there were vocal solos by young Dale Hoffman, Virginia Vangilder and Margie Hartzel, the girls playing their own accompaniment; duets by Aza Stanton and Kenneth Wilburn; Foster and Hubert Broadwater; Robert Hetrick and Rev. Wright; the Maust Brothers; Mabel Jane Murray and Ethel Ross; trios by Austin Hoffman, Leroy Deshong and Kenneth Brown.

The orchestra was composed of thirty-five boys and girls from Salisbury, Boynton, Meyersdale, Grantsville and Summit Mills, and each of these talented youngsters accredited themselves admirably. Those from Grantsville who participated were Marvete, Betha and Dwight Folk, Norma and Josephine Resh, Cecil Edwards, Luther Beachy, Virginia Vangilder, Aza Stanton and Kenneth Wilburn. The performance was sponsored by the local Camp No. 41 Woodmen of the World.

191 Chicks Burned

Joel A. Beachy, who resides about two miles west of Grantsville, reports he had 191 four weeks old chicks destroyed by fire about 3 a. m. Friday morning, when his brooder house caught fire. The family was awakened by two trucks which happened to be passing, and the drivers seeing the blaze, blew their horns loudly to arouse the household. The flames had gained such headway by the time the fire was discovered that it was impossible to save either the building or its contents, so the local Fire Department was not called. The exact cause of the fire was not determined, but it presumably started from an overheated brooder stove.

Snow on Saturday
A heavy snow storm raged in Grantsville most of the day Saturday. Huge flakes settled on blooming trees, shrubs and early flowers, bending them low under the weight. The sun finally broke through about the middle of the afternoon however, and the temperature moderated so none of the plants were damaged. In spite of the storm Lucille Patton, Ruby Buckel, Mabel Broadwater, Alveta Zehner, Edna Lewis, Laura Durst, Helen Beachy, Virginia Baker, Rodney and Harry Patton, Mark Schaefer, Bayard Keller, Elmer Lewis, Paul McKenzie, Kenneth Wilburn, Cecil Edwards and Wayne Durst, students of the Grantsville School, went to Frostburg to take part in the Athletic Day activities scheduled to be held there Saturday. Because of the inclemency of the weather however, the meet was postponed until Saturday, May 27.

Broadwater Funeral

Funeral services were held at the New Germany Methodist church, yesterday for Charles A. Broadwater, who died at his home near New Germany Friday, May 12. Mr. Broadwater, who was 74 years of age, was born in this section, April 17, 1865. He spent practically his entire life in the community and was a life long member of the New Germany Methodist church. Mr. Broadwater is survived by three sisters and one brother.

Rare Blood Disease Is Fatal to Youth

Parkersburg, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—Blood transfusions, x-ray treatments and other efforts to stem the rare blood disease which afflicted 12-year-old Lester Harman failed today.

The youngster, who never knew the seriousness of his condition and spent his three weeks in a hospital cheerfully gossiping with his nurses and visitors, died at St. Joseph's hospital.

Lester suffered from acute myelogenous leukemia.

When he was brought to the hospital, physicians reported Lester's blood stream contained 980,000 white corpuscles instead of the normal 10,000.

The boy's doctor held little hope from the first, although heroic treatment reduced the white corpuscle count to some degree.

Kanawha Group Is Last To Agree To Sign New Contract

Action Came after Four Hour Meeting at Charleston

Charleston, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—The Kanawha coal operators association voted today to sign a "union shop" contract with the United Mine Workers of America.

The action came after a four-hour meeting in which several operators expressed their distaste of the new Appalachian wage agreement, which was signed by all but six of the coal associations in New York Saturday.

The Kanawha and five other Southern Associations withdrew from the wage conference at that time.

Today's action means that every coal field in West Virginia, the largest bituminous state, now is under the wage contract.

D. C. Kennedy, Association Secretary, said all member-companies present were bound by the majority vote.

Dry Branch Not Included

One major operation in the Kanawha field was not included in that action. The Dry Branch Coal Company, operated by C. C. Dickinson, withdrew from the Association last March. Dickinson was present at the meeting, and said informally that he did not know what his future course would be.

Kennedy and other association representatives were instructed in a resolution to meet with United Mine Workers officials tonight to draw up a formal agreement.

Prior to the meeting, eight Kanawha companies signed individual contracts with the mine union, and the general tenure of the long closed session was "what else can we do but sign," members said.

Most Mines Are Running

While Kanawha operators were studying their situation, it was estimated that three-fourths of the mines in other fields were running at least on a skeleton basis.

Some of them, particularly in the Windy Gulf field in Raleigh and Wyoming counties, were holding out at least a day to complete clean-up work.

The pickets who turned back men at the McKell operations on Loup Creek in Fayette county, said they intended to prevent operations until a contract was signed. There were some minor altercations but no disturbances reported.

Operations of the Carter Coal Company at Caretta and Coalwood in McDowell county and the U. S. Coal and Coke Company at Gary in McDowell county, remained closed.

The same was true of four operations of the Kingston-Pocahontas in McDowell, Mercer and Fayette counties and the mine of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company at Dehu, Logan county.

Gary Officials Are Silent

Officials of the U. S. Coal and Coke, which operates the "captive" Gary mines as a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, made no statement but members of an independent employees association said they understood they would work tomorrow.

The United Mine Workers claimed to have organized a majority of the Gary miners during the shutdown and asserted it would not be reopened without a contract.

Reports from all sections of the state told of the recalling of railroad men by the scores to man the trains moving empties into mining areas.

It was reported at Fairmont that 36 small truck mines were among those resuming in Northern West Virginia. A majority of the big mines there also opened.

Roane County Court Is Given an Appeal

Charleston, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to look into Roane county's sheriff-commissioners argument over general relief.

The court granted the commissioners an appeal from a lower court dismissal of their petition for a mandamus order against the sheriff.

The petition was filed after Sheriff Phil Phillips declined to accept a $1,000 advance from the state department of public assistance to tide the county welfare department over until the beginning of the next fiscal year.

Young Man Dies On Point Pleasant Streets

Point Pleasant, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—An unidentified young man collapsed on a downtown street and died a few minutes later. Deputy Sheriff Ernest Hesson said one identification found was a belt buckle with the monogram "E." Later officers found in the clothing a piece of paper bearing the words, "Luther McGuire, Waterloo, O., care Steve Wood."

Parking Meters At Frostburg Ready To Use

New Ordinance Will Become Effective Tomorrow at 9 a. m.

Frostburg, May 15—Local and visiting motorists, excepting commercial trucks, loading and unloading, will have to pay for the privilege of parking on Frostburg's principal streets, commencing at 9 a. m. Wednesday, May 17, the date on which the new city ordinance with reference to traffic and parking will be enforced.

Parking meters have been erected on the principal streets of the town, and the mayor and city commissioners feel that the purpose of the meters and the provisions of the traffic ordinance are sufficiently understood that no confusion should result from the operation of meters.

The police force have been directing the painting of restricted areas during the past few days and also marking spaces in which cars are to park.

The new parking meters have all been tested and are already being used by visiting motorists who are accustomed to the meters in other localities.

Certificate of Good Will Given Glenn Beall

J. Glenn Beall, former chairman of the State Roads Commission, who recently relinquished his position as chairman, has been presented with a certificate of esteem and good will from the executive staff of the commission.

The certificate, neatly framed, was received by Mr. Beall last week and read as follows: "We, the employees of the Maryland State Roads Commission, hereby tender to J. Glenn Beall upon the completion of his tenure in office as Chairman of the Commission our appreciation of the many courtesies and good will extended to us."

"Therefore, we desire to take this opportunity to extend our sincere thanks for his unflinching understanding and consideration of us at all times."

"Further, as evidenced by the efficient and courteous manner in which he has performed the exacting duties as Chairman of the Commission, we wish him further and continued success in the future."

Council Proceedings

The Mayor and City Commissioners at a special meeting this evening awarded the contract for operating the Community Swimming pool and playground to William Hughes, janitor of Hill street school who previously managed the property under a lease from the city.

Complying with requests of local civic organizations the council approved the action of Street Commissioner Walter Powell who appointed George Race, Washington street, to clean rubbish from the business section of the town daily and give the streets a thorough cleaning each Sunday morning.

A delegation of Centennial street property owners petitioned the council to have their street resurfaced as a WPA project. The city engineer informed the council that the street has already been listed as a WPA project.

The council will hold a special meeting Wednesday evening to receive sealed bids on the sale of $50,000 worth of street, sewer and water bonds.

Little Chicks Burn

Fire tonight burned a chicken coop of Charles Odgers which was located at the rear of his home on Center street, and destroyed twenty little chicks. The origin of the fire was not known.

The blaze could be seen for several blocks and a large crowd was attracted to the scene of the fire.

Layman Is Elected

Alumni of Bedford High Plan Program

Fiftieth Anniversary of First Graduating Class Will Be Observed

Bedford, Pa., May 15—Elaborate plans are being completed by the Bedford high school Alumni Association for the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the first graduating class of the local schools and the week end of May 28 will find many members returning for this unusual home-coming. Invitations have been sent to more than 950 of the 1100 living graduates of this school, addresses of a number not being on the records of the association. Four of the five members of the first class, graduated in 1889 are living and several will take part in the program, together with later graduates who have become prominent in public life.

Friday evening, May 26, at 7 o'clock the banquet will be held at Bedford Springs Hotel and a large crowd is expected. Brief addresses will follow the dinner and dancing to music of the hotel orchestra. Tickets are $1.25.

Saturday afternoon a tea will be given at the high school building, when old friendships will again be renewed. A sports program has been arranged for the younger set under the direction of Coach Koonitz. That evening a pageant, "Tower of Memories," will be held in the auditorium, to which the public is invited. The director is Mrs. J. Colvin Wright and most of the script was written by Miss Winona Garbick. It will be an illustrated (living models) of the first general, or Dame school, the little red school house, then to 1821 when the first high school was formed; 1848, when girls were first admitted to higher learning, each stage of advancement represented by a character who relates his or her memories of those days. Then comes 1869 and the first class to graduate at Bedford, the first commencement program being reproduced in part, sufficient to give an idea of the entertainment of that day. The graduates were Misses Margaret and Elizabeth Metzger and Stella L. Mann, residing here; Miss Grace Penrose of Philadelphia, and Dr. B. Frank Shires, now deceased.

A number of old photos have been secured, groups and individuals, have been made into slides and will be shown. The Keeper of the Clock has the power to recall the scenes of fifty years ago and as the characters pass across the stage many alumni will live again their happy school days here.

There are a number of graduates in Cumberland and the Bedford committee, which is arranging this homecoming event, urges that they plan to attend the banquet, as well as the pageant, as they will meet again many former school mates. The baccalaureate will be Sunday, May 28, when the Rev. Ellis Bell, Davidson of Lock Haven, Class of 1904, B.H.S., will deliver the sermon. A large class will be graduated Monday evening, May 29, closing a historic week.

The signatures attached to the certificate are Nathan L. Smith, chief engineer; L. H. Stewart, secretary; William A. Codd, Robert Reindollar, Austin T. Shore, Walter Hopkins, Leroy W. Hearings for Miners Are Postponed

Charleston, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—Scheduled hearings at Logan on appeals of miners for unemployment compensation were postponed today until Saturday.

Ralph M. Hiner, Chairman of the Department's Board of Review, said both operators and United Mine Workers' counsel had asked the continuance in order to avoid inconvenience to the men who have returned to work.

The department during the mine shutdown ruled that miners were ineligible for jobless pay because they were involved in a wage dispute. Between 16,000 and 18,000 appealed the rulings to the board of review.

Hearings have been held so far in Montgomery and Beckley.

Hiner said the board would accept any reasonable suggestion by opposing counsel with respect to hearings on all pending cases.

Nathan Browning Dies in Garrett

Prominent Farmer Succumbs at His Home at Sang Run

Oakland, May 15 — Nathan C. Browning, 83, died yesterday morning at his home at Sang Run, this county, twenty miles north of here. He had been in failing health for a number of months.

Mr. Browning was born May 4, 1856, at Sang Run, a son of the late William and Ann DeWitt Browning, and spent his entire life in this county as a farmer. He was a grandson of Meshach Browning, one of the pioneer settlers of Garrett county who wrote the book "Forty-four Years of the Life of a Hunter."

He married Annie E. Fazenbaker in 1880, who preceded him in death thirty years ago. To this union eleven children were born, seven of whom survive, G. W. Browning and Edward M. Browning, West Leisener, Pa.; Mrs. J. H. Hoffmann and Mrs. S. B. Litman, Uniontown, Pa.; Mrs. A. C. Englehart, Meyersdale, Pa.; Mrs. M. L. Savage, Sang Run; and J. Frank Browning, Oakland. Also surviving are thirty-two grandchildren and eighteen great grandchildren.

Mr. Browning was a member of the Catholic church. Politically he was a staunch Democrat and served as justice of the peace for many years. He was a member of the famous "Haymaker Rifle Team," of forty and fifty years ago.

Funeral services will be conducted from St. Peter's Catholic church, Oakland, Wednesday morning, at 9 o'clock, with the Rev. Fr. W. F. Sauer officiating. Interment will be in the Methodist cemetery at Hoyes.

Transplanting of Seedlings Finished

Approximately Three Million Trees Set out at Parsons

Parsons, W. Va., May 15—The transplanting program at the United States forest nursery here has been completed. It was announced today by Donald A. Oliver, ranger in charge. He said that approximately three million two-year-old seedlings, red spruce and red pine, had been set out. A few Norway spruce and pitch pine also were included in the transplanting program.

Mr. Oliver also stated that four million seedlings are in the seed beds being germinated for next spring. The main work now at the nursery is shading, weeding, cultivating transplants, installing and operating the automatic sprinkling lines.

A crew of men today started ground preparations such as plowing and discing for cover crops used in rotation with seed beds and transplants for maintenance of soil fertilizers. Two new buildings are also being erected at the nursery grounds. Twenty-five regular nursery employees are employed there and some CCC boys are engaged in construction of the new buildings.

Everett Lewis Fined

State police yesterday arrested Everett Lewis, 24, Horseshoe Run, charged with driving a car while intoxicated on the highway near Thomas. Troopers C. G. Hamrick and R. G. Coen made the arrest. He was arraigned before Magistrate C. B. Collins who fined him $25 and costs, revoked his license and impounded his car for six months.

Brief Items

The annual sermon to the Parsons high school graduates was delivered yesterday by the Rev. K. M. Scott, of the Southern Methodist church. There are sixty-nine in the graduating class.

Mrs. D. W. Thurston returned yesterday from a Baltimore hospital where she had been taking treatment for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Pearl Hytowitz and family, Pittsburgh, spent Sunday here with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rightmire and family.

Dr. W. W. Orr and family, Mannington, visited here yesterday with his mother, Mrs. Alice Orr, 88.

James Parsons and Hugh Pritt returned last night from a fishing expedition on Stony River and report catching 40 trout.

Dale Kiser, 21, employee in a local grocery store, was accidentally struck by a car in Elkins last night, receiving several cuts and bruises. He was said to have stepped from his car in front of a car driven by a man named Wamsley. He was taken to an Elkins hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Seckman, Mr. and Mrs. Don Garber were Sunday visitors at Everett, Bedford and Manns Choice.

Morgantown, W. Va., May 15 (AP) — As far as the agricultural experiment station of West Virginia University is concerned, arsenate of lead and calcium arsenate are the best insecticides still.

Entomologists reported the two compounds hold their rating despite wide research for substitutes, but said there was one serious objection to their use under certain conditions.

Only minute amounts can be used if the plant product is intended for food.

As possible substitutes, the entomologists said, various compounds of flourine have been tested.

WPA Critic Fired

Storm of dissension has arisen over firing of Eugene R. Kuhne (above) from State job in Nashville, Tenn., by order of Governor Prentice Cooper, following Kuhne's criticism of WPA before a Washington House committee investigating WPA. Kuhne is alleged to have stated federal relief money had been used in his State to enhance value of property belonging to politically prominent persons.

Two Persons Burned

Two Keyser people were painfully burned in gas explosions over the week-end.

Saturday night fumes in a gas furnace in the A. & P. store on Main street here exploded when Jim Centofanti, a clerk, attempted to light the heating unit. Centofanti, whose sleeves were rolled up, was burned badly on both arms.

Sunday morning Mrs. Homer Holt was burned about the face, hair, neck and hands when a gas oven in the kitchen of her home on Piedmont street exploded as she was about to light it. The fact that the main jet of the oven had been inadvertently left partly open all night was blamed for the explosion.

100 B. & O. Men Recalled

With the resumption of the movement of coal through here, 100 men were called to work at the Keyser B. & O. shops this morning. Other shopmen were hopeful that at least three more units of 100 men each would be called back in the near future. 500 workmen were furloughed from the repair shops last month as the result of the coal strike.

John Wolford Dies

John W. Wolford, 70, a contractor, died at 4 a. m. today at his home, north Davis street. Although he had been in ill health for about a year, his death was sudden.

Wolford, who was born at Cold Spring, W. Va., had lived here since 1898.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Nina Wolford Early, Winchester, Va.; three sons, Dr. Roy O. Wolford, of the U. S. Veterans' Hospital, Outwood, Ky.; Ralph and Jene Wolford, Keyser, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Whitaker, Capon Bridge. Six grandchildren and two great grandchildren also survive. His wife, Mrs. Cora Virta Wolford, died two years ago.

Brief Mention

Mrs. L. E. Mastellar returned from a visit to her mother, Mrs. Julia Sharpless, Kitzmiller.

Thomas Taylor, Washington, D. C., spent the weekend with D. P. Taylor, his father.

The Rev. R. N. Edwards, pastor of the First Methodist church here, went to Baltimore today to attend a meeting of the trustees of the Strawbridge Home for Boys.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Brown Jr. went to Roanoke, Va., today, to visit Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. F. M. Mahood. The Rev. Brown is pastor of Grace Methodist church here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sanders, Winchester, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sanders and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Elsey, here yesterday.

Aza Stanton, Jr., had the misfortune to fall late Sunday afternoon and sustained a serious fracture of his right wrist. Dr. Norman R. Davis, local physician, made the examination and recommended that he be taken to Cumberland. He was admitted to the Memorial Hospital there Monday morning. Aza is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Claude Stanton, and a junior at Grantsville high school.

Clyde J. Miller and Mrs. P. A. Connolly motored to Greensburg, Pa., Sunday where they visited Miss Mary Connolly, a senior at Seton Hall College.

Frank J. Getty, principal of the local school, is spending several days this week with a school evaluation group at the Allegany County high schools.

Mrs. Walter Price, Breezewood, Pa., is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton W. Kinsinger.

Miss Rachel Holmes was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Epworth League Society Sunday evening. She spoke to the group on the subject "The Mother of John Wesley". Vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. Henry F. Durst and Mrs. William Davidson. Mrs. Betty Keller was their accompanist.

William Grimm, a member of the teaching staff at Grantsville high school, has returned from a few days visit with relatives and friends at Buckhannon, W. Va.

Genevieve Speelman, Hagerstown, spent the week-end here visiting friends. Miss Speelman formerly resided in Grantsville for about four years when she was connected with the local office of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. She resigned several months ago to accept a position in Hagerstown.

Mrs. John H. Folk and Mrs. Benney Epstine jointly entertained members of the Evangelical and Reformed Church Missionary Society at the former's home Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Epstine continued the lesson discussion, taking up the study of the second chapter of Basil Matthew's book, "The Church Takes Root in India". Mrs. Irvin Engle, St. Paul, and Mrs. Frank E. Conkling, guests, and eighteen members were present.

Miss Marie Bender and Walter Otto, both of Springs, Pa., furnished special music at the Mothers' Day services held at the Evangelical and Reformed church Sunday. The Rev. Alvin J. Forry delivered the sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmons Younkin and son, Charles, and Mrs. Younkin's mother, Mrs. Frank Keenan, all of Pittsburgh, were the week-end guests of Mr. Younkin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Younkin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Bevans, with their small daughter, Sue Marlene, returned to their home at Washington, D. C., Sunday night after a week-end visit with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Beachy and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Brenneman.

A representative of the Maryland State Employment Service will be at his headquarters in the Woodmen Building from 9 to 11 o'clock Thursday morning, May 18.

Calhoun Board Members Lose Their Appeal

Charleston, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—Two of three members of the Calhoun county Board of Education were denied reviews today by the State Supreme court.

A. B. McCray and Ralph Hall, who were removed from office by Judge Lewis H. Miller sitting at Grantsville two weeks ago, filed the petition. The third member did not ask for a review.

Accusations filed against the school board members included malfeasance in office, incompetence and illegal coercion of employees during the 1938 primary campaign.

Mrs. McMurray Honored

Martinsburg, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—Mrs. J. A. McMurray of Hedgesville was elected president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Winchester Presbytery at the annual Woodstock, Va., meeting.

Mrs. McMurray's husband is pastor of the Spring Mills Presbyterian church near here.

The Auxiliary will meet at Charles Town next year.

Mrs. William McDonald of Keyser was elected honorary president.

Arsenates Deemed Best Insecticides

Morgantown, W. Va., May 15 (AP)—As far as the agricultural experiment station of West Virginia University is concerned, arsenate of lead and calcium arsenate are the best insecticides still.

Entomologists reported the two compounds hold their rating despite wide research for substitutes, but said there was one serious objection to their use under certain conditions.

Only minute amounts can be used if the plant product is intended for food. As possible substitutes, the entomologists said, various compounds of flourine have been tested.

Antioch Man Is Fined for Wreck

Creed Mott Assessed $29.60 by Keyser Justice of Peace

Keyser, W. Va., March 15.—Creed Mott, Antioch, driver of an automobile that crashed into a car driven by H. C. Leek, Front Royal, Va., at Markwood, about ten miles east of here on Route 50 near 10 o'clock last night, was fined $29.60 by Justice of the Peace J. E. Aronhalt this morning on charges of reckless driving.

Investigating police said no one was hurt in the collision, although both cars were badly damaged.

Two Persons Burned

Two Keyser people were painfully burned in gas explosions over the week-end.

Saturday night fumes in a gas furnace in the A. & P. store on Main street here exploded when Jim Centofanti, a clerk, attempted to light the heating unit. Centofanti, whose sleeves were rolled up, was burned badly on both arms.

Sunday morning Mrs. Homer Hott was burned about the face, hair, neck and hands when a gas oven in the kitchen of her home on Piedmont street exploded as she was about to light it. The fact that the main jet of the oven had been inadvertently left partly open all night was blamed for the explosion.

100 B.&O. Men Recalled

With the resumption of the movement of coal through here, 100 men were called to work at the Keyser B. & O. shops this morning. Other shopmen were hopeful that at least three more units of 100 men each would be called back in the near future. 500 workmen were furloughed from the repair shops last month as the result of the coal strike.

John Wolford Dies

John W. Wolford, 70, a contractor, died at 4 a. m. today at his home, north Davis street. Although he had been in ill health for about a year, his death was sudden.

Wolford, who was born at Cold Spring, W. Va., had lived here since 1898.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Nina Wolford Early, Winchester, Va.; three sons, Dr. Roy O. Wolford, of the U. S. Veterans' Hospital, Outwood, Ky.; Ralph and Jene Wolford, Keyser, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Whitaker, Capon Bridge. Six grandchildren and two great grandchildren also survive. His wife, Mrs. Cora Virts Wolford, died two years ago.

Brief Mention

Mrs. L. E. Mastellar returned from a visit to her mother, Mrs. Julia Sharpless, Kitzmiller.

Thomas Taylor, Washington, D. C., spent the weekend with D. P. Taylor, his father.

The Rev. R. N. Edwards, pastor of the First Methodist church here, went to Baltimore today to attend a meeting of the trustees of the Strawbridge Home for Boys.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Brown Jr. went to Roanoke, Va., today, to visit Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. F. M. Mahood. The Rev. Brown is pastor of Grace Methodist church here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sanders, Winchester, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sanders and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Elsey, here yesterday.

William Kuykendall, Potomac State student, returned from a visit at the home of his parents in Berkeley Springs.

Salisbury Will Have May Day Fete Thursday

Probably the highlight of the day will be crowning of the May Queen, Miss Betty Harding, with the pageant, maypole dance and drills, featuring. These events will take place between 2 and 3 o'clock. Many colorful costumes will be displayed during the pageant.

The Sophomores and Seniors will play baseball from 3 to 5 o'clock, after which supper will be served. At 6 o'clock a parade will form at the southern end of town and march out Main street to Union and back to the Community playground via Smith avenue. Floats, a detachment of State Motor police, members of the American Legion Post and at least six bands will be in the parade.

A concert will be given from 6:30 to 8 o'clock in front of the grandstand with each visiting band playing two selections. The bands will then join in a group concert.

Bands are expected to be present from Addison, Wittenberg, Meyersdale high school, Meyersdale Community, Northampton, Rockwood and Hooversville.

Machinist Falls In Footer Plant; Badly Injured

Ralph Hill Suffers Fractured Skull In 15-Foot Drop

A 65-year-old machinist was critically injured early yesterday afternoon when he fell from a 15-foot ladder to the concrete floor of the old Footer plant on South Mechanic street.

The mishap victim, Ralph H. Hill, of 443 Goethe street, was reported in a "poor" condition late last night at Memorial hospital, where he was rushed by ambulance at 2:40 p. m. Attending physicians said he suffered a compound fracture of the skull, possible internal injuries, and multiple contusions about the body. He had not regained consciousness last night.

Fellow workers said Hill, formerly building engineer when the dye works were in operation, was atop a ladder removing a 20-foot steam pipe. One end of the pipe was held by a hanger, the other by a wire, they said.

As Hill withdrew it from the hanger, the wire broke, throwing the entire weight of the pipe on him. The ladder swayed and finally toppled over, throwing him to the floor.

Henry Shriver, president of the First National Bank, which controls the building, said that removal of the pipes was part of a remodeling program designed to make the structure more suitable for occupancy by prospective tenants.

He added that no definite arrangements have been made for renting the building.

Boy Falls 16 Feet, Escapes Injury

Allegany hospital attendants reported last night that a 16-year-old boy escaped serious injury in a fall from the porch of his Centre street home.

The youth, Eugene Lepley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam G. Lepley, 616 North Centre street, was released after treatment for contusions about the head and shock.

Hospital attaches said they were told that the porch from which the lad fell was about sixteen feet high. Details of the mishap were not learned.

Man Complains Wife Went Home to Mother; Is Granted Divorce

Herbert F. Wilson was granted his marital freedom from Mrs. Anna Irene Wilson by a decree signed by Associate Judge William A. Huster.

Testimony heard by a court examiner showed that the couple was wed in December, 1920, and lived together here and in Frostburg until September, 1935.

"She just picked up and left me," Mr. Wilson declared. "She said she was going home and stay with her mother."

The plaintiff said he had made every effort to have his wife return home, but she refused. His statement that he gave her no cause to desert him was substantiated by several witnesses. Attorney Uner G. Carl represented the plaintiff, while Attorney Peter J. Carpentieri was counsel for the defendant.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Marie Adeline Walker filed suit for divorce from Walter H. Walker on grounds of desertion, non-support, and infidelity. The couple, wed in January, 1935, lived together only six months, according to the bill of complaint, docketed by Attorney George W. Legge.

Mrs. Walker declares that they lived with her parents at 109 Race street and that her husband contributed "nothing whatever" to her support. He finally deserted her in August, 1935, she charges, adding that a co-respondent will be named at the court hearing. She asks that her maiden name of True be restored.

Walker, said to be a resident of West Virginia, is to be notified of the suit by publication.

U. S. Supplies Shells For Japan's War, Ministers Told

More than half of the munitions used by Japan in its ruthless war on China are furnished by the United States, members of the Ministerial Union of Cumberland heard at their monthly meeting yesterday at Central YMCA.

The speaker was Arthur E. Hungerford, of Baltimore, a representative of the Church Committee for China Relief. He voiced a plea for financial aid to relieve suffering in China, declaring that "three cents a day will save a life."

The ministers endorsed the relief program, recommended it to the Federation of Church Women, and promised full co-operation.

Mr. Hungerford said that the war seemed to have reached a "deadlock" at present. Japan is hampered by financial difficulties, he pointed out.

The Baltimore man spoke in the place of Superintendent of Schools Charles L. Kopp, who was unable to attend on account of illness. Devotions were conducted by the Rev. E. S. Price, pastor of Second Baptist church.

A guest at the session was Dr. Elmer U. Hoenshell, former president of Shenandoah college, Dayton, Va.

FIRST CHILD AT 73—Men who become fathers after passing the allotted span of three score years and ten are uncommon enough, but Charles Harry Brubb, 727 Bedford street, has the unusual distinction of having become a father for the first time at the age of 73. He is shown here with his little daughter Cathleen Edna, who was born on Good Friday and who now weighs twelve pounds and seven ounces. The baby has her father's blue eyes and the red hair of her mother, Mrs. Verilinda Grubb, who is 37. Mr. Grubb is a retired lumberman and grocer. He has been married three times. Both parents are proud as can be of their daughter.—News Staff Photo.

Careful Maintenance of Camps Ordered by State Health Board

Camping grounds and picnic locations along Maryland's miles of highway are going to be safe for the tourist this year if the State Department of Health knows anything about it.

Rigid rules affecting the maintenance of all camps and picnic grounds in Maryland have been put in effect by the health department which aims to make sure that such centers meet necessary sanitary requirements.

And it won't be long now until Cumberland families will be loading their families into their automobiles and setting forth on happy trips on picturesque roads. Its lots of fun but state department heads realize that one cup of unsanitary drinking water can often lead to disastrous results.

See Seal First
That's why Mr. R. H. Riley, department director, is advising all summer travelers not to stop at camps where the placard bearing the seal of the State of Maryland is not prominently displayed.

That seal is the symbol of security, he states. It means that the camp ground has been duly inspected and meets the necessary sanitary and healthful requirements.

Dr. Riley explained that no camp of picnic ground in Maryland that is used for six days or longer and that accommodates ten or more persons may be operated without a permit from the State Department of Health. Applications are usually made in the early spring so that the required inspections may be made and any needed improvements may be gotten under way before the season opens.

Flies Are Taboo
To be duly certified, each camp must comply with the regulations prescribed by the State Board of Health with regard to the water supply, toilet facilities, disposal of sewage, garbage and other waste; protection of foods sold on the premises from pollution and from flies; sources of supply and methods of handling milk, cream and ice cream; and, the general cleanliness of buildings and grounds.

Here are some of the specific requirements. You can take a look around and see whether they have been met.

Water Supply: The drinking water must conform in quality to United States Treasury Department Standards. The use of a common drinking cup is prohibited. Drinking fountains must be of an approved sanitary type. Wells or springs must be more than 200 feet away from privies or cesspools. Construction must be such as to prevent surface drainage.

Sewerage: Privies or other toilet facilities must be of an approved type, and must be maintained in a sanitary condition. Adequate facilities must be provided for washing hands. The use of common towels is prohibited. Sewage and other waste must be disposed of in such a manner as not to create a nuisance or be a menace to health.

Mosquito Protection Required
Premises: Buildings and grounds must be kept in a neat and sanitary condition. Care must be taken to protect against flies and mosquitoes. Garbage must be kept in metal cans with fly-tight metal lids and must be disposed of in an approved manner, preferably by burning or burying. Receptacles for the disposal of other waste such as paper, etc., must be maintained at convenient locations and the contents disposed of promptly by incineration or other approved methods.

Protection of Food from Contamination: Premises where food is handled must be satisfactorily lighted and ventilated. Rooms in which food is prepared, and if practicable, those in which it is served, must be screened, or other means must be provided to prevent access of flies to food. Scrupulous cleanliness must be followed in washing utensils in which foods are cooked or served.

Operating Permits: Permits must be removed each season and are not interchangeable. A permit for the current year must be on display at all times during the operation of the resort.

John Lynn's Condition Reported Critical
The condition of John G. Lynn, president of the Kenneweg Company, was reported "critical" by Memorial hospital attendants last night. Mr. Lynn was stricken with coronary thrombosis last Monday at his office.

He apparently rallied last week but suffered a relapse yesterday.

Exchange Club Meets
A talk by Dr. Albert C. Cook on dental health marked the weekly dinner-meeting of the Exchange club last night at Central YMCA.

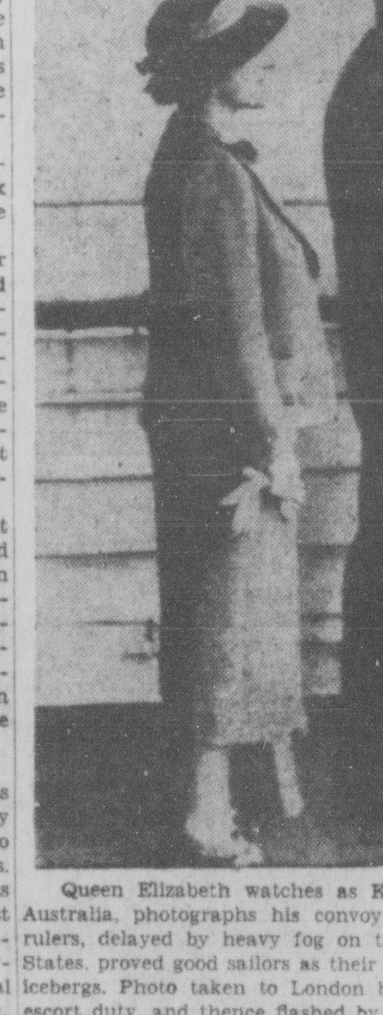

Gets Government Job
Miss Helena McKnight, of Cumberland, has gone to Washington, D. C., where she has accepted a position with the government.

Births
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. A. Mills, 31 North Prospect Square, announce the birth of a daughter last night at Allegany hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo C. Reichert, 122 Frederick street, announce the birth of a son last night at Allegany hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Wolford, 949 Maryland avenue, announce the birth of a son yesterday afternoon at Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Manus E. McGeady, 550 East 38th street, Baltimore, announce the birth of a son Friday. Mr. and Mrs. McGeady are former residents of Cumberland.

Queen Elizabeth watches as King George, aboard the Empress of Australia, photographs his convoy warship, the Repulse. The British rulers, delayed by heavy fog on their trip to Canada and the United States, proved good sailors as their ship was imperiled by heavy seas and icebergs. Photo taken to London by the Repulse, after completing her escort duty, and thence flashed by cable to New York.

Junior Chamber Changes Name; Plans Activity

Eighty-five Paid Up As Charter Members, Treasurer Reveals

Nearly 100 men attended the organization meeting of the Junior Association of Commerce last night in the Fort Cumberland hotel ballroom.

L. Leslie Helmer, president of the new organization, gave a short talk on the aims and purposes of the group and outlined several projects which might be sponsored this year, including city beautification, promotion of major sport events here, and aid to the Community Chest.

Many suggestions came from the membership regarding projects which could be taken up as the organization progresses.

It was voted to revise the name of the organization, making it the Junior Association of Commerce instead of Junior Chamber of Commerce in order to avoid confusion with the senior Chamber of Commerce.

John M. McAlpine, treasurer, announced that eighty-five paid memberships have been received.

Mr. Helmer explained in his talk that the Junior Association of Commerce is a training ground for young men toward civic and commercial leadership.

"It provides a vehicle of collective activity through which the younger men of the community can address themselves to a program of accomplishment for the city and to study economic problems that affect the welfare of the nation as a whole," he said.

The first organization of the kind was founded in St. Louis in 1915. The movement has grown steadily since then until today there are more than 300 chapters in cities ranging in population from 2,000 to 1,000,000.

Cumberland's membership is expected to pass the 100 mark within a few weeks.

Alleged Con Man Lodged in Jail; Bond Set at $500

Wittie H. Mullen, charged with fleeing a number of Cumberland business men by billing them for advertising in a fake benefit program, was lodged in the county jail yesterday afternoon in default of $500 bond.

The specific charge brought against the Clarksburg resident in Trial Magistrate's court yesterday by the State's attorney's office was the obtaining of $750 from the Ford Drug stores under false pretenses.

Officers say that their prisoner, also known as Woody Mullen, has worked his racket in a number of nearby states. His racket, they say, is to call upon a business man, show him a benefit program with an advertisement of his printed in it, and "remind" him that the account is long overdue.

Often the business man bit, was probably ashamed of himself for having forgotten about the whole thing. Police have been laying in wait for Mullen, however, for some time. His case will be heard by the October grand jury. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr., yesterday.

Deaths

Mrs. Catherine J. Sharp
Mrs. Catherine J. Sharp, widow of Harry J. Sharp, of Enola, Pa., died Sunday night at the home of her son, the Rev. Dr. Hall Sharp, 218 Bedford street.

Mrs. Sharp had been living with her son and daughter-in-law since the death of her husband last December. She had been in ill health for some time.

Surviving in addition to Dr. Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, is a grandson, Martin B. Sharp, also of Cumberland.

The body will remain here until tomorrow, when it will be taken to Enola for burial. Friends may view the body at the Sharp home from 7 to 9 o'clock tonight.

Mrs. John W. Kliffner
Mrs. Hannah E. Kliffner, wife of John W. Kliffner, 625 Columbia avenue, died yesterday morning at Allegany hospital, where she had been admitted Friday. She was 72.

She was a native of Lonaconing, a daughter of the late George and Margaret Schaefer.

Surviving in addition to her husband, are five sons, Walter, John Jr., Albert, Henry, and Carl Kliffner; two brothers, John Schaefer, of Cumberland, and Fred Schaefer, of Indianapolis; and a sister, Mrs. Robert Hamilton, of Lonaconing.

Constantine T. Bevans
Funeral services for Constantine Thomas Bevans, who died Friday, were conducted yesterday morning by the Rev. Robert Kilgannon at St. Charles Catholic church, Paw Paw, W. Va.

Mr. Bevans, 79, was a life-long resident of Paw Paw and was a retired Baltimore and Ohio railroad agent.

Pallbearers include Henry Hutson, J. F. Golday, Bernard Gross, P. E. Nixon, T. J. Larkins, and E. H. Morton.

Forfeits $101 Bond
Donald Westfall, 210 Laing avenue, failed to face drunken driving charges in Justice court yesterday and forfeited bond of $101.45. He was arrested Sunday on the Mc-Mullen highway by State Trooper George J. Miller.

Runs Out of Gas
Mr. Skutt climbed into his automobile yesterday at Scott Haven, Pa., and just drove on and on until the car ran out of gas. It just happened that the car ran out of gas in Cumberland.

Officers who found him wondering what had happened informed him that his gas was all gone. "So it is, so it is," said Mr. Skutt blandly. "Well, well."

Officers next determined that Mr. Skutt had no money with which to buy more gas. He had started out on his journey broke. It was next determined that Mr. Skutt did not have one single piece of identification on him — not even a driver's license.

Officers Skeptical
It being a more or less skeptical era, the officers decided that maybe

Mayor in New York, Irvine Heads Council

Police and Fire Commissioner Harry Irvine presided at yesterday's session of the City Council in the absence of Mayor Thomas W. Koon, who is in New York attending the U. S. Conference of Mayors.

Three bids for a one-ton panel truck to be used as the police patrol wagon were received by the Council and referred to Commissioner Irvine.

The bids were received from the St. George Motor Company, $703 for a ton truck, and $738 for a 1½ ton truck; Spoer's Garage, Inc., $979.16; and Steina Motor and Transportation Company, Inc., $823.23.

The Henry Hart Post, No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was granted permission to sell poppies May 27.

Garrett Miners Dig More Coal

Have Steadier Work Than Allegany Miners

Garrett county miners apparently had much steadier work than the miners of Allegany county during 1938, according to a preliminary estimate prepared by the Maryland Bureau of Mines.

Bureau figures show that 1,184 miners in Allegany county produced 783,153 net tons of coal last year, while only 644 Garrett county miners produced 528,534 net tons.

The Allegany county miners averaged 661 tons during the year. The Garrett county miners averaged 821 tons.

Allegany county mines also employed 106 drivers, 203 inside laborers, and 138 outside laborers. Garrett county mines employed 79 drivers, 110 inside laborers, and 93 outside employees.

The fire clay mines of Western Maryland produced 42,816 tons during 1938, and employed 21 miners, eight drivers, 79 inside laborers and 21 outside laborers.

Deaths

Mrs. Catherine J. Sharp
Mrs. Catherine J. Sharp, widow of Harry J. Sharp, of Enola, Pa., died Sunday night at the home of her son, the Rev. Dr. Hall Sharp, 218 Bedford street.

Mrs. Sharp had been living with her son and daughter-in-law since the death of her husband last December. She had been in ill health for some time.

Surviving in addition to Dr. Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, is a grandson, Martin B. Sharp, also of Cumberland.

The body will remain here until tomorrow, when it will be taken to Enola for burial. Friends may view the body at the Sharp home from 7 to 9 o'clock tonight.

Mrs. John W. Kliffner
Mrs. Hannah E. Kliffner, wife of John W. Kliffner, 625 Columbia avenue, died yesterday morning at Allegany hospital, where she had been admitted Friday. She was 72.

She was a native of Lonaconing, a daughter of the late George and Margaret Schaefer.

Surviving in addition to her husband, are five sons, Walter, John Jr., Albert, Henry, and Carl Kliffner; two brothers, John Schaefer, of Cumberland, and Fred Schaefer, of Indianapolis; and a sister, Mrs. Robert Hamilton, of Lonaconing.

Constantine T. Bevans
Funeral services for Constantine Thomas Bevans, who died Friday, were conducted yesterday morning by the Rev. Robert Kilgannon at St. Charles Catholic church, Paw Paw, W. Va.

Mr. Bevans, 79, was a life-long resident of Paw Paw and was a retired Baltimore and Ohio railroad agent.

Pallbearers include Henry Hutson, J. F. Golday, Bernard Gross, P. E. Nixon, T. J. Larkins, and E. H. Morton.

Forfeits $101 Bond
Donald Westfall, 210 Laing avenue, failed to face drunken driving charges in Justice court yesterday and forfeited bond of $101.45. He was arrested Sunday on the Mc-Mullen highway by State Trooper George J. Miller.

Runs Out of Gas
Mr. Skutt climbed into his automobile yesterday at Scott Haven, Pa., and just drove on and on until the car ran out of gas. It just happened that the car ran out of gas in Cumberland.

Officers who found him wondering what had happened informed him that his gas was all gone. "So it is, so it is," said Mr. Skutt blandly. "Well, well."

Officers next determined that Mr. Skutt had no money with which to buy more gas. He had started out on his journey broke. It was next determined that Mr. Skutt did not have one single piece of identification on him — not even a driver's license.

Officers Skeptical
It being a more or less skeptical era, the officers decided that maybe they ought to hold on to Mr. Skutt until he managed to hunt up some identification. Ordinarily folks just don't drive their cars until they run out of gas and go around without any papers at all, they decided.

Interrogated by more officers later on, Mr. Skutt proved a rather vague person to interrogate. Touching on the financial problem, officers asked him if he had any money in the bank.

"Why yes, I believe so," said Mr. Skutt and added, "although it's really rather hard to tell what with so much inflation and all."

Friends to the Rescue
The officers looked at each other in silence. Finally they called up Scott Haven, Pa., and inquired about Mr. Skutt. They were told that Mr. Skutt was O.K. by Scott Haven authorities.

Four friends, including the postmaster of Scott Haven, arrived at police headquarters last night with Mr. Skutt's credentials and funds for gasoline and other necessities.

"Hello Joe," the postmaster said cheerfully as officers released the completely exonerated Mr. Skutt. Mr. Skutt greeted his friends mildly, as if he had just met them at his favorite club, and then the five started back for Scott Haven.

Two Cumberland Girls Win Honors at College
Two Cumberland girls have been honored by election to high campus positions at Notre Dame College of Maryland, Baltimore, it was learned last night.

Miss Mary Mattingly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Mattingly, 526 Lowell avenue, was elected prefect of the Sodality. Miss Mattingly is an active member of the International Relations club and former editor of "Columns."

Miss Mary C. Coleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Coleman, 309 Harrison street, was named business manager of "Damogel, prize-winning campus publication. Miss Coleman has been an active member of the staff.

Both girls are graduates of Girls Central high school in the class of 1936.

They were buffeted about in life boats for almost two days and nights before being picked up. One man died of heart attack.

Excitement Reigns at Police Station As Boy, Cat, and Dog Report Fight

The twelve-year-old youngster who dashed into police headquarters yesterday was excited, and he didn't mean maybe. And so was his menagerie, which consisted of a mewling kitten, clutched in one hand, and a handsome collie dog.

Police heard the commotion before they saw it. They heard a racket at the outside entrance to headquarters. Then the inside door burst open and suddenly was filled by the boy, the dog, and the kitten.

Three Nearly Spill
As the youngster dashed through the door the excited dog got in his path, nearly resulting in a grand pile-up. Making his entrance, the boy ran to the desk holding the mewling kitten before him.

The desk sergeant leaned over the desk waiting to hear what all the excitement was about. He seemed doomed to disappointment for the boy, having arrived, could only gasp and gesticulate excitedly.

"There's a fight," he finally blurted out. "Awful fight. Kitten and everything. Right outside."

As officers hurried outside the kitten mewled, the dog barked, and the boy jumped up and down, he was so excited.

Just Another Fight?
It really wasn't much of a fight, officers said later. A slight altercation occurred in the City Hall Plaza and resulted in the arrest of Guy M. Yost, who was booked for drunk and disorderly conduct.

The youngster and the somewhat calmed-down kitten and dog stood by until the matter was taken care of and then went on their way.

Officers laughed about "that excited little shaver and his animals" later on, but admitted he should be complimented for having done his duty as a citizen.

Nab Guardsmen For Burglaries

Four Youths Confess To Petty Thefts

Four youths, three were said they were members of the National Guard, were to appear in Peoples Court today at 10 a. m. in connection with a string of petty thefts in Cumberland in the last three months.

Rounded up by the detective squad and members of the police department, the quartet is charged with having broken into the Columbia street school, the First Baptist church on Bedford street, and a Cumberland service station.

The youths, all about 18 years old, are accused of swiping pencils, pens and a small amount of money from the Columbia street school, a tire and wheel from the service station, and a small amount of money from the Bedford street church.

Machinist Falls In Footer Plant; Badly Injured

Ralph Hill Suffers Fractured Skull In 15-Foot Drop

A 65-year-old machinist was critically injured early yesterday afternoon when he fell from a 15-foot ladder to the concrete floor of the old Footer plant on South Mechanic street.

The mishap victim, Ralph H. Hill, of 443 Goethe street, was reported in a "poor" condition late last night at Memorial hospital, where he was rushed by ambulance at 2:40 p. m.

Attending physicians said he suffered a compound fracture of the skull, possible internal injuries, and multiple contusions about the body. He had not regained consciousness last night.

Fellow workers said Hill, formerly building engineer when the dye works were in operation, was atop a ladder removing a 20-foot steam pipe. One end of the pipe was held by a hanger, the other by a wire, they said.

As Hill withdrew it from the hanger, the wire broke, throwing the entire weight of the pipe on him. The ladder swayed and finally toppled over, throwing him to the floor.

Henry Shriver, president of the First National Bank, which controls the building, said that removal of the pipes was part of a remodeling program designed to make the structure more suitable for occupancy by prospective tenants.

He added that no definite arrangements have been made for renting the building.

Boy Falls 16 Feet, Escapes Injury

Allegany hospital attendants reported last night that a 16-year-old boy escaped serious injury in a fall from the porch of his Centre street home.

The youth, Eugene Lepley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam G. Lepley, 616 North Centre street, was released after treatment for contusions about the head and shock.

Hospital attaches said they were told that the porch from which the lad fell was about sixteen feet high. Details of the mishap were not learned.

Man Complains Wife Went Home to Mother; Is Granted Divorce

A husband who said his wife "walked out and left me" after fifteen years of married life was granted an absolute divorce in Circuit court.

Herbert F. Wilson was granted his marital freedom from Mrs. Anna Irene Wilson by a decree signed by Associate Judge William A. Huster.

Testimony heard by a court examiner showed that the couple was wed in December, 1920, and lived together here and in Frostburg until, September, 1935.

"She just picked up and left me," Mr. Wilson declared. "She said she was going home and stay with her mother."

The plaintiff said he had made every effort to have his wife return home, but she refused. His statement that he gave her no cause to desert him was substantiated by several witnesses. Attorney Urner G. Carl represented the plaintiff, while Attorney Peter J. Carpentieri was counsel for the defendant.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Marie Adeline Walker filed suit for divorce from Walter H. Walker on grounds of desertion, non-support, and infidelity. The couple, wed in January, 1935, lived together only six months, according to the bill of complaint, docketed by Attorney George W. Legge.

Mrs. Walker declares that they lived with her parents at 109 Race street and that her husband contributed "nothing whatever" to her support. He finally deserted her in August, 1935, she charges, adding that a co-respondent will be named at the court hearing. She asks that her maiden name of True be restored.

Walker, said to be a resident of West Virginia, is to be notified of the suit by publication.

U. S. Supplies Shells For Japan's War, Ministers Told

More than half of the munitions used by Japan in its ruthless war on China are furnished by the United States, members of the Ministerial Union of Cumberland heard at their monthly meeting yesterday at Central YMCA.

The speaker was Arthur E. Hungerford, of Baltimore, a representative of the Church Committee for China Relief. He voiced a plea for financial aid to relieve suffering in China, declaring that "three cents a day will save a life."

The ministers endorsed the relief program, recommended it to the Federation of Church Women, and promised full co-operation.

Mr. Hungerford said that the war seemed to have reached a "dead-end" at present. Japan is hampered by financial difficulties, he pointed out.

The Baltimore man spoke in the place of Superintendent of Schools Charles L. Kopp, who was unable to attend on account of illness. Devotions were conducted by the Rev. E. S. Price, pastor of Second Baptist church.

A guest at the session was Dr. Elmer U. Hoenes, former president of Shenandoah college, Dayton, Va.

FIRST CHILD AT 73—Men who become fathers after passing the allotted span of three score years and ten are uncommon enough, but Charles Harry Brubb, 727 Bedford street, has the unusual distinction of having become a father for the first time at the age of 73. He is shown here with his little daughter Cathleen Edna, who was born on Good Friday and who now weighs twelve pounds and seven ounces. The baby has her father's blue eyes and the red hair of her mother, Mrs. Verlinda Grubb, who is 37. Mr. Grubb is a retired lumberman and grocer. He has been married three times. Careful Maintenance of Camps Ordered by State Health Board

Camping grounds and picnic locations along Maryland's miles of highway are going to be safe for the tourist this year if the State Department of Health knows anything about it.

Rigid rules affecting the maintenance of all camps and picnic grounds in Maryland have been put in effect by the health department which aims to make sure that such centers meet necessary sanitary requirements.

And it won't be long now until Cumberland families will be loading their families into their automobiles and setting forth on happy trips on picturesque roads. Its lots of fun but state department heads realize that one cup of unsanitary drinking water can often lead to disastrous results.

See Seal First
That's why Mr. R. H. Riley, department director, is advising all summer travelers not to stop at camps where the placard bearing the seal of the State of Maryland is not prominently displayed.

That seal is the symbol of security, he states. It means that the camp ground has been duly inspected and meets the necessary sanitary and healthful requirements.

Dr. Riley explained that no camp of picnic ground in Maryland that is used for six days or longer and that accommodates ten or more persons may be operated without a permit from the State Department of Health. Applications are usually made in the early spring so that the required inspections may be made and any needed improvements may be gotten under way before the season opens.

Flies Are Taboo
To be duly certified, each camp must comply with the regulations prescribed by the State Board of Health with regard to the water supply, toilet facilities, disposal of sewage, garbage and other waste; protection of foods sold on the premises from pollution and from flies; sources of supply and methods of handling milk, cream and ice cream; and, the general cleanliness of buildings and grounds.

Here are some of the specific requirements. You can take a look around and see whether they have been met.

Water Supply: The drinking water must conform in quality to United States Treasury Department Standards. The use of a common drinking cup is prohibited. Drinking fountains must be of an approved sanitary type. Wells or springs must be more than 200 feet away from privies or cesspools. Construction must be such as to prevent surface drainage.

Sewerage: Privies or other toilet facilities must be of an approved type, and must be maintained in a sanitary condition. Adequate facilities must be provided for washing hands. The use of common towels is prohibited. Sewage and other waste must be disposed of in such a manner as not to create a nuisance or be a menace to health.

Mosquito Protection Required
Premises: Buildings and grounds must be kept in a neat and sanitary condition. Care must be taken to protect against flies and mosquitoes. Garbage must be kept in metal cans with fly-tight metal lids and must be disposed of in an approved manner, preferably by burning or burying. Receptacles for the disposal of other waste such as paper, etc., must be maintained at convenient locations and the contents disposed of promptly by incineration or other approved methods.

Protection of Food from Contamination: Premises where food is handled must be satisfactorily lighted and ventilated. Rooms in which food is prepared, and if practicable, those in which it is served, must be screened, or other means must be provided to prevent access of flies to food. Scrupulous cleanliness must be followed in washing utensils in which foods are cooked or served.

Operating Permits: Permits must be removed each season and are not interchangeable. A permit for the current year must be on display at all times during the operation of the resort.

John Lynn's Condition Reported Critical

The condition of John G. Lynn, president of the Kenneweg Company, was reported "critical" by Memorial hospital attendants last night. Mr. Lynn was stricken with coronary thrombosis last Monday at his office.

He apparently rallied last week, but suffered a relapse yesterday.

Junior Chamber Changes Name; Plans Activity

Eighty-five Paid Up As Charter Members, Treasurer Reveals

Nearly 100 men attended the organization meeting of the Junior Association of Commerce last night in the Fort Cumberland hotel ballroom.

L. Leslie Helmer, president of the new organization, gave a short talk on the aims and purposes of the group and outlined several projects which might be sponsored this year, including city beautification, promotion of major sport events here, and aid to the Community Chest.

Many suggestions came from the membership regarding projects which could be taken up as the organization progresses.

It was voted to revise the name of the organization, making it the Junior Association of Commerce instead of Junior Chamber of Commerce in order to avoid confusion with the senior Chamber of Commerce.

John M. McAlpine, treasurer, announced that eighty-five paid memberships have been received.

Mr. Helmer explained in his talk that the Junior Association of Commerce is a training ground for young men toward civic and commercial leadership.

"It provides a vehicle of collective activity through which the younger men of the community can address themselves to a program of accomplishment for the city and to study economic problems that affect the welfare of the nation as a whole," he said.

The first organization of the kind was founded in St. Louis in 1915. The movement has grown steadily since then until today there are more than 300 chapters in cities ranging in population from 2,000 to 1,000,000.

Cumberland's membership is expected to pass the 100 mark within a few weeks.

Alleged Con Man Lodged in Jail; Bond Set at $500

Wittie H. Mullen, charged with fleeing a number of Cumberland business men by billing them for advertising in a fake benefit program, was lodged in the county jail yesterday afternoon in default of $500 bond.

The specific charge brought against the Clarksburg resident in Trial Magistrate's court yesterday by the State's attorney's office was the obtaining of $7.50 from the Ford Drug stores under false pretenses.

Officers say that their prisoner, also known as Woody Mullen, has worked his racket in a number of nearby states. His racket, they say, is to call upon a business man, show him a benefit program with an advertisement of his printed in it, and "remind" him that the account is long overdue.

Often the business man bit, was probably ashamed of himself for having forgotten about the whole thing. Police have been laying in wait for Mullen, however, for some time. His case will be heard by the October grand jury. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr., yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo G. Reichert, 122 Frederick street, announce the birth of a son last night at Allegany hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Wolford, 949 Maryland avenue, announce the birth of a son yesterday afternoon at Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Manus E. McGeady, 550 East 38th street, Baltimore, announce the birth of a son Friday. Mr. and Mrs. McGeady are former residents of Cumberland.

Mayor in New York, Irvine Heads Council

Police and Fire Commissioner Harry Irvine presided at yesterday's session of the City Council in the absence of Mayor Thomas W. Koon, who is in New York attending the U. S. Conference of Mayors.

Three bids for a one-ton panel truck to be used as the police patrol wagon were received by the Council and referred to Commissioner Irvine.

The bids were received from the St. George Motor Company, $703 for a ton truck, and $738 for a 1½ ton truck; Spoer's Garage, Inc., $879.16; and Steinla Motor and Transportation Company, Inc., $823.23.

The Henry Hart Post, No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was granted permission to sell poppies May 27.

Maryland Troops Study Road Maps

Motorized Maneuvers Biggest Ever Tried

Officers of the Twenty-Ninth Division Staff are already busy planning the routes by which 200 trucks, station wagons and ambulances will roll southward on Aug. 5 carrying Maryland troops toward a Virginia battle ground.

At the same time hundreds of other trucks will be moving southward through Maryland from Pennsylvania for the First Army maneuvers and the biggest sham battle on American soil since the World war.

It will be the largest motorized movement of troops ever made through Maryland. Preliminary plans call for Cumberland's Company G to follow Route 28 to Romney, W. Va., and thence east on Route 50 through Winchester and Middleburg.

Army men are taking special care to get precision timing on this historic troop movement. All movements will be made by daylight, and will be arranged so that ordinary traffic on the highways will not be blocked.

Youth Shot by Brother Reported Much Better

John Imes, the 22-year-old Woodcock Hollow youth who was accidentally shot in the back Sunday afternoon by his elder brother, was reported "doing fine" at Allegany hospital last night.

Young Imes and his brother, Douglas, 29, were returning home from a target shooting session at the Western Maryland Railway dam when the younger brother started to run. While both men were racing toward their cabin Douglas slipped and lurched against a gate post, causing his .22 rifle to discharge in his brother's back.

The frightened man brought his brother to the hospital with the aid of a neighbor, Joe Thomas. Attendants said the wound was not serious. The elder brother told state police he "was certain he had unloaded his gun."

Miss Mary C. Coleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Coleman, 309 Harrison street, was named business manager of "Damogel," prize-winning campus publication. Miss Coleman has been an active member of the staff.

Both girls are graduates of Girls Central high school in the class of 1936.

Policemen Get Book of Rules To Guide Them

New Orders Make Cop Half-Saint And Half-Lawyer

The forty-nine policemen who take care of Cumberland's some 40,000 inhabitants now have little rule books full of do's and don'ts tucked carefully away in their uniform pockets.

The distribution of such rule books is common in all well-disciplined departments and the codes always aptly illustrate why a policeman is supposed to be a conglomeration of patron saint and a Philadelphia lawyer.

Cumberland has a small but mobile police force with each officer being responsible for over 800 persons, if you want to figure it out arithmetically. However, Chief Constable Eyerman has pointed out that a small unit of good men can be handled far better than a large force of unwieldy men.

Attitudes Change
The attitude that a policeman was just a fellow who couldn't get any other job has pretty well passed out of the picture in the last few years.

More and more, it is being conceded that policemen are pretty important people in the community—a feeling built up partly due to the efforts of the FBI and partly to the toning up processes that have been under way in municipal police departments in the last few years.

Policemen are people who are obliged to meddle with the troubles of other people. It is understandable, therefore, that a code book such as was released Sunday would rigidly lay down the law in the matter of personal conduct.

In the matter of conduct, there is actually little difference between a good officer and a reputable minister. Both, at their best, represent the best conduct attainable. Both the minister and the policeman are supposed to be an example to other people to emulate.

Not only are officers supposed to be "good" according to the rule book, but they are also supposed to be intelligent. A person who skims through the rule book learns the officers are supposed to be familiar with the city ordinances and especially with ordinances affecting their own particular type of work.

Officers, in brief, should be familiar with the law.

Must Know Laws
And today, many officers are familiar with the law. Many of them have tucked away in their heads and if they don't they know where they can lay their finger on it and such a statute in short order.

Specialists in the field of police work are all agreed today that the rank crime, as it used to exist, is really hit the skids in the last few years. Pointing this out, they inquire what has happened to the old time bank robbers and swindlers and the gangs of outlaws who made a business of operating rackets in their various phases.

These experts will tell you that these operators outside the law have been busted. And the reason for this, they declare, is that the police have been more efficient.

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, always reiterating that the national success of his department would never have been possible if it hadn't been for the police in the cities throughout the country and the policemen who make up those departments.

Now, officers not only have the most up-to-date equipment to carry on their work, but also attend special schools where the peaks of police efficiency are explained and illustrated to them.

A spirit of cooperation that has built one big police department out of the United States instead of separate departments has been accomplished.

Needs Newspaper Cooperation
Not only do the departments work together today, but they ask for expect cooperation from other outside sources such as the newspapers and the radio.

In the code distributed to Cumberland department members a booklet prepared by the Board of Civil Service Commissioners and Police Commissioner and Police Chief notes that it is necessary that the good will of the newspaper world be maintained.

The code declares that the close related work of the police department and the newspaper organization "should be done in the spirit of cooperation."

Mr. Royal P.-T.A. Installs Officers
Installation of officers and a musical program highlighted the meeting of the Mt. Royal Parent-Teacher association last night.

Officers inducted include Leo Milholland, president; Thomas P. H. Sweeney, secretary; and George J. Miller, treasurer.

The musical program included selections by Jack E. Pratt, of the local high school faculty, and a vibraphone solo by the Mt. Royal chorus of Allegany high school.
